On a number of occasions nuggets were found in California by men who were not looking for them. A man sitting on a boulder at Pilot Hill, El Dorado county, was idly chipping it with a small hammer when his eye caught the glint of gold. The boulder yielded $5,000.

Between the showers last Thursday evening Winchester Legion managed to squeeze in a six inning game with Medford A. A. of the Mystic Valley Twilight League. Winchester put the game on ice in the first inning when Ryan, Sullivan and Hatch each singled and Kendrick and Ainsley were passed. Four runs were pushed over by Winchester in the inning. Winchester scored one more run in the third, a single by Hatch starting the works.

Medford scored one run in the first inning, but after that never threatened the home plate. Two hits were all that could be garnered from Durant's offerings.

Winchester Legion 10, Somerville B. B. C. 1.

The Legion boys expected a tougher fight than they had last Saturday when they went up against the Somerville Baseball Club. They defeated them 10 to 1.

Although they had their usual strong lineup with the exception of A. Graham they were unable to do anything with Mark Kelley's hooks and in two innings did not show up well in the field.

The Winchester boys were there with the stick and that is what won the game for them. Sullivan, Lane and Quigley had a good day at the bat. "Sully" getting a pretty triple in the eighth inning.

Five hits were all Somerville could get off of Kelley, Corbin and Lynch each getting two and Laird one. Ryan and Hatch pulled in a pretty double in the third inning cutting off a possible chance of a score.

Kelley Again
Before a good sized crowd, somewhat kept down however by the showers, Winchester gave the league leaders a nice trimming to the tune of 9 to 1. The Wakefield crew, a hard-hitting bunch, too, went down one, two, three every inning before the batters of Mark Kelley. On the other hand the Winchester boys landed right on the offerings of Hall, the Wakefield pitcher and peppered them all over the lot. Doherty led in the hitting for Winchester, getting three hits out of three trips to the bat. One of these was a long triple in the eighth which Kelley duplicated when he followed Edgely at the bat.

Winchester star has a slugging battery in Kelley and Doherty. The Legion boys scored one each in the second, third and fourth innings and then made sure of the game by tucking away four runs in the sixth on three hits and two passes. In the eighth Doherty tripled and Kelley brought him in with a twin to Doherty's hit.

In the eighth Wakefield made their lone tally. Downer singling and Hall bringing him in with another hit. These two hits in the eighth and Glenon's single in the fifth were the only hits Wakefield got in the game.

Kendrick shone when he went over under the willow trees after a foul fly.

In the fifth inning of the Medford game, "Charlie" Flaherty in throwing to third to catch a runner snapped his arm out of kilter. It is doubtful if he will be able to play again this season. This is regretted by all, for it sure is a treat to see "Charlie" work and watch the team seemingly pop right up when he gets after them. That victory cost the Legion boys a lot.

Although the Somerville B. B. C. made five errors in the Saturday game many of the spectators were heard to remark that they were a snappy outfit and could handle the ball.

It was a case of not enough on Laird's offerings and too much Kelley. The errors the Somerville boys made in the field should not affect their batting. That is where they lost out as five hits win a game only once in a while.

This same Somerville team has pinned more than a few defeats on some strong outfits the past season, the Boston Tugers being their victims more than once.

Wakefield was a snappy-looking outfit in their regular lineup on the holiday. They played errorless ball behind their pitcher, but could do nothing at the bat. It was a treat for the fans to watch such a hard-hitting bunch pop up easy once all through the game. Wakefield had their regular lineup with the exception of Longman.

"Eddie" Doherty, the Winchester catcher, batted for a thousand the holiday and 1 shotted close to 500 for the season to date.

The strong J. A. Cigar Co. outfit is here with us tomorrow. They have been presenting a strong lineup all through the season. Stoneham was one of their victims a short while ago. The following Saturday they go to Woburn.

Sunday, the day after tomorrow, the Winchester team goes to Lexington to take on the Legion team of that town. Last Sunday they defeated the Dillboy Post of the Boston Twilight League 20 to 3, so Winchester must go primed for a hard battle.

Monday night Winchester goes to Malden in a league game and hopes to crawl up in the standing a few notches.

Thursday evening, July 12, at 6.15 on Manchester Field the Malden team and Winchester will cross bats for their fourth encounter.

Sunday at 2.30, two trucks will be in readiness at the Winchester Common to take over a load of royal roasts to Lexington. Round trip tickets will be fifty cents. Fill the trucks and support the team.

Every one turn out tomorrow to see the J. A. Cigar outfit. They have a young pitcher with them who has a world of stuff, so a good game is anticipated.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB PARTY

The auction bridge party and dance which was held on Saturday evening at the Winchester Boat Club was an unqualified success. It is to be regretted that the guests did not arrive earlier because it was scheduled to have the auction bridge party begin promptly at eight o'clock but owing to late arrivals the playing did not commence until eight thirty.

At ten o'clock refreshments were served and from ten thirty until twelve the time was devoted to dancing. Music was furnished by members of the St. James Theatre orchestra. Popular classical numbers were rendered during the card playing, the musicians being placed in the room at the end of the dance hall. The orchestra also played while refreshments were served and for the dancing.

Two hundred persons were present and much favorable comment was made regarding the improvements which have been made to the Club-house. Prizes were given to the two winners and two men holding the highest scores. All of the chances on the radio set were sold and Mrs. Steward Newton was selected to make the drawing. Mr. J. A. Grant of Arlington held the lucky number.

The officers of the Club are deeply indebted to the committee of women who had the affair in charge. It is really remarkable that upon such short notice they were able to have such a representative number of Winchester people present. The committee was composed of:

Mrs. H. Milton Cummings
Mrs. William S. Davis
Mrs. E. Haver Kelley
Mrs. Horatio C. Robinson
Mrs. Frank Robinson
Mrs. Arthur W. Toeman

Late Saturday afternoon quantities of gladioli were over to the Club from the Winchester Conservatory, the manager stating that he heard there was to be a party at the Boat Club and they would like to donate flowers for the occasion.

The committee, as well as the officers of the Club, wish to express their appreciation to the Caterer, the Club, for their courtesy in allowing the Club the use of the card tables and also to Mr. T. Price Wilson, proprietor of the Winchester Star, for the valuable assistance given them through notices in the paper. In fact, everybody has been most generous and the spirit of unselfish cooperation has been delightful.

Numerous requests were received on Saturday night, at the close of the entertainment, also during the present

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN

Winchester's two summer playgrounds were opened to the children on Monday for this season. A change has been made this year in one instance, the playground on Manchester Field being moved to Palmer street, where all the Manchester Field apparatus has been set up. How the innovation will work out has not yet been determined. The Palmer street field is very rough, and whether its location will prove as acceptable as Manchester Field or not has not been shown.

The Leonard Field playground jumped into instant favor, it being reported that 85 children were present on the opening day. Tuesday's rain of course cut the number down. Palmer street has the advantage of including within its limits the new bathing beach on Wedge Pond, and also the new town tennis courts, and these features may increase its popularity over the former playground on Manchester Field.

The instructors at the Palmer street playground are Mr. Philip LeDuc and Miss Doris Bowman, and at Leonard Field are Mr. Joseph Mathews and Miss Marion Bowman.

Little Joseph, aged five, was greatly pained because the goldfish in the aquarium, though very much alive, could make no noise. He spent much time trying to teach them to sing and talk. Desiring to learn wherein Samson's strength lay, the lords of the Philistines bribed Delliah to discover the secret. Habits of Biblical Times.
As no eating utensils were used at table in Biblical times, washing hands before and after meals was a desirable habit. Because of the dust and the heat of the climate, washing of the feet on entering a house was an act of respect to the host and of refreshment to the traveler. It was an expected act of respect and honor when the act was performed by the master of the house.

PRIZE STORIES

Public School Children Who Won Contest

A prize story contest was held this summer in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades in the public schools. The names of the prize winners were printed in the Star of June 15. This paper now gives to its readers the stories themselves. They are published weekly until all 12 have been printed.

Second Prize in Public School Prize Story Contest

A small Scotch terrier ran wildly down the street. His hair was tousled and plastered with mud while a look of frantic appeal shone in his roving eyes. The cause of his plight—a huge, grim-looking bull dog, standing stiff and rigid, a few hundred yards behind, was lapping his drooping chops and seeming very much satisfied with his work. On and on ran the terrier, and, suddenly turning sharply ran up a path bordered by magnificent Hawthorne bushes that led to a little white house.

The door stood ajar and in bounded the dog, to be greeted by a joyous cry of "Bobby, oh Bobby." A little woman ran toward him with outstretched arms that soon encircled him.

"Bobby," she murmured, "you have been fighting; oh, what shall I do with you, Bobby?" Then her glance rested on his collar. The plate had been wrenched off on one side in the skirmish. She handled it carefully and in doing so turned the plate on the other side. Upon it an address had been delicately engraved.

The woman turned pale and grasped the dog more tightly, saying, "Bobby, we do belong to each other, and oh, I love you so."

She really didn't own Bobby. He had come to her, on a cold winter night some years ago and she had cared for him and sheltered him. As there had been no name or address upon his collar she had advertised in the local paper but had received no replies to her numerous inquiries. And, now, to think that there had been an address, severely hidden from view, oh, it was too much. The Hawthorne lady was she called on account of the Hawthorne plants that she raised a doll was a quaint little woman, but having a certain air of dignity that was very charming.

With a sigh she smoothed the folds of her dress and donning her best bonnet surveyed her own reflection in the fashionably mirror above the mantelpiece. Sadly she called Bobby and together they went out of the house. She walked meekly while Bobby frisked about gayly at her side. On and on they walked through the center of the little town and up the long hill that led to "Three Towers Manor," the estate of Mr. W. J. Hanna, the wealthiest resident of Dexter. As they neared the "manor," the Hawthorne lady walked with slow and heavier steps, and Bobby, sensing something wrong, trotted along very quietly.

"Is Mr. Hanna in?" the Hawthorne lady was inquiring in a trembling voice of the pompous butler who stood in the doorway.

He answered her with a look of cold disapproval upon his haughty brow. "Mr. Hanna is not present engaged, but (with a condescending look), you may wait in the hall."

So saying, he stepped aside and ushered her in. Bobby closely following, slowly and cautiously and according to scent danger. It was a beautiful house. A look of awe and admiration spread over the face of the little woman as she passed from room to room viewing the magnificence about her. A heavy step was heard and from the drawing room strode a very tall and impressive looking man. His face was stern and his black eyes seemed to flash fire as they looked upon poor, trembling little Bobby.

"Good-day, madame," he thundered. "I am Mr. Hanna, can I do anything for you?"

"I—I have brought your dog, sir," faltered the Hawthorne lady. "I have had him for many years, not being able to find his owner, until today when I discovered your address upon the other side of his collar plate."

"You did, that's strange. It must have been the doing of that old man of whom I bought Hamlet's collar."

Mr. Hanna, although not a very kind man, was fair in all respects. He saw at once that the woman cared greatly for Bobby so he thought of a plan by which she might have a chance to keep him.

"We will see who is the rightful master," he said. "You madam, will kindly place the dog in the center of the hall, while I proceed to this end." The Hawthorne lady, gently, but firmly forced Bobby to his position, and then repaired to her own at the opposite end of the hall from which Mr. Hanna was standing.

"Now," said that gentleman, when James (indicating with his finger the butler) counts four, we will both call the dog. If he goes to you, he is yours; if he comes to me, he is mine. All ready James? James put on an air of great importance as he began to count, one, two, three, four.

"Hamlet, come here, at once," commanded Mr. Hanna in a stern voice.

"Bobby," was all the Hawthorne lady said.

To the sharp commands Bobby cringed and appeared ailing, but when he heard his mistress' voice calling him so entreatingly, he went to her at once cowering quite joyously.

Mr. Hanna looked quite crestfallen, but said, "you are the rightful master, madame, he is yours."

SOUTHERN RHODESIA: RECRUIT TO AFRICA'S "UNITED STATES"

Entrance of Southern Rhodesia into the Union of South Africa will supply still another parallel between the United States of America and Africa's "United States." It is a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society, in regard to the region, made famous by Cecil Rhodes, which has practically completed arrangements for casting its lot with the other provinces of the Union.

Just as the United States, a generation or so ago, reached out to the west and made its territories, one after another, into states, continues the history of the Union of South Africa in reaching northward—it is in that direction that the course of African civilization is being laid. It is in that direction that the frontiers of the British Empire are being pushed. Technically, the Union has no definite claim on the British colonies, protectorates or regions more or less under British control that lie to the north; but it has boasted that it is "heir to all South Africa," and in adding Southern Rhodesia it seems to be collecting the first installment of its patrimony.

Like Our Prairie States Rhodesia is in many ways in a condition of development comparable to that of some of the western prairie states when they entered our Union. Only trunk line railroads have been constructed for the most part, and a close network of the well developed country is yet to come. Highways, too, are still few and poor. Production and markets are largely undeveloped, and the farmers and ranchmen necessarily live the somewhat hard and primitive lives of the frontier. In recent years, however, Victoria (capital of Southern Rhodesia), Bulawayo, Salisbury, and other towns have developed into modern communities with all the conveniences of the Western World.

Still other similarities between Southern Rhodesia and some portions of the United States lie in physical conditions and climate. The country is a plateau region, dry and hot during the southern summer, but with a reasonable rainfall usually, during other portions of the year. But at times it has its severe droughts which parch crops and decimate herds.

An Entity in the Company In one way Southern Rhodesia is without parallel in the United States, for nothing approaching ownership of an empire by a commercial corporation has ever come up in our history.

In fact, in the extent to which such control has gone, Southern Rhodesia, together with Northern Rhodesia and adjacent territories, stands alone even in British experience, which contains the stirring history of the East India Company's exploits in India. The territory, now only half a million square miles in extent, became, through concessions from a native chief, a royal charter from the British crown, and conquest, virtually the private property of the British South Africa Company, of which Cecil Rhodes was the moving spirit. The company, as might be expected of any developmental enterprise, sold land, leased mineral rights, and built railways and other engineering works. But besides all this it actually governed the country, though in late years the imperial government has assumed more and more control over the company's governmental activities.

Source of Ophi's Gold

The known presence of gold in considerable quantities drew the attention of Rhodes and his associates to Southern Rhodesia. The precious metal is scattered all over the country, though only in a limited number of places. Its development, however, is profitable. Some students assert that this is the lost source of gold in the days of Solomon—gold which was brought through the Arabian port of Ophiur and so came to be called "gold of Ophiur." Very extensive ruins of great buildings solidly constructed of carefully hewn granite blocks exist near Victoria and are said to be the forts and temples and workshops of alien (perhaps Phoenician) gold seekers of the remote past. The ruins extend to a port on the Indian Ocean, in what is now Portuguese East Africa, from which the gold was probably shipped.

Now a mining, ranching, and agricultural country, Southern Rhodesia may also have a future as a manufacturing region. On its northern border flows the Zambezi River with its Victoria Falls of great volume, more than twice the height of Niagara, promising abundant power. Not far from the falls are extensive coal fields.

Natives National Topsy

The natives of Southern Rhodesia, numbering some 800,000, are in the anomalous position of having no political status. They have drifted, or like Topsy, have "just grown" into their present condition. They have never been formally made British subjects though British control has been extended over the country. They might almost be considered subjects of the British South Africa Company. The company has all along laid claim to ownership of the lands on which the natives live except the areas recently set apart as reservations. The white population of the country numbers about 30,000.

Southern Rhodesia is roughly circular, with a diameter of about 450 miles. Its entrance will add to the Union an area approximately equal to that of California, second largest state in the United States. The center of Southern Rhodesia is about the same distance south of the equator as the city of Mexico is north of that line.

The articles donated for the benefit of the W. S. D. St. Mary's Parish, were awarded as follows: Pair of blankets, Rev. N. J. Merritt; Five dollar gold piece, L. Noonan; Ton of Coal, Archie O'Connell; Barrel Flour, Mrs. S. Deloria; Silk Puff, W. J. Maloney; Hand Bag, Frances Doherty; Boudoir Cap, Margaret Cramp-

WINCHESTER LAUNDRIES

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of: T. Parker Clarke, general chairman; Idella A. Wallace, treasurer; Alice A. Fenton, secretary; R. C. Wallace, chairman dinner committee; H. C. Pickering, chairman transportation committee; and E. P. Downer, chairman sports committee. The judges were Betty Smith, chairman; John G. Perry and James De Luca.

It was a wonderful day, for with clear sky and a light west wind blowing, the careful plans transpired one after another without a hitch, and gave the workers of The Winchester Laundries, Inc., something to think and talk about for a long time to come.

History of the Company

When Arthur T. Downer came to Winchester twenty-five years ago, he had $500 of his own and $1000 which he borrowed. He paid $1000 for the poorly equipped laundry that two young men had been running at a loss for several months and with the remaining $500 he had to finance the business and support his family. This was not what any one would call a hopeful outlook.

As the years went on, his visions grew. Very easily he determined to create an organization that would function without having all the burdens of leadership resting upon one man. To make himself unnecessary has been his purpose from the beginning. For that reason he has surrounded himself with men and women who share his vision and who have prepared themselves to carry the business still farther forward.

Not content with rendering laundry service in one place, Mr. Downer established a plant in Lowell in 1918. In 1920 in the midst of the depression, he bought a plant in Waltham and will merge this with the new plant soon to be erected in Newton.

Alone, of course, he could have done little. At his side from the very beginning and during all the darkest days that followed stood his conservative, dependable, trustworthy, loyal associate, John G. Perry, the president of the company. His part was not to play in the glare of the spotlight, but to remain quietly in the wings, where he rendered services the value of which cannot be overestimated.

Supporting these two leaders were men and women who felt the spirit of the leaders and showed by the work they did how eager they were to make the dream of an ideal laundry come true. The private soldiers did their share when they carried out the commands of their officers. To them, too, must the present day members of the organization pay tribute.

Dr. Harold A. Gale, president of the Winchester chapter of the Unitarian Laymen's League, has been notified that the chapter is entitled to select two delegates to the third annual institute for religious education arranged by the league at the Isles of Shoals, 10 miles off the coast of Portsmouth, N. H. Beginning on July 28 and continuing until Aug. 11, this institute will endeavor to train and inspire a new group of Unitarian laymen to take an active part in the direction of the schools of religion in their churches.

gregorian and julian calendars.

The length of the mean Gregorian year may be set down at 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, 12 seconds. The Gregorian calendar was introduced into England and her colonies in 1752, at which time the equinox had retrograded eleven days since the council of Nice in A. D. 325, when the festival of Easter was established and the equinox occurred on March 21; hence September 3, 1752, was called September 14, and at the same time the commencement of the local year was changed from March 25 to January 1, so that the year 1751 lost the months of January and February and the first 24 days of March. The difference between the Julian and Gregorian calendar is now 12 days. Russia and the Greek church still employ the Julian calendar for civil and ecclesiastical purposes.

HOW SUGAR IS MADE

When the price of sugar fluctuates every American home is affected. The process by which this universal sweetener is obtained is described by William Joseph Showalter, in a communication to the National Geographic Society. In harvesting, the cane-cutters first strip the blades from the stalk; then they cut off the upper part of the latter, which is known as the "trash," and the remaining liquid is the "black strap" molasses of commerce. The principle of producing sugar is embodied in the fact that water can hold only a given amount of sucrose in solution. As the water is driven off of the cane juice the latter finally reaches a stage where there is not enough left to hold all the sugar dissolved, and as evaporation proceeds, the sugar, deprived of its water, is compelled to pass out of solution into crystal form.

Sugar by the Ton

The main body of the stalk is cut down and loaded into the ox-carts. In these it is hauled to the field station and placed in the waiting cars. Each car contains about twenty tons of cane. The train is made up of thirty cars. This makes six hundred tons of cane to the trainload, and eight to ten trainloads a day are required to keep one of the larger centrals in operation for twenty-four hours.

When the cane reaches the mill in the most modern plants, there is a large body of water, into a cradle and made fast thereto. A button is pressed and the cradle rocks over on its side. The side of the cradle swings down and the cane falls into a deep trench, at the bottom of which is an endless steel belt.

Through sets of rollers, the cane is carried up to the crushing rolls. A man stands before a keyboard and by pressing the several electric buttons turns regular speeds of the rollers. The rollers, which disrupt all the little sap cells and release a great stream of foamy juice. Then the crushed cane is sent through a series of rollers, each time under heavy pressure.

Each set of rollers the cane passes through presses it harder than the one before. The last set may exert a pressure of a million pounds, and when the "bagasse," as the crushed cane is called, issues from them it is almost as dry as tinder. It is carried by conveyors to the fire-boxes of the boilers, where it is used as fuel in generating the steam that drives the machinery of the mill.

The juice of crushed cane flows through the last set of rollers at a speed of seven miles a day. The juice is then pressed out of the cane by a series of rollers. The last set may exert a pressure of a million pounds, and when the "bagasse," as the crushed cane is called, issues from them it is almost as dry as tinder. It is carried by conveyors to the fire-boxes of the boilers, where it is used as fuel in generating the steam that drives the machinery of the mill.

Imagine the cane-rolls fourteen feet in diameter, with ends sixteen inches long, three inches deep, and two inches thick on their face. Each roll is made of a series of rollers, which disrupt all the little sap cells and release a great stream of foamy juice. Then the crushed cane is sent through a series of rollers, each time under heavy pressure.

This syrup is boiled again, after which it goes to the crystallizer, a huge revolving tank in which a seed bed of crystals from the vacuum pan has been prepared. There it gradually deposits its sweetness on these crystals, and when all has given up all that is worth waiting for, the mixture goes back to the centrifugal machines, where its adhering syrup is hurled out from this second lot of crystals. The process is repeated again, and by this time all the available sweetness has been extracted, and the remaining liquid is the "black strap" molasses of commerce.

Keeps On Rust.
A few drops of linseed oil applied with a cloth to the outside of the gate or the inside of the oven will keep the stove from rusting and will make it easier to start for.

DR. ZUEBLIN CRITICIZED

Suffield, Conn.

Suffield, Ct., July 12.—Guarantors of the Chautauqua and members of former service men's organizations were aroused yesterday over a lecture in the Chautauqua tent in which Dr. Charles Zueblin made alleged disparaging remarks about American doughboys in general. The guarantors say the Chautauqua will never come to Suffield again.

During Dr. Zueblin's talk he criticized the attempts of the allies to collect reparations from Germany, and said that Germany could not and would not pay them.

In the midst of the part where he belittled the deeds of the A. E. F. in Belleau Woods, State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, a staunch supporter of the Chautauqua, jumped to his feet and declared that Dr. Zueblin was not telling the whole truth. One of the statements that drew retort was in effect that the Americans won over a "a group of poor, tired-out German soldiers."

Mr. Alcorn also stated that Dr. Zueblin was not telling the facts about the present Germany, the decline of the mark and German reparations. The lecturer's surprise at the interruption was clearly evident. After seeming at a loss for a moment he inquired if Mr. Alcorn had been in Europe. The answer to this also gave the speaker a shock. Mr. Alcorn replied that he had spent last summer in Europe and had studied the situation at first hand. A cross-fire of questions and answers then took place between the two, in which Mr. Alcorn was quite evidently the winner as to the Belleau Woods conflict.

DR. ZUEBLIN DENIES PRO-GERMANISM

Misquoted

The Boston Herald has received the following letter from Dr. Charles Zueblin:

To the Editor of the Herald:
Will you be good enough to print a reply to the report sent you from Suffield, Ct., about my address before the Chautauqua there. The report is false in almost every particular. It was obviously sent in by Mr. Alcorn, who caused the disturbance. He is said in the report to be "a staunch supporter of the Chautauqua." The gentleman is one of a group of malcontents who have been trying long before our appearance there to prevent the signing of a contract for next year in the face of the fact that the Chautauqua is attended by a large and unusually intelligent audience.

I heard of no antagonism by guarantors or ex-service men, but I did hear from responsible residents of the next town, where there was no disturbance, that Mr. Alcorn is a candidate for office, likely to seek the legislature. Incidentally the lecture has been given daily since June 1 without criticism.

Your correspondent quite rightly protected himself by using the words: "Alleged disparaging remarks about American doughboys at Belleau Woods and Americans in general."

I was unjustified in my praise of the miraculous work of our unprepared boys at Chateau Thierry and Belleau Woods. I do not now see how they won so marvelously with their limited training. Everybody knows that all the European troops were war weary, and it is no discredit to our men. I did not use the words "a group of poor tired-out German soldiers." I said "tired but tired German soldiers" in my effort to be exact and not whitewash our soldiers who won against incredible odds and need no apologies from those who did not go over the top.

I did not criticize "the attempts of the allies to collect reparations." I said the position that is reported in another column of your paper this morning, on the first page, that France has no right to collect the reparations alone. I also gave the clue to the present difficulty in the Ruhr, which is that Germany is not trying to collect reparations, but to get the German mines for the French steel trust, at the expense of the French people. I was not at all surprised or "shocked" that the interrupter had been in Europe only that having been there, he could distort the conditions, evidently to draw attention to himself after the fashion of the small boy who entertains the girls by standing on his head.

In the next town, Enfield, where the objecter tried to telephone in vain to attract ex-service men on the Fourth of July, it was made clear what inspired the words, "and Americans in general," in today's report. I began the lecture by reference to the Goddess of Liberty who welcomes immigrants in New York harbor, saying that they deserved great praise for having the wisdom to choose this country for their home; I being a native an only an accident, and therefore must demonstrate by my services my loyalty to my native land. Birth is no guarantee of devotion.

May I add to clarify the personal item appended to the report from Suffield, that we have not given up our home in Winchester, and have no intention of doing so. My entire family are in Europe learning the languages in the hope that they may play their part in the peace to which I believe America is destined to lead the world.

The whole burden of this Chautauqua lecture is the thesis that our boys died heroically and idealistically "to make the world safe for democracy" and our only adequate memorial to them is to finish their job. It is very sad that four years after the signing of the peace treaty there is no peace in Europe and that an earnest plea for American participation can be turned to self-glorification.

The lecture criticized was given in Middleboro July 7, Hudson, July 12; and is to be given in Maynard, July 17 and Billerica, July 16; if any one wants to check up on the controversy: Charles Zueblin.

Winchester, Mass.

ALLEN H. WOOD LANDS A 7½ POUNDER AT PIERCE POND, ME., AND BREAKS OWN RECORD

Pierce Pond, Me., in the Dead river region, has again bid for fame in the fishing world for its waters parted with probably the largest squaretail trout caught this year in this country. It weighed 7½ pounds. Pierce Pond has the honors and Boston has the trout.

Allen H. Wood, president of the Wood, Putnam, & Wood Company, is the man who had the great sport of landing the 7½ pound trout on a 5½ ounce fly rod and a dusty miller fly. It is not Mr. Wood's first big trout, for on one occasion he got a seven pounder, but it took him 16 years to break that record.

The fish was 20½ inches long, with a girth of 16 inches, and gave Mr. Wood a royal battle for a little over 20 minutes before his guide, Carl Bean, netted the monster, the skin of which has been sent to a taxidermist at Haynes Landing, Me., to be mounted.

The largest squaretail trout caught in this manner on record so far this year weighed 6 pounds 1 ounce. Last year's record trout caught on the fly weighed 5 pounds 12 ounces.

Mr. Wood's trout was a perfect specimen. It will unquestionably be entered as a prize winner, and bids fair to capture at least one of the handsome prizes offered by Field and Stream, unless some other angler is more fortunate in beating Mr. Wood's record.

The trout was officially weighed by Charles Mitchell, proprietor of Pierce and Camps, shortly after the fish was netted. Mr. Wood was also fortunate enough to catch several good-sized salmon on his visit to Pierce Pond. He says there are plenty of big fellows there still to be caught by those who know how.

Winchester Radio fans were able to "listen in" on one of their fellow townsmen last Tuesday evening when piano solos by F. Perceval Lewis of Washington street were broadcasted from the Shepard Stores Station, Boston. Mr. Lewis played a group of selections, among them the famous "Prelude in C sharp, minor" by Rachmaninoff. He also acted as accompanist for Madame Brown, soprano, and Harold Child, baritone, the latter well known to many Winchester people as a former soloist at the Church of the Epiphany in this town.

WINCHESTER LEGION 6, J. A. CIGAR 3

The J. A.'s with their record of wins visited the Winchester Legion boys, but were forced to take the short end of a 6 to 3 score at Manchester Field last Saturday afternoon. They played a snappy game, but their pitcher's wildness proved costly. Although they gathered 10 hits off O'Neil they could not put the runs across, the Legion boys being right on their toes all the time. Lane turned in a pretty catch in left field after a long run and Mark Kelley gave a snappy exhibition at shortstop. The crowd was small but generous. Let's see a bigger crowd tomorrow and don't forget the boys with the tickets.

Lexington 12, Winchester 6

The strong Stanley Hill Post team of Lexington received the scare of their lives, but finally came out ahead 12 to 6 at Lexington last Sunday.

The Winchester Legionnaires started right in when with two on Lane belted one into the tennis courts scoring the two men, but getting nipped himself at the plate. Lexington shielded it up however in their half. Shields duplicated Lane's hit and he too was caught at the plate by some pretty fielding. Woefer and Shannahan got on by the hit route and Reynolds brought them in with a double. Lexington scored again in the second when Lynch, F. Shay and Shields all singled. In the third Winchester cut loose and on three hits scored four runs and standing Lexington on their heads. Lexington, however, came back in their half and evened it up, three runs tallying as a result of two hits, an error and a base on balls. Then both teams settled down and went along in a clinch until the seventh inning when the fireworks went up. Four hits and an error brought in six runs and the game was on ice for the Lexington comrades.

It was a good game even if we did have to take the short end of it. Fully 200 people were present from Winchester and rooted until the last out was made. A good showing. The players like a big crowd with them and why not give them good backing tomorrow on Manchester Field.

Woburn 4, Winchester 3

Although the Winchester boys battered Colucci all over the lot, getting twice as many hits as Woburn the Legion boys lost a close game at Library Park last Thursday evening.

Right at the start Sullivan singled and Kendrick brought him in with a beautiful double into the autos in centerfield. In the fourth Quigley doubled, stole third and scored on Kelley's long fly. The fifth inning brought another rally when Davies singled and Sullivan belted one over the automobiles, the ground rule holding him on second. Woburn scored one in the third, J. Doherty reaching first on an error and scoring on Caniff's double. In the last inning Caniff reached first on an error. Tanton got on on a fielder's choice, J. Doherty singled and Walsh drove one under the autos in centerfield which Sullivan could not find. Three runs and the game.

Malden 10, Winchester 7

Winchester Legion came through on the short end of a 10 to 7 score at Ferryway Green, Malden last Monday night. Although they staged a desperate rally in the eighth inning they were three short at the close of the game. Winchester started the scoring in the first inning when with Kendrick on base Lane drove one half way to Malden square for a home run. Malden evened it up in their half when with one on O'Connor for Malden drove a ball into the left field crowd for four bases. Malden in the third piled up five runs on four hits and two passes. In the early part of the inning Davies was hit by a hard liner on his right arm and was forced to come out of the box in favor of O'Neil. Although Malden got seven hits in the remaining five innings they scored but three more runs. Winchester scored one run in the seventh on three hits, and in the eighth four more runs came across for the Legion. Lane and Quigley were passed by Kendrick, scoring Lane and then Ralph Hatch tripled cleaning the bases. Ralph then scored on Doherty's long fly to center.

Notes

Davies pitched a nice game at Woburn last Thursday and deserved to win, allowing but five hits. He was strong with the stick, too, getting two nice hits.

Kelley showed the Woburn fans how short stop should be played, covering a lot of territory and making accurate pegs from all positions.

WHIST IN AID OF BOSTON COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Next Thursday evening, July 19th, Santa Maria Court, 150 C. D. A., will conduct its annual Whist and Sale in Lyceum Hall, in aid of the Boston College Building Fund. This the third successive year that the Court has planned a Whist for this cause and it is hoped that the Whist this year will meet with a still more generous response than the Whists of the last two years. This is the third in a series of five annual Whists in aid of the college fund.

The members of the Court are especially desirous of raising a substantial sum this year as in September the Rev. James J. Corrigan, S. J., one of the best known Jesuits in the country, will be a guest of the C. D. A., here in Winchester.

Prizes may be sent to P. G. R., Frances T. Conlon, Miss Mary O'Melia, Mrs. Katherine Lynch or Mrs. Margaret Haley, Committee on Prizes. Mrs. Alice Martin, G. R. is in general charge of arrangements.

The game at Lexington Sunday attracted a host of Winchester fans, there being in the vicinity of two hundred present. It was a good game with the exception of the umpiring. He apparently had a load on his mind and seemed to be calling the plays without looking at them.

Gilligan the Dilboy Post star, playing second for Winchester, talked up to him on several occasions and gave the fans an impression of an argument between Mutt and Jeff. Gilligan is small, but he and Tweet Walsh sure covered the territory in Winchester's midway. Lane broke up a tennis game when his long hit in the first inning landed away out in the tennis courts.

The game Monday night at Malden was the same kind of baseball, both sides whacking the ball all over the field. Lane got a homer when he again landed the ball in the tennis courts at Malden. Hatch also drove on into the courts, but got only to third on it. O'Connor for Malden is called the home-run king and is well named, getting two circuit swats into the left field crowd.

Woburn is scheduled to come here on Tuesday night of next week and Winchester is out to even up the score which is now two for Woburn and one for Winchester.

Winchester goes to Stoneham the following night and there again vows to get some vengeance.

Governor Cox announced Wednesday his selection of the special commission authorized by the Legislature to study the question of relocating the State prison. The Governor stated that he had asked Senator Lewis Parkhurst to serve on the commission, but that he was unable to do so owing to business reasons.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Saabye at the Winchester Hospital, July 10th.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

The man who put off everything until the last minute usually finds that the last minute has troubles of its own.

The end of a perfect day is nice all right, but not to be compared with the end of the winter just passing.

It isn't what you used to be, it is what you are today that counts.

A man who is spending all he earns will soon be spending what he hasn't.

A man may be easy going, but that doesn't mean that it would be easy to get him to go.

Have you heard the new title for Mystic Lake? "The Cocoa Pond." Very appropriate!

The Star learns that "A Lover of Sleep" resting in the neighborhood of Walnut street is now being treated fully. This information will doubtless give gratification to many.

The Gypsies are still at their camp at the South Reservoir. Notice has been served on them to vacate by July 15, when their month is up. Mr. Symmes has posted the camp with this notice, being unable to locate the two men who leased the ground.

It is very probable that under the new law requiring the licensing of all garages (notice of which is published in the issue) a new town office will be required. We have an Inspector of Animals and an Inspector of Stables; now we will need an Inspector of Garages. The new office bids fair to be a very important position.

A medal for our friend Harry Stevens! Residing this summer at Winthrop and attending his business in Boston, he notifies the Elks' committee that he will drive his car up from Winthrop on "Kiddies' Day," take a load of children to the beach, return from Boston in the evening and take them home—after which he has nothing to do but go to his own home in Winthrop. Thanks from the committee Harry. We know they appreciate it.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE

Many complaints are being received by motorists who use the Parkways regarding the children who are bathing at the beaches between Wedgemere and Somerville and who through the roadway soliciting rides in passing cars. In addition to their attempt to stop the motorists, they throw their wet bathing suits on the road in front of the cars and even stand as close as they dare and attempt to hit the drivers with their wet garments.

The nuisance has apparently gone unchecked, and at certain hours of the day the conditions are such that only by careful driving are numerous accidents avoided. These children willfully expose themselves to accident and purposely stand in the roadway to make car drivers slow down to a stop. A refusal to furnish a ride often means a slap in the face with a wet bathing suit, while some groups, who are not soliciting rides, dodge in front of approaching cars, throwing their wet suits under the wheels.

An automobile driver who strikes one of these boys should be held blameless. The menace is growing larger each year, and this summer it is so great that many complaints are being made. A particularly bad stretch is that from Sandy Beach to West Medford and along the river near the old pumping station.

PRIZE STORIES

Public School Children Who Won Contest

A prize story contest was held this summer in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades in the public schools. The names of the 12 winners were printed in the Star of June 15. This paper now gives to its readers the stories themselves. They are published weekly until all 12 have been printed.

THE SECRET DOOR

First Honorable Mention in Public School Prize Story Contest

Sitting on an incline in the land quite a distance from the street stood a very old house. It was very large and built on the English style of architecture. In front of it was a beautiful flower garden filled with the most exquisite flowers and some of the loveliest shrubbery for miles around. Running through the garden was a most delightful little stream which leaped over everything it passed with such glee that it seemed to say, "How happy I am!" Yes, the house though old and shabby was extremely beautiful.

The only inhabitants of the house were Polly, Jack and their spinster aunt.

Polly was a tall, very slim girl with merry black eyes which are continually over running with laughter. She had long jet black hair which hangs in two very tight braids over her shoulders. Her cheeks were a deep, rich color with a tinge of red on each.

Jack, unlike his swarthy sister, was of a medium height and very light and fair. His gray eyes were very dull and expressed a look of sadness and anxiety. His favorite hobby was to creep away by himself and think—mostly about his long wished-for college education.

Miss Stone, who was the children's aunt was a middle-aged woman, who like her nephew had large, dull-gray eyes. Her cheeks were colorless and hollow, and her long hair was a beautiful, silvery gray.

Over the heads of this family hung a great cloud. Years ago a very wealthy uncle had died, and he bequeathed his property and also his money to his living relatives. A short extract from his will reads as follows: "Between the ocean and the trees in my house is a secret door. When this door is opened, a silver chest will meet one's sight. Open the chest and in it one will find my most cherished jewelry and also my money. This of course I leave to my dearest living relative—my sister Mary (Miss Stone)."

Naturally a search was started for the valuables which ended in nothing and for years the family had looked upon the will as "Uncle's Polly." However, the family could not forget the chest and its treasures. Finally after having made several fruitless searches, Father Time had come and carried all remembrance of it away.

"Oh Auntie," exclaimed Polly rushing into the room where her aunt was, "I have received a letter from cousin Betty, she says she will arrive at the station at 2 o'clock and wants me to meet her. May I go? Please say yes auntie dear."

"Well, yes, you may but please hurry back."

Without waiting to answer her aunt, Polly was off like a flash.

"Cousin Betty!" said Polly with an exclamation of joy when the girls met. "How perfectly stunning you look in your new suit," and here Polly heaved a deep sigh as her cloth shoes were very shabby in comparison with her cousin's.

"There goes old Farmer Brown, let's get a ride home," said Betty ignoring the remark about her suit.

When the girls arrived at their destination, they found a pleasant luncheon awaiting them which they ate with girlish delight.

"Dear me, it's so hot out of doors, let's go into the library and read," said Betty some days later.

Jack and Polly both agreed to this and so the merry little band proceeded on the way to the library.

"Why, what is this?" said Betty sharply eyeing a small piece of paper which fluttered from the book she was reading.

"Why, Polly, this—is this about the mystery, it says in the drawer of the old wardrobe in the attic will be found a small key. This unlocks the 'Secret Door.'"

"Is that right, oh how stupid. Do come and search with Jack and me."

"Certainly, I will come Polly dear, but didn't you leave any clue which we can trace?"

"Well, all he said in his will is that between the ocean and the trees in this house will be found a secret door. When the door is opened the chest will be found."

"For my part I think Uncle Herbie was insane when the will was written," said Jack, "for who ever heard of an ocean and trees in a house?"

"Oh well, let's look any way, there's nothing else to do," suggested Betty. The children started in quest of the chest and after many hours searching in vain all agreed that "Uncle Herbie" was insane. However without these thoughts in mind, they could not forget the chest and all its treasures.

It was a dull, dark, rainy day, the clouds were gray and the wind wailed dolefully through the tree tops. Of course the children were obliged to spend the day indoors.

Betty was in the library alone when something bright on the wall attracted her attention. She crossed the room and looked at the object, and what do you suppose she saw? Why a tiny, oh very tiny keyhole. Betty gazed around her and on each side of the keyhole was a picture. One was a picture of a beautiful blue ocean, and the other was of several large trees. A flash of truth crossed her mind, and she knew at once that she had found the "Secret Door." She decided she would surprise the family by unlocking the door and bringing in the treasures without the aid of anyone. She got the key and was on her way to the library again when she encountered Polly in the hall.

"Why, Betty, what is the matter, you look as if you were up to some mischief. Tell me and tell me quickly."

"Well, Polly if you must know, I will tell you. I have found—er—the 'Secret Door.'"

"What—what do you mean, Betty?" "Just what I say, follow me."

The two girls went into the library. Betty put the key into the keyhole and turned it—the door did not open!

"Oh dear," said the nervous little Polly, "that might not be the right key."

Betty repeated the operation and this time the door slowly, slowly opened. The girls gazed in breathless suspense inside the opening and as they did so their eyes dropped.

"Isn't the chest there," queried Polly. Betty climbed into a chair and searched well.

"Yes, yes, it's there, but I can't reach it," said she. "I'll go get Auntie and Cousin Jack and we can all share the excitement together."

The chest was soon reached and was now sitting on the table. Miss Stone was looking at the valuables which consisted of several very costly stones and about one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) in cash. All of the family except Polly were peering over her shoulder in breathless amazement, while Polly nervous and excited, sat on the sofa thinking of all the new clothes she would have.

"Just think of all the years this money has lain untouched, useless," said Miss Stone, "I think we should kneel and thank God for his kindness in helping us to find our long, lost fortune."

A STATEMENT CONCERNING THE HOLY GRAIL PAGEANT

To the Editor of the Star:

Before the splendid Pageant, "The Holy Grail," becomes a faded memory, the Inter-Church Council wishes to express in more definite form its appreciation of the community co-operation which made it a success. The Council also feels that the Community has a right to expect a financial statement sufficiently comprehensive to give all who wish it a fair idea of the monies received and spent. This statement will be made as soon as the bills are all in.

It is impossible to give credit to all to whom credit is due, for it was not the labor of a few, but the devotion of many working together that made this pageant a great event in our community church life. There are some, however, whose good works not only deserve but demand recognition. We wish to mention Mr. Hugh J. Erskine who provided the trees for the stage setting for a nominal charge which did not take into account the fact that he had sent to New Hampshire for the trees giving his own time and that of his men and an auto to transport them from Hollis, New Hampshire. Mr. A. T. Downer most generously strengthened the Winchester Laundries Orchestra for an out of doors performance with Symphony players at his own expense. Mr. D. A. Carlee, a Winchester painter, stained the round table, twenty butter tubs and other properties free of charge. E. C. Sanderson gave the services of his men to make possible the magnificent lighting effects. The Winchester Riding School rendered a fine service in lending horses for the Knights of the Round Table. The Winchester Paper Store made paper flowers and the Central Hardware kept hammers. Mr. George Hamilton gave the use of the lumber for the seats. Mr. Bryne, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, used his good offices with the Metropolitan District Commission and cooperated in other ways. Chief McIntosh of the Winchester Police and his officers, also Captain Hawkins of the Metropolitan Police and his men cooperated in a fine spirit, handling the crowds without the semblance of an accident. Mr. Bailey of the Metropolitan District Commission kindly made available the beautiful natural amphitheatre in the Fells. The newspapers were very generous in the notice which they gave the pageant.

We would mention first our own community paper, The Winchester Star, also the Boston Traveler, Globe, and Transcript. The Anti-Mosquito Association of Massachusetts Inc., J. Albert C. Nyphen, Secretary, Bacteriological Laboratory, Brookline, did excellent work on very short notice, so that the mosquitoes were in no degree bothersome. The names of all the faithful women who plied their needles in making the costumes will never be known, but the words shall live after them, for all the costumes and other properties are being carefully sorted, listed, boxed and stored for future reference, when the community spirit again seeks the medium of artistic pageantry for its expression. The residents of Walcott Terrace and vicinity who opened their homes to the caste for dressing rooms both for the rehearsals and on the night of the Pageant are not forgotten. The mention of these groups and individuals from among the large number who helped in one way or another will give some idea of the community dimension of this project which caused people of different class, religion and previous condition of servitude to forget themselves in the artistic effort of setting before the community a great religious ideal. This Inter-Church Council considers the crowning glory of the Pageant.

The names of the characters of the Pageant and of the Committee Chairmen, were honored with a place on the printed program. They bore the brunt of the responsibility and gave without stint of their time and strength and abilities. These names will not be repeated here except to give special recognition to the general Chairman, Adaptor and Director of the Pageant, Miss Ruth D. Elder. She labored far beyond any monetary consideration which might accrue to her, and it was her ability, enthusiasm and artistic taste which made the works of Alfred Tennyson and Richard Hovey live again in the mystic glade of Middlesex Fells. The thanks of the community as well as of the Inter-Church Council are hers for this splendid achievement.

A complete financial statement will be made later. At present we can make the general statement that the sale of tickets will cover all expenses with a small margin left over. The fine response and generous support of the citizens of Winchester to this great religious pageant encourages the Inter-Church Council to believe that a large program for the future will be expected and will receive the backing of all public spirited citizens interested in elevating the moral and spiritual tone of our community.

Clifton H. Walcott,
Secretary of the Inter-Church Council of Winchester.

WINCHESTER BOY APPOINTED PASTOR OF DANVERS, MASS.

Telegrams, congratulatory messages and well wishes of all kinds have been pouring into the Rev. Henry M. Lyons on the event of his appointment to the pastorate of Danvers, Mass.

Father Lyons was born in Winchester the son of the late Michael E. Lyons and Mary A. Lyons who lives at the homestead 27 Oak street.

He attended the Public Schools graduating from the Winchester High School in 1898 completing four years in three. He entered the Sophomore year in Boston College in September of that year and graduated in 1906 also completing his course in three years.

He was honor man in Philosophy and won the gold medal in the Mathematics. He entered St. John's Seminary at Brighton, September, 1896 and was ordained December 1900 at Holy Cross Cathedral by the late Archbishop Williams.

He was immediately assigned as curate to the Star of the Sea Church, Marblehead where he remained a little over eleven years. On the death of the pastor he was transferred to St. Augustine's Church, South Boston, where he remained since.

While at St. Augustine's he graduated from the Berlitz school of languages. He has worked ardently and untiringly and is made of men of friends in all walks of life, who are rejoicing with him over this appointment.

PETITION URGED

Many Think Town Should Unite in Demanding Abjerna be Cleaned

Many residents of Winchester are becoming interested in the condition of the water of the Abjerna River, which appears this summer to be even worse than for several years past.

Its deep red color and thick, muddy substance has little resemblance to water; rather it appears to be some barn-yard drain flowing sluggishly through our town. Although bathing is permitted in Mystic Lake, the attendance from Winchester and points north has become so small that the absence is noticeable. This is undoubtedly due to the fact that people above the lake have opportunity to see what is flowing into it, and notwithstanding the report that the lake water is analyzed weekly by the authorities, parents are forbidding their children from bathing in it.

The Star was informed this week by several leading citizens that steps are on foot to start a town-wide petition to the State Board of Health demanding that proper investigation of the conditions relating to the pollution of the water be conducted and steps be taken to clean up the river and lake. The plan is to secure the name of every resident of the town who is interested in the matter and who desires that something be done.

Chairman Sewell E. Newman of the special committee appointed several years ago by the Town to investigate the pollution of the water, informs the Star that his committee is on the verge of accomplishments, although what those accomplishments are is not known, for so far as could be ascertained the whole matter rests in the hands of the State Board of Health, which, if it is so inclined, may take up the nuisance and issue the necessary orders to stop it.

Some of our residents feel that the matter has been under investigation for such a long period without any results whatever other than the reading of a technical report at the annual town meeting of 1922, that this town is powerless to cause any action in securing a betterment of conditions. Others are of the opinion that a petition covering the whole town cannot be passed over without action.

It is now proposed to start a petition during the summer months, holding it open until early Fall to secure a full list of interested citizens, and then present it to the State Board of Health for definite action. The town Planning Board is interesting itself in the conditions, as is the Board of Selectmen. So far as can be learned the Board of Health is remaining passive, possibly feeling that as the matter lays in the hands of the State Board, it would rather not take active part.

LODGES UNITE IN OUTING

Winchester Lodge of Elks has voted to unite with Woburn Elks in holding a combined outing next month. At a meeting of officers of the two lodges Tuesday night plans were laid out for the affair and committees were made up, and the preparations will go forward.

It is planned to hold the outing on Wednesday, August 15th, at the Martin Luther grounds on the Merrimack River between Lowell and Nashua. The location is said to be ideal for the entertainment of the big crowd expected, furnishing fine bathing and boating. A tentative program provides for a clam bake, ball game between teams from each lodge, a long list of sports and the usual amusements to be found at a first class picnic grove.

E. L. K. George T. Davidson heads the committee from Winchester Lodge. The trip will be by auto and provision will be made for the transportation of all members who desire to attend.

TRUCK BACKED INTO DUMP

A 1½ ton Republic truck, owned by Charles S. Smith of 47 Harvard street, backed into Black Ball pond at the town dump Monday afternoon while leaving a load of rubbish. The load had been taken off and while the work was going on the truck was left in reverse gear. When it was started it backed rapidly over the edge of the dump into the water, being submerged except its engine and hood.

Efforts were made to haul the truck out during the afternoon without avail, it being buried in the mud so deep that it could not be budged by a heavy truck. In the evening the steam road roller was secured, which made short work of pulling it out, little the worse for its ducking.

The town of Arlington will start this week to rebuild Mystic Street from the Winchester line to Arlington Square at a cost of $85,000. The State and County will bear a big part of the expense. This will make a fine road for motorists who come from the North and will give a good road from Lowell to Boston.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

The earliest water heater known dates back some two thousand years. This was a Roman device—a crude bronze kettle with a handle by which it could be hung over an open fire.

Following this came a metal container into which hot coals were placed, much as they are placed in the chestnut vendor's stove. France, in the Middle Ages, developed a hollow cone of clay, like a huge golf tee, into which hot charcoal was fed, and on top of which sat a kettle of water.

After there came the English spirit lamp which marked the first real advance in water heating, at least as to convenience and cleanliness. This was followed by the humble teakettle and considerably later by the so-called water-back in lead ranges.

Years later the gas water heater arrived, and for the first time in history a bath could be prepared with no hard effort than turning a cock and applying a match.

MYSTIC STREET IN ARLINGTON TO BE REBUILT

Senator Charles E. Warren Active
For His District

Residents of Winchester who have occasion to travel over Myrtle street will be interested to know that the part in Arlington from the Winchester line to the Summer street Boulevard will be rebuilt and put in first class condition. The work is being done between and just outside the city tracks. The work is to be commenced soon under the supervision of the State, will be completed in from thirty to thirty-five days. The cost is estimated to be $85,000. The cost of the new bridge is $45,000 on the state and County, $12,800 on the Railway and $28,000 on the town of Arlington. Myrtle street in Arlington has been in bad condition for some time and the city and county autoists have avoided it as much as possible. This improvement will be welcomed by all users of the road and Unknown to the instructors, who were busy at the Palmer Street Playground, Bernard Gaffney, 8 years old, son of Francis A. Gaffney of Spruce street, got into the boat at the bathing beach Tuesday forenoon with his brother, James. When the shore was in view, Bernard jumped into the water, and as he was over his head, and he could not swim, he was in a fair way to drown except for the prompt work of John Doherty of the park department.

Doherty, James Noonan, Martin Loftus and James Callahan were working at the playground setting up the swings. When the boy jumped into the water, his brother on shore screaming to the men, who were nearest to the scene. Danehy could see nothing of the boy when he reached the beach, the remaining boys standing by the water's edge, their faces visible on the pond. He waded into the water however, and as he did so he saw the boy's hand come up to the surface. He went in until the water touched his chin and succeeded in grasping the hand and pulling the boy to him. Getting him on his back, he succeeded in making his way into shore. The boy was unconscious, and he who had followed him into the water lent his assistance. Danehy cannot swim. He knew the boy must be

The Gaffney boy's condition was not serious, and he was more frightened than hurt. He was taken to the direction of Phil LeDurr, instructor at the playground, brought him around as fit as ever, and he was able to go to his home with his brothers.

Gaffney performed a brave act in rescuing the boy, especially as he cannot swim. Had it not been for his prompt action, Gaffney might have been drowned.

Efforts were made in Lawrence the first of the week to effect the arrest of auto drivers who have been taking girls to and from their work at the telephone exchange as violators of the law requiring every taxi driver to obtain a permit from the city council. Telephone strikers complained that many drivers do not possess the required permit, and that a half-dozen came from Lowell, Andover and Winchester.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH AT WORK ON ABERJONA

It Has Sole Authority and All Investigated Facts From Our Own Town Committee

To the Editor of the Star:

The Abergona Committee can't find the attention of the voters to the fact that by an act of the Legislature in 1911, the Abergona River, its tributaries and bays, were placed under the control of the State Board of Health and under their control only. Under this condition your committee has placed all the facts gathered during our investigations of the past two years, in the hands of the State Board and are co-operating and aiding in every way possible the work of that body.

Early in the spring due to high water conditions it was not practical to undertake work on the river, but with the dry weather the work is being energetically pushed by the State Board Engineering Department. There are several men at present engaged several days a week on the river. It is the hope of the department that material developments will be accomplished during the present season.

Considerable comment has been made from time to time as to the odor of the waters. It is a question if there is any odor arising from this source as a close observer would note that the odor only comes during a period of North to North West winds. We have to the north and west several tanneries which would account for the odor.

Your committee feel at the present time progress of a practical nature is being made, although not seen by the casual observer. We know that the State Board of Health are making a determined fight to gain for us material relief from the horrible condition that now exists.

Sewall E. Newman, Chairman, Abergona Committee.

MRS. MOTT A. CUMMINGS

Mrs. Lenore P. Cummings, wife of Dr. Mott A. Cummings, one of Winchester's older and prominently known physicians, died at her home on Church street last evening. She underwent an operation at the Winchester Hospital a few weeks ago, later being taken to her home, and her death had been anticipated by her family and her friends.

Mrs. Cummings was born in 1869 at Bowdoinham, Me., the daughter of James and Abbie (Graves) Partridge. She attended several schools and seminaries, and fitted herself for teaching. She came to Winchester about 27 years ago, and in 1899 married Dr. Cummings. She enjoyed a wide circle of friends and until recent years was active in the social affairs of the town, being formerly prominent in the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association and identified with the establishing of the first hospital of the organization on Washington street; a member of the First Baptist Church, The Fortnightly, and a former director of the Home for Aged People.

She is survived by her husband, her parents, four sisters—Mrs. H. C. Buckminster of Everett avenue, Mrs. Lewis Wagg, of Brunswick, Maine, Mrs. Paul D. Kneeland of Worcester, Mrs. Lidgwood Hunter of Framingham, and one brother, John G. Purpington, U. S. A.

Mrs. Cummings leaves a host of friends to mourn her loss, and her husband has the sympathy of the community in his bereavement.

The funeral services are to be held this Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence, 69 Church street, and will be conducted by the Rev. Clifton H. Walcott, of the First Baptist Church, assisted by the Rev. Henry E. Hodge of Everett, a former pastor here. Interment will be in Wildwood cemetery.

SUPT. JOHN R. FAHEY
Who Has Resigned as Head of the Winchester Schools

SUPERINTENDENT FAHEY ACCEPTS CALL TO WEST SPRINGFIELD

Announcement was made this week of the resignation of Superintendent of Schools John R. Fahey. Mr. Fahey has accepted a call to resume his former office of Superintendent of the schools at West Springfield, from which place he came to this town five years ago. According to report he resumes his duties at West Springfield at an increase of salary slightly over that which he now receives.

Mr. Carpenter, chairman of the School Committee, in announcing the report that Mr. Fahey, superintendent of the Winchester schools, had resigned, made the following statement:

"Mr. Fahey has, within the past week, been unanimously elected by the School Committee of West Springfield to the superintendency of the schools of that city, has accepted the call, and has presented his resignation to the Winchester School Committee, to take effect September 1st or at the pleasure of the committee."

"Mr. Fahey, although not a candidate for the position, was elected superintendent of the Winchester schools in 1918. He was, at the time, school superintendent at West Springfield. He came to us at a difficult and trying period because, owing to our participation in the War, both men and women teachers were resigning to take their parts in the conflict and there was generally a great shortage of teachers throughout the country. Nevertheless, he carried on his duties as superintendent quietly and efficiently. The record of his accomplishments in his five years with us is noteworthy. It was largely due to his unflinching initiative and vision that the program for replacing the old grade schools with modern buildings was adopted by the Town. The first fruits of his building policy are already apparent in the new Wyman School, which should be ready for occupancy by the end of this year. He has raised the teaching standard in all the schools and has placed the school curriculum upon a sound progressive basis. As a result of his efforts, the Winchester public schools now compare favorably with any in this Commonwealth. Only those who are in close touch with our schools have any realization of the progress that has been made since Mr. Fahey took charge."

TO GIVE CONCERT AT AMRAD

Announcement of Saturday evening's program at AMRAD, Medford Hillside, made this morning, states that the concert to be rendered will include piano solos by Mr. F. Percival Lewis of this town. The other artists announced include Mrs. Clara M. Brown, soprano, and Mr. Harold L. Childs, baritone, both of Woburn. Mr. Lewis will accompany the latter artists. Winchester radio operators will be much interested in listening to the Saturday evening program and hearing these local artists.

SCHOOL BONDS ISSUED

The Town Treasurer has awarded to the firm of Merrill, Oldham & Company, brokers, of Boston, the sale of the $540,000 in bonds for the purchase of the sites for an erection thereof of the four new school buildings authorized to be built by the town. The bonds were issued in two lots, one of $150,000 and another of $390,000. They are 20-year serial bonds, bearing interest at 4 1/2 per cent, and were sold for 101.75. Work on one of the new buildings, the Wyman School building, on Church street is well under way and will be completed by early winter. The financing of the work on the Wyman building was taken care of by temporary notes issued in anticipation of the bonds which have just been sold by the Town Treasurer.

OIL BURNERS INSTALLED

The Winchester Laundry started this week operating with its new oil burning equipment. For several weeks the work of changing over the power plant from coal to oil has been in progress, and last week the big storage tank was completed, the new burners finished and everything placed in readiness for the change.

The new equipment is giving much satisfaction thus far. It will make the work of the engine room force considerably lighter, eliminate the uncertainty now present in the coal situation, and will completely eliminate the smoke nuisance.

Mr. John King of Salem street left Tuesday for a month's stay at Portland, Me.

WEASEL CAUGHT IN CENTRE

A young weasel was caught in the centre Wednesday noon after an exciting chase lasting nearly half an hour in which 20 or more men and boys, together with two dogs took part. The animal was finally cornered at a window in the cellar at the rear of the Savings Bank building and placed in a box. A last report it was on exhibition at the Central Garage.

The weasel was noticed first by some of the firemen as it walked through the alley between the fire station and the Miller block. When the firemen reached the alley the animal had disappeared. Its absence from observation was short however, for it was soon spotted on the lawn in front of the police station. This time it was not lost sight of.

Three of four times it was chased around the Savings Bank, occasionally being cornered for a minute, when with a hair-raising squeal it would dart at its closest pursuer and get away again. Then it ran into the Central Garage, spending a half hour there in eluding a horde of men and boys. According to the story, it made light of jumping over the hoods of two cars at a time, and except for the fact that it finally decided to run outside again, might still be at liberty inside.

The final effort was made at a rear window of the Savings Bank. Prof. James D. Danner, a young man, pinned the animal down in a corner of the window frame and Charles Brunell, proprietor of the garage, clapped a small box over it. The weasel was scooped up inside the box and a cover put over it, and the outfit taken into the garage, where a wire net replaced the cover.

Few persons ever remember a weasel being seen in this town, certainly not for many years. As the one captured was a very young one, it is thought that more may show up. Apparently the animal was living somewhere near the river in the vicinity of the Miller Block. It is a rat grey in color, with a long slender body and beady black eyes. In the capture it appears that some of its long tail was lost, for this member appears to be broken partly off. It is extremely fierce, squealing and clashing at anyone who comes near it.

Charles Brunell and Wallace Eason are going to make a pet of the animal after they have tamed it and selected its name.

DOWNER—SMITH

Announcements were out for the marriage on Friday, July 29, of Mr. Arthur D. Danner and Miss Elizabeth M. Smith, both of Winchester. After a private ceremony at the home of the Rev. Clifton H. Walcott, the couple left for a motor trip through Maine and New Hampshire.

Salvatore Scaturro of 95 Swanton street left his car in front of his house Sunday morning at 3:45 and shortly after it was noticed on fire by officer Edward O'Connell. The officer extinguished the blaze, otherwise Mr. Scaturro would probably have lost the car.

ALL SET FOR ELKS' OUTING

Banner Event of Summer Takes Place August 15th

Plans are now perfected for the joint outing of Winchester and Woburn Elks on Wednesday, August 15th, at the Martin Luther Grounds, Lowell. Last week committees were appointed from both lodges to perfect arrangements for the day, and these bodies have now announced the program.

The trip to the grounds, which lay on the Merrimac river between Lowell and Nashua, and are said to be ideal for the outing, will be made by auto. Winchester Elks will assemble at the centre and join their Woburn brethren at that city, the two groups making the run to the grounds together.

The feature of the day will probably be the monster clam bake which will be held in the grove at noon, and the committee in charge has spared no pains to make this feature a huge success. Another feature which is expected to appeal to many is the bathing, which is said to be exceptionally fine.

The committee on sports has announced the following program:

- Baseball game between the two lodges.
- Golf ball drive contest for non-owners.
- 100 yard dash for fat men.
- Three-legged race.
- 100 yard dash-off.

Tickets for the outing are going fast. Winchester lodgemen may obtain theirs of the following:

WINCHESTER COUPLE TO BE MARRIED

Dover-Gurney Wedding Takes Place Tomorrow Evening

The wedding of Miss Maude Frances Gurney and Mr. Henry Harold Dover, both graduates of the Winchester High School and well known Winchester young people, will take place tomorrow evening at the First Congregational Church at eight o'clock. Both the bride and groom are popular, and their wedding creates much interest among a host of friends. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Gurney of Hemingway street and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Dover of Lincoln street.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Allison B. Gifford, minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. J. Alfred Dover of Boston, brother of the groom, will be the best man, and Miss Josephine Gurney, the bride's sister, will be maid of honor. The bridesmaids are to be Mrs. Helen Anderson of Medford and Mrs. Rosa Bacon of this town. Messrs. Walter Gurney, brother of the bride, Robert H. Hamilton and Arthur Cameron of this town, and Andrew Anderson of Medford, are to be the ushers.

The bride will wear for her wedding dress a charming creation of Spanish lace and flat crepe, with her attendants gowned alike in peach colored organdie, trimmed with chantilly lace. The customary reception will be held after the ceremony at the church parlors.

The couple are planning a wedding trip to New York, and will make their future home in Winchester.

SWIMMING RACES PROPOSED

Life guard William Murray, in charge of the bathing at Sandy Beach on Mystic Lake, is making arrangements for a swimming carnival at the beach to be held next month. Permission for the event has been obtained and the races will doubtless be held either the middle or the latter part of August.

Mr. Murray has found that the beach is frequented by a large number of exceptionally good swimmers, both boys and girls. He feels that a carnival there would furnish exceptionally fine sport for both contestants and spectators, as well as create an interest in this important field of athletics.

It is hoped to finance the carnival to the extent of procuring suitable prizes, by subscription from those persons in Winchester, Arlington and Medford who are interested in the sport. Anyone who is as interested should call on Mr. Murray any day at the beach.

As now planned, there will be a mile race for the older boys and probably a half-mile race for the larger girls, together with a half-dozen other events over a shorter course which will take in the swimmers of both sexes according to ages.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Speaking before an audience of 140 in the auditorium in Dover, Ohio, President Harding took a pronounced stand for rigid enforcement of prohibition. The speech, which was the most forceful of any he has made on his western trip, seemed to strike a responsive chord in his hearers, and was enthusiastically received. He denounced prohibition offenders as enemies of the republic, said it was political folly for any party to travel on a wet platform, declared the eighteenth amendment never would be repealed, and warned the country against forcing the Federal Government to assume the burden of enforcement. He described the action of Governor Al Smith of New York in signing the state enforcement repeal bill as "nullification" and "an abandonment of state rights." The President feels confident that we are passing through the most difficult stage in the matter of enforcement, and that as time passes there will be a more and more willing acceptance by authorities everywhere of the unalterable obligation to law enforcement. The country and the nation will not allow the shadow of failure to be made a byword.

Lloyd George, ex-premier of England, urges a strict policy of noninterference with regard to the liquor seizures in New York. Speaking in the Welsh Baptist Chapel in London on June 24, he said, "We should keep cool. We must not get excited. It is not merely that America seeks to keep within her rights. We ought to extend a certain measure of sympathy to her in her difficulties. It is not a question of whether or not we are prohibitionists, but America is making a very bold experiment to deal with probably the greatest curse of modern civilization. She has tried other experiments. They have been only comparative successes and she had made up her mind with decision and courage to make such experiments as never have been made on this earth before. Well, let us give her a fair chance. Let us be frank," he continued, with great earnestness. "One of her greatest difficulties has been liquor which has been pouring in by surreptitious means from Europe. It is all very well for us to say this liquor is merely for our own sailors aboard ship. Fortunes have been made by smuggling liquor into the United States in defiance of a law that country passed by a greater majority than almost any great law ever passed in any country. Give her a fair trial."

"In the United States are a people of more than 100,000,000 highly educated and progressive, and therefore it is in the interests of civilization that they should be allowed to have full time to test their efforts to solve the problem, which is just as much ours as theirs. If they succeed, as I hope they may, they will have the gratitude of the whole world. Give them a fair chance."

SUPERINTENDENT FAUSEY ACCEPTS CALL TO WEST SPRINGFIELD

"It is significant that West Springfield, after having had two superintendents since Mr. Faussey left to come to Winchester, should again, without solicitation upon his part, call him to head its schools."

"It now becomes the duty of the School Committee to select a new superintendent. The committee has not met since Mr. Faussey made known his desire to accept the West Springfield offer. Owing to the difficulty of getting the committee together in August, it is not probable that any serious steps will be taken prior to the first of September. The committee has no one in mind, even remotely, for the vacancy, but will take all the time necessary to sift the candidates and to weigh the qualifications of any man who may be considered for the position. Mr. Faussey has kindly offered, subject to the consent of the West Springfield committee, to continue his supervision of our schools, giving part of his time to us as a part to West Springfield, until his successor has been chosen. It will, therefore, not be necessary for the School Committee to act hurriedly, and when the schools open Sept. 5, all vacancies in the teaching staff will have been filled and the school machinery will start functioning without delay."

"The committee will elect a new superintendent as soon as possible, but even if some minor change, as is likely, before the members have satisfied themselves that they have selected the right man, the schools will not suffer if they remain, as we hope, under Mr. Faussey's guidance until the vacancy is filled."

Miss May Kenney of Myrtle street is spending a month at Nantasket Beach.

LOCATELLI'S BALL SQUARE THEATRE

Melodrama and romance will be featured on the program of Locatelli's Ball Square Theatre for the week of July 30th. For the first three days the bill will present Miss Dorothy Dalton in "Fog Bound," one of the most dramatic and exciting melodramas ever screened. In this picture the star has a role which is rich in emotional possibilities. The companion picture will be "Beat the Game," a terse and gripping story in which will keep the spectator on edge with its thrills. For the last three days of the week there will be featured the emotional, impulsive, winsomely beautiful Florence Vidler in one of her greatest efforts, "The Real Adventure." It is a story of much heart interest and vivid realism. Accompanying this picture will be the ever popular Tom Moore in "Beating the Game." The story is one full of intrigue and counter plot, with Moore performing some remarkable acting. An Educational comedy and the latest news pictorial will also be shown at each performance.

COAL-LESS AGE

With the advent of the automobile we have watched a gradual moment gain momentum till we say we live in a "horse-less age." That we will be living in a "coal-less age" before many more years have passed is now almost a stern reality.

House heating problems have usually been considered in terms of coal, and we have more or less grown accustomed to the dust, dirt and grime of coal burning as a necessary evil. Modern house heating with an economy "sure heat" automatic oil burner eliminates the dust, dirt and grime and gives an even heat which is ever under the control of a thermostat operating on room temperature.

A sure heat oil burner makes you the master of your heater instead of having the heater master of you.

Mr. William J. Murray of Winchester is the local agent for the economy sure heat automatic oil burner and has advised us that on or about August 1st, he will have installation in operation in Winchester where all those interested can have demonstration made for their approval.

Simplicity of design, sturdiness of construction and economy of operation are the three salient claims made for this machine. We are also assured it is safe, sane, fool proof and absolutely automatic.

Is it any wonder Mr. Murray says we are beginning to live in a coal-less age when one can install an economy sure heat oil burner, set the thermostat to the desired temperature, and know that your home will be maintained to the degree at which the thermostat is set?

LIGHTNING BOLT PROVES SAFETY OF RADIO

If any further evidence were necessary to prove the safety of radio, there was plenty of it furnished during the severe electrical storm last Saturday.

Lightning entered the AMRAD Broadcasting Station at Medford Hill during the worst of the storm, which was very severe locally.

Investigation showed that it was attracted by the electric light wires which it completely demolished. The electric light service was paralyzed.

However, the 320-foot steel antenna tower used in connection with the broadcasting was not touched, nor the powerful broadcasting apparatus, thereby proving that a radio antenna and a receiving or transmitting set would not attract lightning in any way.

Time was when uninformed persons thought the installation of radio provided an extra fire hazard. This belief has been somewhat dispelled by the experts who call the lightning hazard of radio a "childish buruburo."

No less authority than Dr. Steinmetz, the electrical wizard, the man who recently produced an electrical storm all his own, has said that the radio installation properly made was a protection rather than a source of danger from lightning.

The truth of his statement was verified by the practical test last Saturday.

WINCHESTER PROPERTY SOLD

Through the office of Thomas H. Barrett, the property was sold this week at 123 Mt. Vernon street, owned by Mrs. Elizabeth M. Hallett. This estate, comprising a nine-room house and 9544 sq. ft. of land, has been purchased by Mr. T. Parker Clarke, who will occupy about Sept. 1. Mr. and Mrs. Hallett and family are moving to Southern California, where Mr. Hallett has business interests.

Also through Mr. Barrett's office, the estate of Mrs. Dorothy M. Field at 161 Highland avenue has been sold. This estate comprises a nine-room house, garage and 11,924 sq. ft. of land. The purchaser is Mr. Henry K. Roberts of the Star Refining Co., brass founders, of South Boston. He plans to occupy the premises on or before Sept. 1. Mr. and Mrs. Field have purchased an estate in Cambridge, where they will make their home.

GYPSIES GONE

The last of the Gypsy band which has been camping at the South Reservation since early in June left the place Tuesday. Although notice was served a fortnight ago for the band to vacate the premises, some of the Gypsies continued to live there. Learning of the condition, and finding that some of the band apparently had no intention of leaving, Selectman Bryne communicated with Mayor Coolidge of Medford on Monday, informing him of the situation. As the land occupied was in Medford, Winchester has been obliged to look to its neighbor for relief from the nuisance. About a half-dozen tents remained up to Tuesday, and by the evening of that day these were gone. A dirty camp was left, littered with tins, rags and other refuse.

TANGIER: A CITY WITHOUT A COUNTRY

In taking up the question of the status of Tangier, Africa's most northwesterly city—and strategically a sort of Roland for Gibraltar's Oliver—Great Britain, France and Spain are dealing with a question of such delicacy that it has been delayed by mutual consent for 11 years, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society in regard to the city without a country, which is the subject of diplomatic conversations in London.

The Moroccan crisis of 1911 between France and Germany almost set the World War off three years before its time, continues the bulletin; and when peace was preserved by the narrow margin, the powers were glad enough to thrust the Tangier question hastily aside by stating that the city was to be given a special regime to be agreed upon later. In the meantime a temporary international commission has administered affairs in the city and territory of 140 square miles around it, and has failed to please Great Britain who wants permanent internationalization; France, who wants it annexed to the French protectorate; or Spain, who wants control herself.

Only a Few Miles From Europe

Situated only a few miles from Europe, Tangier has been affected to a great or less degree by Western civilization for centuries. Since the Moors set up their power in northwestern Africa, the Portuguese, Spaniards and English have at times held the place; but the English, the last of the three to have possession, abandoned it to the Moors in 1684. For a long time afterward it was one of the chief cities of the Sultan of Morocco. But since the city has been in the hands of "infidels" it has been visited only on the rarest occasions by the Sultans.

From the sea, Tangier is the Arab city of North Africa par excellence, for the ugly dashes of yellow, green, and red, with which scattered modern constructions have marred the otherwise glowing whiteness of the native city, are not distinguishable in the steamer lies close in.

The traveler from Europe will be struck at once by the total lack of the well-known rumble of city streets, for though the uneven thoroughfares are in most part paved with cobblestones, wheeled vehicles are practically unknown—not only in Tangier, but throughout Morocco. The streets are nevertheless crowded with other means of transport. So narrow are some of them that at the oft-repeated "Balk!" "Look out!" one must again and again spring into some doorway in order to let donkeys, mules, and horses, with their spreading burdens, pass by.

Camels and Men Do the Trucking
Camels have to be unloaded on the "Soco," or market-place, outside the walls. Things too heavy to be carried by a single animal must be transported by men, and it is no unusual sight to see great stones five and six feet long slung on poles and borne by a dozen or more half-naked Moors.

In these narrow streets the little box-like shops, waist high, give the proper oriental setting to the whole. In them one sees the oxen reclining, and sately reading, seemingly oblivious to the stirring scene around him, until he is "disturbed" by a purchaser for his goods, all of which are within arm's reach.

Tangier's strategic importance lies in the fact that it is at the southern entrance to the Strait of Gibraltar and as a fortified naval base might prove almost as effective in blocking that exceedingly important passage as the famous rock itself. The city is only 35 miles southwest of the Rock of Gibraltar and is barely 25 miles from the nearest point on the Spanish mainland.

Changes on the Earth.
If the ancient Greeks could revisit the earth they would hardly recognize their beautiful country. If the statements made by one authority can be sustained, Africa has lost the greater part of its forests, the rainfall has decreased and the temperature has increased. The heat in the open air now, it is contended, is so great that the Olympic games of antiquity would be virtually impossible today. Many other parts of the earth show similar changes. The once beautiful oasis in the Syrian desert, where Zenobia reigned over Palmyra, is now a desolate waste. In upper Egypt, where only a hundred years ago rain was abundant, drought now usually prevails.

Day of the Prophets Gone.
An religion and poetry are both "a power that makes," it seems well to think of them in association. The world of our troubled days stands in sore need of seers. It is therefore a tragedy that the prophetic office seems to have fallen into abeyance. But it will not always be so, for to think that there is to be no more "open vision" would be to betray a terrible lack of faith.—Exchange.

Great Leader's Boldness.
Lord Bacon in his essay on "Boldness" repeats the story of Mahomet's promise to his followers that on a given day he would make his word a nearby hill. When the day came, Mahomet ordered the hill to move, but it did not move. Thus Mahomet calmly announced to his followers that since it would not come to him, Bacon uses the incident as an example of boldness.

Beauty of the Paper Birch.
The paper birch is taller than most birches, sometimes reaching the height of 75 feet. The birches do not drop as those of the gray birch do, nor does it seem to mind the crowding of other trees, the lack of sunlight or the perpetual gloom of the primitive forest. It stands out like a white giant in the dim distance of the dark woods.

CAPE SABINE: WHERE MONUMENT WILL MARK ARCTIC TRAGEDY

A bronze tablet in memory of 16 officers and men of the United States Army who died of starvation and exposure in the Arctic in 1884 is now on the way to Cape Sabine, Ellesmere Land, where it will be placed as the scene of one of the most tragic disasters in the history of American Arctic exploration, the refuge camp of the Greeley expedition. Set in the rocks at latitude 75° 45' north, more than 800 miles above the Arctic Circle, this will be one of the most northerly monuments in the world.

Gave Lives to Aid Science

The tablet is inscribed: "To the memory of the dead, who, under Lieutenant A. W. Greeley here gave their lives to ensure the final and complete success of the first scientific co-operation of the United States with other nations 1881-1884." The tablet is being erected by the National Geographic Society and will be placed during the present summer by Donald MacMillan, Arctic explorer and lieutenant of Peary on the voyage, which resulted in the discovery of the North Pole.

A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society describes the region of Cape Sabine and the hardships encountered there.

Though Cape Sabine is itself very far within the permanently cold regions, and throughout most of the year is a bleak region of ice and snow, it was not the northernmost base of the Greeley expedition, says the bulletin. That was at Lady Franklin Bay near the northern tip of Ellesmere Land. Cape Sabine, some 300 miles to the south, was the closest point to civilization to which Greeley was able to take his men when they retreated southward after two promiscuous relief expeditions failed to reach them.

Worked on in Face of Death

There is a temperature far below zero with practically no fuel, and with provision sufficient for only a few weeks, the party fought for life through the winter and spring of 1883-84. Their sufferings, both physical and mental, were acute. They grew too weak to hunt successfully, and attempted to keep themselves alive on scraps of old seal skin, and rock lichens. One after another sickened and died, but still the survivors kept up faithfully the scientific observations for which they had been sent to the Arctic. The original party of 23 men was reduced to seven when on June 22, 1884 they were rescued. Of the seven only two or three were strong enough to move from their sleeping bags and even the strongest could hardly walk in stumbling fashion. But the scientific records, which added greatly to the world's geographic, meteorologic and magnetic knowledge, had been carefully kept until 40 hours before the rescue.

The expedition, with another in Alaska, represented the United States in scientific work in which ten governments took part by making simultaneous observations at a series of stations around the North Pole.

KATANGA: A LAND OF CALICO MONEY

Plans to connect Katanga, in the Belgian Congo, with a west African coast port, emphasize the extreme range of civilization in this mid-continent colony, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Motor roads network a region where campers still build fires by night to ward off the lions, and where native savages chant, "white man, white man, we'll dance on the end of a spear."

Bantu tribesmen do business with calico money; Elizabethville, the colony's capital has both a Belgian and an English bank, seven hotels, five hospitals, and its streets, avenues and boulevard would do credit to a European city.

Bicycle Vehicle of Pioneers

Railroad building in Katanga is in keeping with the excellent communications rapidly established in an area not long ago called Africa's most inaccessible part. The Congo Colony has the natural advantage of the 10,000 miles of navigable waters afforded by the Congo River and its tributaries.

Steel rails and macadam highways supplement these water routes, but it is to the humble bicycle that Belgian Congo owes its initial development. The bicycle was an effective bar to domestic animals, hence pioneer whites first carved out wheel tracks instead of bridle paths.

The present rail outlet from the Katanga interior is the line from Bukama to Cape Town and to Beira, on the East Coast. The project now under way will link Bukama to the Benguela railway, already running into Angola from Lubao Bay.

Has Famed Copper Belt. This shorter haul has a world interest, as any one realizes who has watched Congo's river craft laden with oil, coconuts, ivory, rubber and sugar.

Once the Congo River bed was an inland sea, but even then the Katanga plateau was high and dry. Today much of Katanga, which is as large as California and South Carolina together, is free from the tectonic fly-catcher's thrives there. The soil is fertile. However, Katanga's chief asset in the eyes of modern states is her mines, particularly her famous copper belt. Tin, iron and coal also are mined and gold is found.

Even in modern Elizabethville representatives are in evidence of the two million or more Bantu natives, who range from jungle head hunters and the forest pygmies to the Swahili, language group whose literature has been the subject of close study. The ethnologist holds the Congo's chief riches to be in natives whose tribes, languages and development stages are exceptionally diverse.

To the layman on a street corner of Katanga's capital the passing show of natives has the interest of a museum—the man who wears ivory rings on his fingers, the woman with a metal circle in her nose, the people who file their front teeth to a point, some who sustain on arrow root and others who hunt game with poisoned arrows. For the expert these types have a deeper

More housewives should be made aware of the fact that violent boiling does not accelerate the speed of cooking, but only evaporates the water needlessly with an equivalent waste of gas.

Tests made by the Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C., have established a number of important facts that housewives will do well to remember.

(1) Violent boiling, with the lid on the stove, consumes about nine times more gas than is necessary to maintain gentle boiling.

(2) For gentle boiling about five times as much gas is used with the lid off as would be required if the lid were on the utensil.

(3) When violently boiled, water evaporates at about the same rate with the lid on as with the lid off.

A prize story contest was held this summer in the 10th, 7th and 8th grades in the public schools. The names of the 12 winners were printed in the Star of June 15. This paper now gives to its readers the stories themselves. They are published weekly until all 12 have been printed.

THE DISCOVERY AND EXPLORATION OF MARSHAL ISLAND

Grade Seven—First Prize in Public School Prize Story Contest

We started from Tampa, Fla., on March 10, with a boat of tobacco for Sydney, Australia. My crew was lady and the sailors liked nothing more than to laze around on the deck to smoke and talk. Our boat, the "Billaburra" was a four-masted schooner and I was the captain.

One day, in late afternoon, the boats and the rest of my crew, the mate, came up to me with his hands behind his back and said, "Capt'n Marshall, who don't ya get a new pipe?"

I was very angry at this and in my rage I cried, "It does not in the least concern you!" This I repeated of later and even now I wish I had not said it.

On hearing this Jack, after that was his name, rushed into his cabin where there were five or six other sailors. About 20 minutes later they all came out taking in low whispers which I could not discern, but it made me think that perhaps Jack had meant no harm in his imprudent query.

To my surprise Jack was more willing to work after that, but I could not understand his reason. On another occasion he called me out on the deck to tell me that he wished he could discover an unknown island. I was surprised to hear him say such a queer thing, but I couldn't help thinking the same, so I told him so. After that, however, the subject was dropped and not spoken of by anyone, although I often thought of it.

After passing through the Panama Canal we took the regular route to Australia. When we reached about 112 degrees longitude, a fierce storm came on which drove us south westerly. As the storm subsided, we turned and went westward. After having sailed about seven days Jack sighted land. Being very well acquainted with the lands around that district I could not understand what it could be as I never remembered seeing it.

Jack came up to my cabin the day before we anchored in the little harbor. He spoke to me as if I had not heard that we were nearing land; and by the look on his face he seemed to be having quite hard work to speak good English.

"We are comin'—er—a—let me see," and he scratched his head. "We are nearing land. It can't be Australia, because, although the land has been favorable and we have been hitting a pretty good—er—we have been going right along since the storm last week, we have not come far enough. But, what I want to know is this: What is this land anyway? We're too far north for it to be New Zealand; so that's off this list."

At this I had to laugh, but I instantly became sober as a sudden thought flashed across my mind. Could it be possible? Was it really true? Had our crew been coming with a tale of lies to me, or had I been so foolish during the latter part of the journey?

"Jack," I said, "Do you suppose that what we wished in the Gulf of Mexico has come true?"

Jack nodded a faint reply and hastened away to tell the other sailors, as he did the time when I had spoken so harshly to him.

The next morning we anchored and rowed toward land in a rowboat. As we neared the shore three cannibals rushed toward us. They began at once to talk in weird tones and motion with their hands in a queer manner. They were of the black race. They were small, dark-skinned, with their hips and were bracelets and anklets, as well as ear-rings which dangled to their shoulders and some rings which hung from their chins. Each mouth was open and revealed enormous rows of pearly teeth. We thought it best to avoid them if possible, but strange to say, it never occurred to me that there were more on this strange island.

We walked past the cannibals without any trouble as we were more in number than they; we walked up a small incline and looked around, only to discover that it was a barren sandy country.

"Let us explore Marshall Island," said Jack, to my surprise. He had apparently taken it for granted that it should be named after me. I felt very much honored to think that my sailors had grown to be fond enough of me to think it fitting to name this strange island after me.

I thanked them for their kindness and courtesy and we turned to walk out across the desert. A huge ostrich came running suddenly toward us. He looked a little forbidding so we drew away, but before we went all noted that the feathers and plumage of the bird were exceedingly fine and valuable. It would have been nice to obtain these feathers but it was impossible. Soon a great many others joined the first and they made a very lively party.

The island proved to be about 25 degrees north latitude and 145 degrees west longitude, as I measured it with my instruments.

As we walked farther across the sand, Fred Mitchell discovered that he had a hole in his pocket. We all laughed and turned around. Looking into his pocket, we discovered which fell from Fred's pocket the ostrich picked up and swallowed. On questioning Fred, he declared that he had had a bunch of keys, a few bolts, a bar full of screws, some nuts, and a few broad crumbs. We all laughed at this and examined the ostrich at a distance. We saw lumps on his neck which followed it down and disappeared.

When our walk turned to find Jack to break to him, but could not. He had got so scared from us and was about half a mile west of us and apparently nearer the cannibals' camp. As I was surveying our surroundings, I saw Jack. Three cannibals were scuffling toward him as he endeavored to escape their grasp. They seized and strangled him. I turned away from the horror of the sight with tears in my eyes. To think that dear old Jack should meet such an unhappy death. The cannibals probably ate him, but whatever happened to him I know that when I turned around the cannibals were gone and with them Jack. We then turned toward the shore.

Upon arriving at the shore we discovered that our boat was nowhere to be seen. We concluded that the cannibals had taken it, having found Jack to taste good, they intending to keep us on the island for their future meals. This thought made me shudder. The quickest possible way of an escape needed to be pursued and the only way to escape was to swim out to the schooner, so I cried, "All hands in!"

We all took to the water and swam for all we were worth. As we reached the boat, the cannibals ran down to the shore which we had just vacated. They appeared to be very angry.

That evening when I went to my cabin for the first time since early morning I lay down on my cot to rest before going down to dinner in the main cabin. I happened to put my hand under my pillow. I felt something there. I pulled it out and found it to be a beautiful pipe with a detachable stem and a figure carved on the bowl. A piece of paper was fastened to the pipe on which was written in a very illegible hand, "Captain Marshall from Jack."

I felt very sad when I thought that I would never be able to thank Jack for this lovely pipe.

When I went to dinner, I told the sailors about my new pipe. Sam said, "Yes, yes," he said as how he was a point to give it to you the day you tell him it wasn't one of his business."

This I did not like but I let no sign show my displeasure.

We continued our voyage to Sydney and delivered the tooth, of which I had used quite a deal, and then we returned to Tampa. I was very glad to get back home again with a tale of lies to relate, but I have not told anyone of my voyage but you.

British Grenadiers

Until now there is a mile within the German lines a company of English Grenadier guards under Captain Pryce held out against the German advance on the 18th in April, 1918. The enemy brought up field guns to the trenches. The survivors of the company stood back to back shooting both ways. At six in the evening 18 men were left. At Captain Pryce's orders these 18 men charged with their bayonets in the German's hands.

There were no British survivors except a corporal who owed his life to accidentally falling into a ditch. It would not be easy for a two-armed person to explain just how it was managed, much less to do it. But the general principle was to apply the pressure downward instead of sideways. The grapefruit did not slide off the plate and the diner got all the juice, or at least a usual amount.

One Armed Man's Feast

There was a man in a way in which the of the impossibly impossible about trying to thread a needle while wearing boxing gloves. Almost in the same class, remarks a New York Sun writer, one might think would be the effort of a one-armed man to eat a grapefruit. Yet a one-armed man entered a downtown restaurant a few days ago, ordered grapefruit, and ate it. It would not be easy for a two-armed person to explain just how it was managed, much less to do it. But the general principle was to apply the pressure downward instead of sideways. The grapefruit did not slide off the plate and the diner got all the juice, or at least a usual amount.

SCHOOL DAYS AROUND THE WORLD

School children all over the northern half of the world have put away their school books for the summer months. Little Johnny Chinaman's primer which is stored away to his younger brother's use looks to little Mexican Manuel like parallel tracks of his father's best fighting cock. Little Morris Rahab, however, has the advantage of all of them, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society, "for all he has to do to efface his textbook from his conscience is to drag his brown foot across the desert sand."

Little Johnny, who looks like a small edition of his august papa in his cotton trousers and long gown reaching nearly to his feet, makes a great deal of noise in pursuit of his education. Only boys are allowed in his school because girls must stay at home to help their mothers keep the house, and the teacher has the idea that a boy cannot be doing his duty by his books if he is not yelling out his lessons at the top of his lungs.

Johnny Chinaman's Pen is a Brush. So when Johnny has yelled out his satisfaction he mimes up to teacher, hands his book, turns his back on her and tells the whole class everything he knows about his lesson. He "frantic" he learns by using a frame set with balls much like that used in the modern American kindergartens. He has no pens or pencils and he draws his hundreds of characters with a small brush dipped in ink, which he makes himself by rubbing a cake of India ink in water until he gets the fluid of the right color.

Though Japanese Yoki-san goes to well-organized schools like ours in America, he has his difficulties. He must learn 17 letters in the Japanese alphabet instead of 26 in the English language. He also takes off his shoes before he enters the schoolhouse, and when the teacher comes in he must bow his head nearly down to the ground and dance in his breath. This is his way of saying, "Good morning," and the teacher bows in response to the greeting.

Then Yoki-san sits on the floor and uses his knees as a writing desk. When it is time for writing lessons he makes his letters with a little brush very much like that of little Johnny Chinaman, and he writes them from the top to the bottom of the page instead of across the paper as we do. The first page of Yoki-san's book is at the back and he reads toward the front.

Desert Sand Is Schoolroom Floor in Arabia

In Arabia and northern Africa the little boys sit cross-legged on the sand around a turbaned teacher who pounds the earth with a long stick to make the pupils keep time as they recite under the verses from the Koran. The Koran, the religious book which is the only text book used, and they learn it bit by bit and recite it together in rhythmic sing-song, swaying their bodies in accompaniment. Often the teacher is blind, but his unfeeling ear enables him to tell just which boy is not keeping up with the others and to give him the benefit of a stout rod.

All the rest of the knowledge that desert boys get they must learn at home. Their fathers must teach them to fly kites, ride their ponies and shoot straight.

Korean schools are much like those of China and Japan. The boys sit cross-legged on mats on the floor, say their lessons out loud, and learn the sayings of great men.

Twelve-hour School Day in India

Ten or 15 boys learn the Koran, too, as about 85 per cent of the people are Mohammedans, but modern schools are increasing. Often one sees a class sitting on the floor of the porch of some old building hundreds of years old doing lessons. About 50 per cent of the Persian women are illiterate; it is only within recent years that they have been allowed to attend schools at all. Formerly they were married off at 10 or 12 years of age.

The mothers of the children of India certainly do not have to worry with their children after they have begun to school, for classes begin at 6 o'clock in the morning. At 9 o'clock there is an hour for breakfast and at 2 o'clock an hour for dinner. Then the pupils go back to school until evening. Very often they have to do lessons on paper. The teachers write the letters in the sand on the floor and each boy copies the letters on the sand before him. There are some larger and better schools in India, particularly in Kashmir where boys are being trained in athletics and chess as well as in ordinary academic work. The 600 pairs of shoes piled before the doorway of the school in Srinagar bear witness to the number of barefooted lads who are sitting at their desks inside the building.

Facts and Poetry.

Think you that the rounded rock marked with parallel scratches calls up as much poetry in an ignorant mind as in the mind of a geologist who knows that over this rock a glacier slid a million years ago? . . . Whoever has not in youth collected plants and insects knows not half the tale of interest which lures and lingers on his mind. Whoever at the seaside has not had a microscope and aquarium has yet to learn what the highest pleasures of the seaside are.—Herbert Spencer.

FOREST STREET DANGEROUS

To the Editor of the Star:
Conditions on the upper end of Forest street, are such that it seems pertinent to call them to the attention of the townpeople in the hope that some remedy will be suggested.

Within the last month, on the first hill this side of the Stoneham line, four automobiles have been thrown off the road completely. While it is remarkable that no lives were lost, it is only a question of time before some dreadful calamity takes place here.

The road here is curved and is slanted to the car track which runs on the side. The surface of the street (not tarred this year) is of a sticky substance and after a slight shower no autoist has a chance coming down this hill.

The first accident was a heavy truck travelling slowly and having as passengers a driver and small boy. This truck made two complete turns and landed in the garden of Mr. W. R. Baker. The second was also a truck carrying ice cream, having a driver and helper. After spinning on the roadbed this truck jumped over the car tracks and sidewalk landing on its side down a deep bank. We believe this driver was showing due care as he stated he realized the conditions on this street when he set out on a large touring car which fortunately contained only two people turned on the same spot and landed in the same position as the truck, breaking front end. The following Saturday a roadster skidded and was also smashed.

The conditions after these accidents happened are indescribable. Drivers slow up and stop leaving their cars and congesting the road to such an extent that others coming up over the brow of the hill try to stop and twist and slide in all directions.

Anyone in town desiring an exciting time should watch the traffic on this road. The huge stone trucks come down side by side as often as front-end-to. The drivers are simply holding to the wheel, the truck is coasting entirely out of control as far as stopping is concerned. It is remarkable that no street car has been passing at these times.

Probably the most serious used in town than Forest street, being the main road to the hospital from the surrounding towns and a thru thoroughfare for tourist travel. Residents at this end of the town desire some remedy. If we cannot have the roadbed resurfaced we should greatly appreciate a policeman or at least sign telling of the danger. It may be your family will be the next victim for it is not due to careless driving. Give us some protection soon. Forest Street.

EDWARD E. MURPHY

Edward Emmanuel Murphy of this town died suddenly at Corry, Pa., on Sunday July 29. He was born in New York city August 25, 1857, the son of Edward E. Murphy and Cornelia (Stover) Murphy, and was brought up in Tottenville, New York. Death was due to heart failure.

As an inventor, designer, and chemist, his activities showed him a man of marked fecundity and versatility, carrying him into many fields. He was the inventor of the safety razor, and, at its inception, was connected with the Gillette Safety Razor Company. As an expert on carbonation, he was known throughout the soda fountain manufacturing business. From 1902 to 1918, he was with the Puffer Manufacturing Company of this town as the designer and inventor of its apparatus. Since 1918, he had been acting in an advisory capacity improving and constructing machinery for the milk canning interests in and near Corry, at the same time developing new creations of his own.

He deceased leaves a widow, Mrs. Margaret Daniels Murphy, and three children, Dr. E. R. Murphy, Mrs. John T. Salyer, and Roland F. Murphy, all of this town. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon from the Episcopal Church at Tottenville, N. Y., and interment was in the family lot in that town.

AUTO ACCIDENT LAST NIGHT

Two automobiles were badly wrecked last evening at the junction of High, Church and Cambridge streets when a Ford cut around back of a load of hay and met a Nash head-on.

One man received a cut on his face from a broken windshield, which was the only personal damage outside the shock experienced by the passengers of both cars. The cars were so badly wrecked they had to be towed away.

According to reports of the affair, Albert P. Dooly of Boston was traveling south on Cambridge street in his Nash touring car. A load of hay coming down the High street hill was crossing the road, and a Ford sedan, owned by Julius Fridolin of Woburn, and driven by his son, traveling north on Cambridge street, cut around back of it just in time to meet the Nash squarely.

There will be a subscription done at the Winchester Boat Club this Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

BIG LIQUOR RAID

Winchester Police Capture Four Men and Quantity of Liquor

This town was the scene of a sensational liquor raid last Saturday afternoon, when Chief of Police McIntosh and a squad of officers made the biggest capture the town has seen since the Volstead act went into effect. Four men and an enormous quantity of liquor, including a big new copper still, were taken into custody. The still of the raid was the old James H. Winn estate on Washington street, North Winchester, just this side of the Northvale line.

The scene of the raid was known for years as Winn's cranberry meadow, the place formerly being occupied by the late James H. Winn. Of late it has been occupied by George Wells, a contractor. Chief McIntosh noticed recently that the old cranberry house, a structure about 60 by 25 feet, displayed signs of activity and that the old driveway had been repaired. He had his suspicions regarding this sudden activity about the place and planned to keep it under observation.

Saturday afternoon when he drove by he noticed smoke coming from the chimney of the shed. He decided that the time was ripe then and there to investigate the works, so he collected officers William Rogers, Edward O'Connell, Daniel P. Kelley and James Farrell and made the call.

As they arrived at the estate a motor truck was about to pull away. The driver halted it when confronted by a gun. In the truck were 75 gallons of redistilled alcohol. The driver, Harold Cohen, 20, 206 Shorttlee avenue, Chelsea, was arrested. Three men inside the building made for the windows when the officers entered, but they, too, surrendered at the sight of revolvers. They described themselves as Samuel Sates, 23, 29 Franklin avenue, Chelsea; Abraham Miller, 28, 57 Central avenue, Chelsea, and Frank Baron, 22, 22 Nevada street, Winthrop.

Officer Rogers was forced to show his gun before he finally placed the driver, Cohen, under arrest. A 400-gallon copper still, half full of distillated alcohol, was in operation. The still was heated from a steam furnace in the cellar, and the tell-tale smoke was issuing from the small chimney. The still was used to redistill the alcohol.

The raiders found more than 500 gallons of alcohol altogether. There were 150 gallons in five-gallon cans, all redistilled; 20 gallons in pint bottles, in dozen lots, and a few gallon cans. There was also found in the building, 25 empty five-gallon cans, 300 dozen empty pint bottles; four empty whiskey barrels and 300 empty one-gallon cans. A lot of rubber hose, a large zinc tub, and the usual tools and paraphernalia were also seized. A touring car outside was searched and one quart of "real" whiskey in seal was taken, although the car was returned to the owners.

The police were forced to make five trips to the house before all the liquor and material was stowed safely away in the cellar of the police station. Hundreds of people were attracted to the scene of the raid.

The cranberry house had been occupied for only about ten days. Wells stated to the police that the men mentioned had been made for the conduct of the plant, a new heating boiler having been installed in the cellar and a door cut through the shed to allow the motor truck to be driven inside.

The procedure followed was to redistill an alcoholic brew. This mixture, said to contain a high percentage of alcohol, had been purchased in great quantity. In fact the officers got so many cartons of a dozen bottles each that it took considerable time to count it all up. The result of the distillation was pure alcohol, which was placed in new gallon tins resembling a maple syrup tin.

The copper still was new and particularly well made, and everything connected with the plant was right up-to-date. The great quantity of neat cartons and shiny new cans, when piled high in the basement at the police station, looked as though the department was going into the grocery business.

The four men arrested were in the Woburn court Monday, charged with exposing and keeping liquor for sale. The cases were continued until this Friday.

TED LEWIS FROLIC OPENS SHUBERT THEATRE

New Musical revue with Ted Lewis himself and many other stars opens Shubert Theatre, (Boston) Season Saturday night, August 4.

Music, color, speed, beauty, and everything else that makes for joy and fun are promised in the announcement that the "Ted Lewis Frolic" will make its first bow at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, next Saturday night—August 4th, with a cast of principals and a chorus of girls sufficient to untire any tired business man—if there happens to be one left.

Among those who will be seen in the "Frolic" are Ted Lewis, of course, Julius Tannen, Helen Bolton, Lewis and Dody, Twelve American dancing girls, and (make that a large and, Mr. Composer) Lillian Lorraine. In addition, there is the chorus.

Lillian Lorraine has been missing from the stage for several years. She suffered a serious accident which incapacitated her for work and threatened to end her career forever, but through her pluck she has fought her way back to health and returns to her profession, in the "Frolic," as well as as beautiful as ever.

Lewis and Dody are vaudevillians whose stars have been rising rapidly the last few years, their song, "Hello, Hello, Hello," being one of the most popular "hit" songs of the times, as your phonograph dealer will attest.

William K. Wells and Arthur ("Bugs") Baer are responsible for the book, while Milton Acer and Jack Yellen will plead guilty to the music and lyrics. All but Mr. Baer have been identified with famous musical comedy successes, and "Bugs" Baer is nationally famous as a humorist. In the "Frolic," he devotes his talents to a revue book, for the first time.

The premiere of the "Frolic" in Boston is its national premiere, for it makes its virgin appearance in Boston, fresh, spontaneous, and new. It should prove to be one of the genuinely amusing shows of the season, which it opens.

Owing to President Harding's sickness, the speeches which he was to have made this week while in California, and which were to have been broadcasted by wireless throughout the country, were cancelled. Most of the large radio broadcasting stations were obliged to change their extensive plans to send out the speeches and substitute impromptu programs.

Winchester Lodge of Elks will hold its meeting on Tuesday evening, Aug. 7. This will be the last meeting before the joint outing with Woburn Lodge on Aug. 15.

LOCATELLI'S BALL SQUARE THEATRE

Patrons of Locatelli's Ball Square Theatre are unusually fortunate in the extraordinary quality of the entertainment which the two bills arranged for the coming week will present for their amusement. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be shown "The Exciters," with Bebe Daniels and Antonio Moreno in the featured roles. Miss Daniels was never more delightful than as this girl whose whole life was a search for excitement. It is a clever melodrama and comedy combined. The other picture for these days will be Jack Hoxie, one of the greatest exponents of the virile man of the west, in a real live story entitled "Don Quickshot." An educational comedy and a late news pictorial will also be shown. For Thursday, Friday and Saturday two of the most talented screen stars of the present day will be featured in one of their latest offerings. Pola Negri, the world's greatest emotional actress will be seen in a powerful drama entitled "Mad Love." Will Rogers, recognized as the finest wit and legitimate comedian of the theatrical profession will be presented in a most humorous picture called "Doubling for Romeo." This latter picture is one which will happily blend some excellent humor with a fine degree of Pathos. A late comedy and news pictorial will also be shown.

Friday afternoon a party left a Dodge coupe standing in front of the P. O. and as the brakes had not been tightened properly it started slowly on its way to the railroad track at the station. Quick work by Edward Fitzgerald and a couple of strangers turned the car aside so that it did not get on the track.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S PARISHIONERS TESTIMONIAL TO FR. HENRY M. LYONS

Several thousand men and women of St. Augustine's parish, South Boston, crowded the School Hall, E street Sunday evening, to tender a farewell reception and testimonial to the Rev. Henry M. Lyons, for the past 12 years a curate at St. Augustine's Church, and former Winchester boy, who has just been appointed pastor of the Church of the Annunciation, Danvers. There was a fine musical program, under the direction of Miss Helen Roche, who presided at the piano. The soloists were Dr. William T. Reilly, violin, and Mrs. Helena de Yone, dramatic soprano. Special numbers included a selection from "Lucia" by the trio, "Miracelli," Edson, by Miss Reilly, and "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses" by Mr. de Yone.

After the musical selections the Rev. Thomas F. Garrity, master of ceremonies, presented the pastor, the Rev. Joseph F. Coppinger, I. P. P., who delivered an address eulogizing Fr. Lyons. Then Fr. Coppinger, in behalf of the parishioners, presented Fr. Lyons a large package containing the unsolved puzzles which had been received at the church. Each little container represented a substantial testimonial in appreciation of the untiring efforts of Fr. Lyons who worked so hard for the spiritual and temporal welfare of the people of the parish.

In his address, Fr. Coppinger said: "St. Augustine is noted for its generosity and loyalty to its priests and parishes. I can particularly emphasize that as pastor of St. Augustine's Church, I find them loyal to pastor, curate and church and in a material way show their unbounded willingness to serve by acts of kind heartedness and unselfishness. I cannot begin to enumerate the many fine qualities possessed by Fr. Lyons, but the untiring zeal with which he went about his work and the loyalty that he showed me as his pastor will ever stand out strongly. The presence of this magnificent gathering gives testimony of your estimate of him. This is a joyous night, yet tinged with regret; joyous because he has been appointed to a fine parish and sad because we are losing one who has endeared himself to us.

"I, as pastor, thank you for this fine testimonial to Fr. Lyons, and I know I am voicing your sentiments when I say, 'May God bless you, Fr. Lyons, and help you in your work.'"

Fr. Coppinger then presented Fr. Lyons, who was received with cheers and handclapping that lasted fully 10 minutes. The newly appointed pastor of the Danvers church thanked the people for the testimonial and said that although he had only been away two weeks, he was glad to be again in dear old South Boston.

"I have been 12 years in St. Augustine," said Fr. Lyons, "but that was too short a time, for those 12 years were the happiest of my life. I cannot say that I am happy to be away from you."

He then thanked the parishioners for their kindness and courtesy at all times and said that everybody seemed willing and happy to assist in any undertaking he might inaugurate. He stated that it was a pleasure to work among people such as he found in St. Augustine's parish.

Before closing Fr. Lyons paid a fine tribute to the pastor, Fr. Coppinger, who, he said, was his inspiration. "The pastor was kind and considerate at all times," said Fr. Lyons. "He was always encouraging me in anything I undertook and placed at my disposal every moral and financial assistance needed. My life in the rectory was a most joyful one for the kindness and consideration of Fr. Coppinger, not only to me, but to all the curates, made it a most happy family. Fr. Coppinger is, indeed, one of the best pastors to be found anywhere in the diocese.

"Not only the loving deeds of the pastor, but the brotherly affection of Fathers Garrity, McGrail and Burke, curates with me, made life most serene and happy."

Fr. Lyons had just finished his address and was about to leave when George J. McDonnell arose in the audience, and ascending the platform, presented Fr. Lyons with a beautiful Holy Name pin, set with four diamonds. This was a special gift of the members of St. Augustine's Holy Name Society. Fr. Lyons was completely taken by surprise and was visibly affected and could only say a few words of thanks. The Holy Name Society was under the supervision of Fr. Lyons, who built it up, took great pride in it, and gave the members his unceasing help. Mr. McDonnell, in presenting the gift, said that it was in appreciation of the great work he had done for the society and for the spiritual consolation and happiness he had brought to the members.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lefavour and daughter, Miss Rosamond Lefavour, have just returned from a three weeks' auto tour through New York State and Vermont.

AGAINST COMPULSORY VACCINATION

"Any organization which challenges vaccination, a practice which has persisted in varying form for over a century, may appear to be rash," said Henry D. Nunn of Boston, general counsel of the Medical Liberty League, in discussing the vaccination question while in Winchester last week on business of his organization.

"But dissenters from old customs and practices are always considered presumptuous by the faithful adherents of such customs and practices, however absurd they may afterwards appear," continued Mr. Nunn, emphatically.

"The Medical Liberty League would not be concerned with vaccination, if it were not compulsory. But the practice is compulsory upon public school children at least, and therefore it is not irrelevant to question the merits of this procedure.

"In the first place the Medical Liberty League denies that vaccination has benefited or even lessened the prevalence of smallpox. The countries which have had the highest smallpox mortality in proportion to cases, in modern times—the Philippines, Germany and Japan,—are exactly the countries which have had the most thorough vaccination, under extremely drastic compulsory laws. Contrariwise, the great countries which have the least thorough vaccination and the least amount of legal compulsion—the United States and England—are the countries which have had the lowest smallpox mortality in proportion to cases.

"It is all-well even for laymen to apply ordinary processes of reasoning to this problem. For example, it is admitted by biologists and epidemiologists, as well as by all others who have taken to knowing anything about smallpox, that the specific or exact cause of the disease is unknown. It has been observed generally that smallpox takes hold most viciously where population is congested, the water supply is polluted and proper sanitary arrangements are wanting. But no one has traced the disease to a particular cause. Biologists believe that smallpox is a germ disease, but no one has ever isolated and identified the germ. It is supposed to be ultra-microscopic.

"Now then," challenged Mr. Nunn, "how can you reasonably expect to immunize a human being against the attack of a perfectly strange and unknown virus, by inoculating him with a small quantity of animal poison taken from the body of a sick calf, especially when the poison, or virus, so-called, is not standardized and is not legally or scientifically defined. Vaccine virus may be anything which the relatively small number of public and private laboratory specialists for the time being, may tacitly agree to employ.

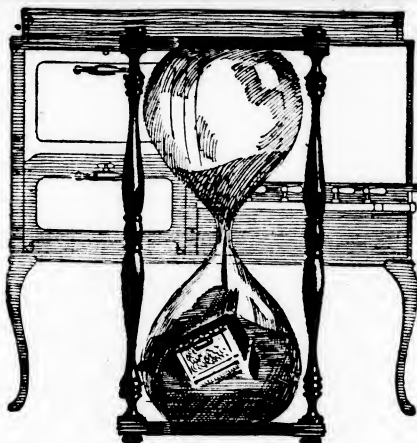

"Dr. Edward Jenner, the English country physician who introduced vaccination in 1778, as a dairy-maid's tradition which he had become convinced was true, first set up vaccination with cowpox matter. It is true, that after he had received $50,000 from the British Parliament, as the discoverer of vaccination or cowpoxing, he was asked to either even more repulsive animal disease poisons, in his own practice.

"But cowpox virus has been considered the classical matter for vaccination purposes, until cowpox as a disease of cows disappeared and the imported strains doing duty as cultural cowpox matter in American laboratories was found by the United States Agricultural Department to be responsible for the spread of the foot and mouth disease. Then it became necessary, either to abandon vaccination or to substitute something for cowpox. The substitution was made. The Massachusetts State Laboratory according to the statement of its director, Dr. Benjamin White, before a committee of the Legislature started a new series of so-called vaccine virus, by taking matter from the body of a human being suffering with smallpox, and with it inoculating a calf, and transferring the resulting eruption from calf to calf in consecutive series.

"At the present time the poison relied upon to protect a human body against the nameless and elusive, if not theoretical, smallpox germ, is this glycerinated bovinized smallpox matter. The person who believes in the protective value of such vaccination after knowing the facts, certainly has faith, to say the least.

"But even if it be admitted that any kind of virus which the vaccine laboratories are pleased to offer as a preventive for smallpox, will, in some degree protect persons inoculated with it, who can say how long the protection will last. No one cares to name any definite and certain period because vaccinated people have taken the smallpox at every possible period after vaccination.

"The stupendous problem then is how to keep any given population perfectly protected, even if one has had a preventive for smallpox. But it is common knowledge that the people of Massachusetts are not one hundred per cent or any other considerable ple per cent vaccinated. Only the public school children, if not exempted by a physician's certificate, are required by law to be vaccinated. All other children are outside the law. All adults are outside the law. Only the young children just entering the public schools are within the law. And this is the compulsory vaccination which we are asked to believe has thus far saved Massachusetts from decimating epidemics of smallpox!

Mary Keating, who escaped from the East Cambridge jail last Friday disguised in a long cape belonging to Mrs. John R. Fairbank, wife of the sheriff, in whose home she was employed as a housemaid, is recalled to many here through her detention in the Winchester police station following her arrest July 15th for larceny of clothing from the North Reading Sanitarium. Her arrest revealed a long list of complaints against her. She was a self-styled art model and moving picture actress, and during her employment at the hospital, the police say, she stole jewelry and clothing valued at several thousand dollars. A large quantity of property claimed to have been stolen by the girl was seized by the police in a room occupied by her at the Franklin Square House in Boston. Since her escape she has been reported as having been seen in Providence, R. I., where she applied for a marriage license.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Good nature, or ill, is like the leaves and fishes, the more we give away, the more we have.

If you will sing a song to greet the morning sun you will make the world that is to be done.

Many good, attractive people spoil the merits they have by trying to go something bigger and showier—be yourself.

We are quick to notice obstacles, grudges, affronts, are we equally quick to recognize the kindly influences that speed us on our way.

There is good in life and there is ill, the question is where we should put the emphasis.

Did you wear the full length red ones this week?

To the Winchester people who stayed in town last winter, the past ten days appeared like "old home week."

We need again call to the attention of correspondents the fact that all communications must be accompanied by the writer's name as a guarantee of good faith.

"Law, not War," appears very reasonable and is a good movement, but a growing anarchy in this country today is the inequality in the enforcement of our present laws.

Have you heard the latest? Some people are saying that the reason Winchester has had no land concerns in recent years is because the Metropolitan District Commission is afraid the river will ruin the area?

The reduction in the vicinity of $2 a thousand in some of the surrounding tax rates, which are beginning to be announced, is welcome, even though we can hardly hope to see it here. The report that our rate will soar to an even $27 is denied—but do not let your hopes run too high.

Two Winchester couples attended a dance at Burnhamst on the Cape Cod canal one evening this week. What a couple of hundred miles to the auto dance, anyway! Mighty is a good machine, and powerful the spirit of jazz!

From all reports it was a rather stormy night in the square on Monday. The tempest is said to have raged from 11 p. m. to 4 a. m., with waves so high that their after effects lasted well into Tuesday, and several of the sailormen will carry the results of their battering for many a day to come. The chief trouble appears to have been from the size of the crew and the nature of the cargo, which, together with the absence of the life savers, gave some of the passengers a bad half hour or so. However, from all accounts, they were well able to take care of themselves and emerged with flying colors. It was very wet, both outside and in. From observations, our centre is considerably overmanned and possibly somewhat unprotected, and it might be a wise provision to thin out the crew a little and make more ample and better accommodations for the passengers, especially the ladies.

The Selectmen it seems, are facing a predicament at the Town Hall. After letting the contract for the work of redecorating the interior of the hall, the fall of a portion of the plastering revealed a considerable leak in the roof on the south side. As is the case with repairs of this nature, the cost of ascertaining what the bill for the remedy would amount to, might very possibly be more than the actual work. Following the discovery of this leak, another leak has been found in the north roof. Application has been made to the Finance Committee for approval to an appropriation to defray the cost of these repairs, and according to last reports that committee is to meet with the Selectmen next Monday night. Meanwhile the painter has his stage set in the hall and is ready to go on with his contract. The Selectmen have a sort of Hobson's choice, in either holding up the painter and standing a bill for idle time, or going ahead with the repair work and trusting to a satisfactory solution of its financing.

IS A DELAY NECESSARY?

To the Editor of the Star:
We are informed that the School Committee are unlikely to take any steps at present in the selection of a Superintendent of Schools to fill the vacancy caused by the return of Mr. John R. Faussey to West Springfield, but we hope that further consideration will lead them to decide otherwise. It is true that this is the vacation season and that, with the rest of the world, they have a right to play a while, and it may appear practically to direct the operations of the schools and their conduct during the fall months (either by one or more members of the Committee or by the part time services of the recent incumbent, but we venture to suggest that in an emergency vacancies are performed curtailed or omitted and further, that the existing conditions indicate the first of September as the latest date upon which a new superintendent should be in charge of the educational system of the Town. It must be clear to the most casual observer of school work that the beginning of the school year is the time when the expert knowledge and skill of the responsible head of the schools is most important and it is certain that after the general unrest and dissatisfaction of the past two years or more among pupils and teachers and parents and interested citizens, any service which Mr. Faussey could render would be almost wholly prefrumitory in character and entirely ineffective. Without doubt the regular routine would be followed, but the real interest of the normal head would be in another town; the teachers would be anxiously awaiting the expression of ideals by the new superintendent and inevitably indifferent as to any other statements, the inspiration of leadership would be lacking and the work of the year would be injured. We recognize the fact that the members of the School Committee have a difficult task to perform and we assume that they do not intend to neglect it, hence we are reluctant to believe either that they will postpone action until after all have returned from their usual vacations, or that they will fail to provide without delay for the teachers of the boys and girls of the Town, the competent and cumulative direction which is their right, which the citizens of Winchester wish them to have, and which, to be in the highest degree effective, ought to begin on the first day of the new school year.

WHY THE DELAY?

No one believes of course, that our School Committee would delay action in filling the vacancy in its office of superintendent in order to enjoy an uninterrupted vacation for the remainder of the summer. Such thought has never entered the head of staid and steady-going John Citizen or any of his family. It appears but a nightmare in the minds of some of the disgruntled voters who fail to recognize in any degree the careful thought and deliberate consideration necessary in the situation.

We have it upon the authority of a reliable member of the board itself that "the committee will elect a new superintendent as soon as possible," and his word is as good as his bond. He informed the Star last week that "even if some months elapse, as is likely, before the members have satisfied themselves that they have selected the right man, the school will not suffer if they remain under Mr. Faussey's guidance until the vacancy is filled."

Safe, sane and conservative action is the motto. Let us not clamor for a hasty and ill considered move in this important matter. Our schools will be able to function. They have for the past few years. We are fairly certain that we can "muddle through."

What is a few months matter? If our committee meet early in September, a month's investigation and deliberation on candidates for the position should suffice to allow a vote to be taken upon its choice for the office. This would mean that by early in October its selection could be approached, and should be accepted, as might be possible, he could probably make arrangements for his release from any position he is then holding to take effect in four or five weeks. This would carry into the middle of November only, and provided it were possible for him to assume duty here by that season, it would only take a month or two for him to gather up the reins of office, and we would be assured of having our machinery in motion early next year.

Surely this is a very careful and well laid out program! Whatever else may be said, our committee cannot be accused of coming to any snap judgment! We are no worse off than we have been! Our former superintendent would still give us all the time he has to spare from his new position!

The only criticism to be brought forth as the Star views the situation is the question of whether, even under these conditions, too hasty action may not be charged. Why, we ask, is it absolutely necessary to make an appointment during the same school year. Now that we know we must get out into the cold, harsh world and pick a new executive, why not give super-careful thought to the matter; why not, with neutral, unbiased minds, gather together our data and facts, and then through the long winter evenings calmly and judiciously weigh the evidence and consider the testimony?

The point appears well taken! There is, however, one other feature which should not be overlooked. If it should appear possible that the committee might unite in its individual minds and without an official meeting, upon some educator of ability who is now familiar with our system, schools and teaching force, it would be needless to give the question any lengthy consideration or to forego the promised recreation and pleasures of the beautiful season we are now entering.

SHOWED LAST EVENING

Miss Margaret B. Harrold, daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. John Harrold of Myrtle street, was given a shock last evening when she entered the house from the piazza where she had been sitting, and found it full of friends who had entered by the side door unknown to her. There was an assembly of over 70 relatives and friends, the gathering being for the purpose of tendering a miscellaneous shower to Miss Harrold, who is to marry Mr. Charles Eckert of Brooklyn, N. Y., next Thursday.

The bride-to-be was presented with a great quantity of beautiful and useful articles of every description, and a very enjoyable evening was experienced by her, her husband-to-be, and the company attending. During the evening solos were rendered by Mrs. McMiniman, Mrs. McGrath and Mrs. George Wynan.

The readers of the Star will remember around the first of April this year the Legion Baseball committee through the columns of the Star made an appeal for funds. They also mailed to fifteen hundred residents letters stating the facts and what they proposed to do with the help of the townspeople.

The response was hearted and the amount donated was comparatively very small as a matter of fact, of the total amount raised sixty per cent was donated by members of the Legion. In other words the Legion paid a membership of about 350 gave almost twice as much as the whole town. The management went ahead with their plans hoping that perhaps more returns would come from their letters and that there would be good large crowds at their games who would all give their quarter to see the games. Neither of these two last mentioned things happened.

The crowds with two exceptions have been low, so low in fact, that it is now impossible to put on a good game and break even on the expenses. That is, all the Legion wants to do. We do not want to make money. We are striving to bring baseball back to the standard it was several years ago. The management has been economical to the nth degree and have been putting on a good baseball as is consistent with the funds on hand. They have now a good team with a record of thirteen wins, two losses and two tie games. They have won the last six games played all with good semi-pro teams. There is room, however, for some improvements on our team and we can get some opponents here who will be a big attraction. This will take money, however, and will need the backing of the fans at the games.

We are therefore making this appeal to the friends of the Legion for help. Help to put on better baseball and give more entertainment to the people of the town.

Next Saturday we propose to have a tag day. Let every one contribute their mite no matter how small and if the box is not large enough get in touch with any of the members listed below and give us a boost. Look up those pledge cards that were sent in the spring, fill them out and send them out and send along a check for a good cause. A telephone call to any of the members listed below will bring you a representative and tell you the whole story. R. H. Hamilton, 273-R; D. L. Harlow, 1239-M; J. Johnston, 1243-W; George F. LeDuc, 9210-M; George D. LeDuc, 9729.

NOTES

Tonight the Legion boys go to Wakefield for a league game. At the present time Wakefield, Malden and Winchester are tied for first place in the league standing so the fans may count on a hotly contested game this evening.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 on Manchester Field the Legion team takes on the Roxbury Red Sox. This although not familiar to the local fans has been putting up a first class brand of baseball on the other side of Boston and are liable to give the fans a big surprise.

Winchester has now won six straight games and will fight to keep that record up. Everyone up for a good ball game and don't forget to buy a ticket.

There was a very beautiful display of flowers, including offerings from numerous organizations with which Mrs. Cummings had been identified, and delegates were in attendance from the Church, the Visiting Nurse Association, The Fortnightly and the Home for Aged People.

The burial was in Wildwood cemetery.

SELLING AUTOMOBILES ON SNOWSHOES

Winter's Snows Fail to Smother Our Energetic Franklin, N. H., Dealer

The following article, from the current issue of "The Lancaster Beacon," will, doubtless, interest Winchester friends of Mr. Frank H. Gerlach, formerly of this town and son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gerlach. Mr. Gerlach has been engaged for the past few years in the automobile business at Franklin, N. H., where he moved with his parents. His success has been phenomenal.

How would you sell automobiles when there are eight or ten feet of snow on the ground? If you want the answer to that question, Frank H. Gerlach, our Reo dealer in Franklin, N. H., can give it to you. He goes out and sells them, no matter what the weather.

FRANK H. GERLACH

in Franklin and vicinity. The territory he has covered is nearly 175 Reo's there, all through his energetic sales efforts.

Frank H. Gerlach was originally the superintendent of a well-known shop. He came to Franklin in 1919 with a company which was manufacturing fabricated houses, but when in 1921, the opportunity came his way to take over the dealer franchise for that territory he eagerly fell in line. He had had Reo's since 1916 and knew their worth; in fact, his first one traveled over 100,000 miles. Thus he was familiar with the proposition and knew he could succeed with it. He has, in spite of the fact that six months of the year find his territory covered with several feet of snow.

Gerlach's business started in a small place and he had to make service arrangements outside, but in 1922 he opened an 18-car garage and service station on the main street of Franklin, following that, this year, with another service station and showroom at Laconia, 14 miles away.

HOW HE DOES IT

He has six employees and carries a $1500 to $1800 stock of Reo parts. White Mountain tourists are good customers of his, coming to him for service and taking advantage of his complete service equipment.

Judge Thomas Clifford, of Franklin, and Mr. C. A. Brewster, cashier of the Tilton (N. H.) National Bank, are two of his well-known and well-pleased customers, both owning Reo touring cars. Mr. A. J. Meaney, farmer and storekeeper, of Franklin and Bristol, has a touring car and two speed wagons. Garages, especially, have been won by this wonder Reo truck, and six garages in Gerlach's territory have fine Reo speed wagons as equipment.

If we were to give Frank Gerlach a nickname, if his first name were less easy to remember, we should call him "Wildfire." He is a whirlwind of enthusiastic energy. He is the kind of man who plows through difficulty with full steam ahead and then looks around and says, "Look at the trou." "The 'H-I-M-I-N-I'." And when spring comes he has to hustle to deliver the orders he has taken, when using his snowshoes in the winter.

There was a large attendance of friends from this and surrounding towns present at the wedding last Saturday evening of Miss Maude Frances Gurney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David W. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Albin B. Coffey of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was held at 8 o'clock at the First Congregational Church.

Mr. J. Alfred Fox, of Elm street, brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Josephine Gurney, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Hattie Adair, of North street, and Mrs. Bessie B. Fox, of Elm street. The brides, Robert H. Fox, of Elm street, and Maude Frances Gurney, of Bowdoin, were married at 8 o'clock at the First Congregational Church.

A large number of friends from this and surrounding towns were present at the wedding, which will take place in New York and Philadelphia. They will reside in Winchester.

Mr. Smith still counts his good fortune in through advertising satisfaction received this week, when he received one of the site curtains of his auto, advertised in our "lost" column a fortnight ago. Miss Hattie Cuddey also compliments the Star on its prompt sale of her piano, although she regrets parting with the instrument, which was the Star brings results every time.

PRIZE STORIES

Public School Children Who Won Contest

A prize story contest was held this summer in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades in the public schools. The names of the 12 winners were printed in the Star of June 15. This paper now gives to its readers the stories themselves. They are published weekly until all 12 have been printed.

A MESSAGE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON

Grade Seven—Second Prize in Public School Prize Story Contest

"Faith dear," said Mrs. Owen, please run out and play in the summer house, I am so distracted about your father."

"Can't I do anything for him?" inquired Faith, as she crushed a pretty summer hat on her fair head.

"No thank you," replied her mother, "and please don't ask me that question again. Now run out and don't worry."

Faith Owen turned and walked slowly out of the house. She was a tall girl, with large blue eyes, and long fair hair, which hung loosely about her shoulders. She was just about 13 years of age. One might have thought she was 20 for a little pucker adorned her forehead. She did worry about her father, and longed to do something for the great General Washington.

She turned her steps toward the summer house. Entering she sat down in her favorite corner and produced her knitting from her pocket, for in those days even the smallest child must knit or sew, as upon the women and children rested the task of providing clothes, socks, and other things for the American soldiers.

Mrs. Owen was now at home, for he had recovered himself from his hero, while pursuing five English troops, "Oh dear, I do want to do something for General Washington," she sighed, as she knitted busily on.

"You can," she heard a voice say. "Who said that?" she inquired, looking up with a startled air.

She perceived a young man dressed as an American soldier. His uniform was in a sad state. He looked very weak for he had eaten no food for two days.

"How are you?" she questioned the young soldier eagerly.

"You can carry this message to General Washington as I am unable to, as I may be caught and hang as a spy," he replied, producing a small piece of paper upon which were two words, "General Washington."

"I will," eagerly asserted Faith.

"But how?"

"Ah, there are my horses on the estate," he implored.

"Oh yes," answered Faith, "I'll ride."

"Well then be sure you hasten to the headquarters at Burton for the General is starting for New York to-day."

"I will hasten to the best of my ability," replied Faith.

"Very well," replied the soldier, handing Faith the message, "and I sincerely hope no harm comes to you for the message is of great importance."

Faith took the message and ran toward the stable.

"Sampson, Sampson," she called.

"Yes Miss Faith," replied the old negro hobbling out to her bidding.

"Will you please saddle Perry for me as quickly as possible?"

"Yes, Miss Faith, I reckon I done well."

In a few minutes Perry was saddled and leaping upon her back Faith called as she galloped away: "Thank you, Sampson."

"I reckon she's up to snuff for her pranks," mused the old man looking lovingly after Faith.

Faith pursued her way till she perceived her horse was getting tired.

"Perry old Perry," she said, slowing down from her sitting position to caress the horse. "We won't go so fast."

They rode on in silence for an half hour. Then Faith saw the town of her destination. She urged Perry onward. Upon entering the town she hastened to the headquarters.

A man was standing there gazing at her with wide open eyes for she presented an unusual appearance.

"General Washington?" she gasped.

"Thanks," she managed to reply before Perry was out of hearing distance.

They pushed forward once more until to her joy she perceived the American soldiers marching along the road. She urged Perry on until they reached General Washington.

"This is a message for you, sir," she gasped handing him the precious paper.

The general took it and opened it. His face expressed a feeling of joy.

"My little maid," he said turning to Faith "where did you get this?"

So Faith told him about the young American soldier and how he had given her the paper and asked her to deliver it to General Washington.

You shall be taken home with five men at your back, when you return," said the general.

Faith started for home and when she reached there the story had to be told to her mother and father.

"I am glad that a child of mine could do anything for so great a man as General Washington," said her father.

Faith felt very proud, but at the end of the day an soldier from General Washington rode up with some remembrance for her father, and a little note saying, "My thanks to the loyal little maiden who served me well."

Faith was so enraptured that she did not notice herself. She went out doors and began a series of wild Indian dances. That night she fell asleep with her head pillowed on the pillow and in a dream of seeing General Washington.

Nichols in the junior game together with the all round work of Bobbie Smith in that game were features on the Scouts' teams.

An unusual feature this year was the story telling of John Robinson, the boys all claiming that in order to pass a good night's sleep in the camp they must have a story from John Robinson and he'd oblige with something from Poe, Dumas or Mark Twain.

In view of the fact that the boys slept in their blankets on wooden shutters it was surprising how well they slept.

Richard Dow with considerable forthrightness brought along a mosquito netting, which hung rather awry however after an acrobatic exhibition of Junior Kelley and Henry Knowlton. The finale coming when Henry Knowlton landed "up side down" partly on the mosquito netting and partly on Richard Dow's head while Richard was peacefully slumbering.

It is deserving to be emphasized that the boys were a fine lot of scouts, good workers and pleasant, and that Junior Kelly, Henry Knowlton, Frankie Kelly, and Richard Dow were fine officers. The camp was made happy by a visit from Asst Scout Master James Fitch who immediately on his arrival was as usual ready to help everybody who needed it.

TOWN MOURNS

Memorial Services Here and Closing of Stores Friday

Winchester, in common with the whole country, has been plunged into a period of mourning over the death of President Warren G. Harding, and a general observance on Friday, the day of the funeral services at Marion, O., will be held. During the week the flags on all public buildings have been flown at half-mast, while many private flags have been displayed about town similarly as an expression of the grief and sorrow of our residents. Many of the merchants have displayed in their windows pictures of the late President draped in black.

Early in the week Chairman Bryne of the Selectmen authorized Mr. Edward R. Wait, the well known architect, to arrange for draping the Town Hall, and Mr. Wait, together with Mr. Ormsby Court, arranged artistic mourning decorations at the entrance to the building. The work was aided by Chief DeCoursey of the fire department, who assisted with ladders, the members of the fire department hanging the drapery at the difficult points. The decorating was very artistic, centering about a large oil painting of the President. This painting is by J. Edgar Fitzgerald, a member of the art colony at Rockport and a personal friend of Mr. Wait's. He painted the portrait expressly for the Town Hall, and out of a dozen or more pictures submitted for copying, he selected that printed in last week's issue of the Star as the most appropriate. The painting is about 2 by 3 feet and is artistically framed in gold and black.

The decorations at the Town Hall, through the E. C. Sanderson Co., are beautifully illuminated at night, a flood light having been installed by this firm.

Arrangements have been made to hold memorial services here, a union service of the Protestant churches being held Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock at the First Baptist Church, and a solemn memorial service at St. Mary's Catholic Church at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Chairman Bryne of the Selectmen prepared to make arrangements for a public memorial service covering the entire town early in the week, but owing to the fact that the Town Hall is not available, it being filled with staging for the repairs now going on, it was thought better to abandon this idea.

The union service at the Baptist Church is held under the auspices of the Inter-Church Council of Winchester. The service will be led by the ministers of Winchester who are in town, and all citizens are invited to attend.

The solemn memorial services at St. Mary's Church will be held under the personal direction of Rev. N. J. Merritt, pastor. The Requiem service will be sung by a children's choir of 60 voices, while the Rosary, Litany and Prayers will be presided over by Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbon. Benediction of the most blessed sacrament will close the service, to which all the faithful of Winchester are invited.

During the hour of the services at Marion, the bells in town will be tolled. The stores and business houses in town will, in general, close during the day. In some instances certain business houses have felt that only the afternoon could be given up to mourning observance, but the Town officials, and practically all of the stores and merchants will close during the day, as will the banks.

The Winchester Post Office will be closed between the hours of 5 and 6 p. m.

SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH FIELD DAY

On September 8, 1923, the Second Congregational Church of Winchester will hold a Field Day. Committees have been appointed and plans are well under way for a large day for the Highlands.

The day will start with a ball game at 2 o'clock p. m. The athletic committee promises a hard, clean, fast game of ball by amateurs who will play not for money, but for the pure joy of a contest. After the game there will be races and contests of various kinds. Refreshments for the program will be furnished by a very capable committee.

Processions from the Field Day will be turned over to the Building Committee to be added to the fund for building the new Church edifice.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Gilbert are spending the month of August at New Boston, N. H.

LEIGHTON-KENNEALLY

Miss Katherine T. Kenneally of 31 Nelson street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Kenneally, and Mr. Bernard Elliott Leighton, son of the late Levi Leighton of Portland, Me., and Mrs. Annie E. Leighton of Washington, D. C., and Portland, Me., were married on Tuesday noon at St. Mary's parochial residence by the Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbon.

The couple were attended by Miss Mildred Kenneally, sister of the bride, and Mr. Clement Koons of Roxbury. The bride wore a wedding dress of white organdie and her mother's wedding veil. Her bouquet was a shower of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served the wedding party at the home of the bride's parents, at the close of which they left on their honeymoon, which will be spent at the summer home of the groom's mother, "Knobby Knobbles" on Highland Lake, Woodford, Me.

The couple will make their future home in Muskogee, Oklahoma.

UNION MEMORIAL SERVICE IN FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH FRIDAY EVENING AT 7:45 O'CLOCK

A service is being planned under the auspices of the Inter-Church Council of Winchester in response to the Proclamation of the President and Governor Cox to observe Friday as a day of mourning and prayer in remembrance of the passing of President Warren G. Harding. This service will be held by the ministers of Winchester who are in town, and all citizens of the town are invited to fulfill their patriotic and religious privilege by attending this service. The service will be held in the church auditorium, and the church bell will be tolled for fifteen minutes before the service begins.

MRS. MARGARET ABERCROMBIE

Mrs. Margaret Abercrombie, long a resident of Winchester, passed away at the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Nickerson, at Cohasset on Wednesday last week.

Mrs. Abercrombie, of Mayflower ancestry, was born in Boston, where her school days were passed, then moving to Lynn, where she was married, coming at that time to Winchester, where she had continued her residence.

Mrs. Abercrombie was a woman of rare character, of a kindly hospitable nature, always thoughtful of and doing for the comfort and happiness of others, a help to those in need and in trouble, beloved by her friends and neighbors, who will sadly miss her, and who mourn her going.

Mrs. Abercrombie was a member of the Congregational Society of the town.

Her sons, Belling G. Abercrombie, Jr., of Alberta, Canada, and Lawrence C. Abercrombie of Los Angeles, California, with whom she spent the past winter, survive her.

The burial service was at Wildwood on Tuesday, the Rev. Mr. Gerald J. Cohasset officiating.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Solemn Memorial Services for our late Chief Executive, Warren G. Harding, will be held in St. Mary's Church, Friday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. The children's choir of 60 voices under the personal direction of the Rev. N. J. Merritt, Pastor, will sing the Requiem service while the Rosary, Litany and Prayers for our departed Christian and for the guidance of those in authority will be presided over by the Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbon. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will close the service, to which all the faithful of Winchester are invited.

ANOTHER CAR WRECKED ON CHURCH STREET TREE

Another automobile was wrecked by striking the big elm tree in Church street on Monday afternoon. Adrian Kramer of Boston driving his Peerless sedan into the tree at about 2:45. He said he was looking to one side in attempting to avoid another car at the time and failed to see the tree. Fortunately he was travelling slowly, his car not going much over ten miles an hour when the accident happened.

Kramer escaped with a badly scratched head. The bumper of the car was smashed, the axle and frame bent, and the headlights, front mudguards, radiator, etc., were bent and broken. Although the car was twisted so that it appeared impossible to drive it, Kramer left under power to drive it to his home.

INTERESTING GAME FOR SATURDAY

The Malden City Club are up on their ears because of losing the game last Monday night and will be here Saturday afternoon with a formidable array of sluggers, some of them being borrowed for the occasion.

The game is the payoff of the tie game played here a week ago Thursday night and has all the marks of being a hot one. Winchester will present a strong lineup. Ernie Mathews will catch, for he has proved a great addition to the team. Phillips a new man at short stop will please the fans for he is a born baseball player and will cause the best of them to look to their laurels. Dolly Gray will perform in the field. Don't miss this game.

Miss Alice Foley, general clerk at the Town Hall, is enjoying a fortnight's vacation, spending this week on a trip over the Mohawk Trail with friends. During her absence, Miss Winnifred Vago is assisting at the Town Hall.

LOCATELLI'S BALL SQUARE THEATRE

With such well-known stars as Betty Compson, Corliss Palmer, Enid Bennett and House Peters, patrons of Locatelli's Ball Square Theatre need have no scruples as to the quality of the entertainment to be furnished at that comfortable playhouse for the coming week. Topping the bill for the first three days of the week will be "The Woman With Four Faces," in which Betty Compson takes the role of a girl crook who in her effort to reform, finds it necessary to help break up the gang which held her in its spell. It is a picture with much dramatic power and in it Miss Compson does some of the best work of her distinguished career. The other feature for these three days will be "The Eternal Two," with Corliss Palmer in the featured role. Miss Palmer is the young lady who has the distinction of having won several beauty contests and who is proclaimed to be a real dramatic star as well as beauty. A short subject appropriate to Miss Palmer's rise to fame will be the presentation of the photoplay, "From Farm to Fame" (on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Enid Bennett will be seen in "Scandalous Tongues," a picture which exposes in most glaring manner the terrible harm wrought by society's worst vice-gossip, House Peters, one of the screens most capable actors, will be seen to great advantage in "The Invisible Power." Thrills, action and suspense are all packed into this stirring photoplay. A comedy and a news pictorial also will be shown at each performance.

TWO ACCIDENTS ON FOREST STREET

Two accidents occurred on Forest street during the rain Tuesday morning within a minute or two of each other, both autos being owned in Newton. A touring car and a runabout skidded on the slippery road at the dangerous turn just below the Creamer house, one crashing into a telegraph pole and smashing its front end and the other overturning. The driver of one car was badly cut by broken glass, but the other driver escaped without injury. One of the cars was smashed so it had to be towed away by a Stoughton garage service car. The other, being righted, was able to run and was driven away for repairs.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

If you will stop now and then and realize how fresh and happier and braver the world is, it will do much to keep your spirit young.

We like to be hospitable, to what should we be more hospitable than a glad spirit or a kind impulse.

Good morning, Bro. Sunshine.
 Good morning, Sister Song.
 Good morning, Sister Smile.
 Good morning, Sister Kindness.
 Good morning, Sister Cheer.

Which of these do you practice most frequently.

"Winchester Day" next Wednesday.

Residents will note from a perusal of the table printed in this issue of the Star that our land valuation decreases this year by $35,525. This is occasioned by the takings by the Town for the new school buildings.

Another automobile was wrecked on the tree in Church street this week. A beautiful fact no doubt! A menace to life without question! Traffic and conditions have changed greatly during the past few years. The present sentiment is to have the Town take a vote upon its removal. This is right and as it should be, so long as we have some of our residents who desire to retain it.

The tree in Church street will not be removed without a vote of the people, but for the safety of existing motorists, a sign reading "either side" should be placed upon the tree, so that it is not at once. As it is now, strangers do not know whether they may pass either side of it or not, making it a point of considerable uncertainty and additional danger.

Those of us who duck the office to enjoy a good game of golf or tennis, are prone to sit in smug case after a refreshing bath and light and airy and our views upon the mortgage payment and a sign of satisfaction and affairs, but the death of our late President and the physical condition of his predecessor should bring home to us so fully the realization that one may not wear the mantle of responsibility of this great nation without carrying the burden of its cares.

Two more automobiles were smashed on Forest street during the rain of Tuesday morning by skidding on the slippery surface. Fortunately the injuries to the drivers were slight. There is little question but what this highly crowned road with its numerous curves and slippery surface is a decided danger point. For a long time the Star has felt that it should be rebuilt to the extent at least of cutting off the crown and possibly banking the corners. It is by far the most dangerous main roadway we have in town, and should receive early attention.

The columns of the Star have given some idea of the number of Winchester people who are away this summer, but it takes a trip about the country to have the fact impressed upon one of the actual number who are enjoying the warm weather at sea shore or country. During the past few weeks the Editor has been enjoying the weekends on Cape Cod, and he has not stopped at a single village without meeting some of the "home folks," and this without including the calls made upon friends who are known to be stopping at this or that resort. Thus far Mearns appears to hold the largest colony from Winchester, with Chatham and Annisquam close seconds.

In company with Town Engineer James Hinds and Maurice Dimmen of the local Health Department, the Editor was privileged to make a trip last week up the Abenja River. It brought home more forcibly than ever the question of how any health authorities can possibly stand by and allow this body of sewage to flow through the thickly settled lower Mystic Valley without at least making protest. Why not treat it as it is—brackish over and call it the Manufacturers Sewer, or some other appropriate name? As a river of water it simply does not exist—unless water, which we always imagined to be colorless, transparent liquid composed of oxygen and hydrogen, has, with the times, taken on a new definition.

A LADY called on one of the officials in a New York bank for advice and said "I have been carrying this check for twenty-five thousand dollars from a life insurance company in my purse for a month, and I don't know how to invest it."

The insured could have arranged a settlement under a Northwestern contract, giving her a good return, and absolute safety, or the beneficiary could have made the same arrangement.

tion. Here a great pelting factory, with its huge pile of decaying sludge on the river edge, draining and washing into the water; there a huge tannery, discharging its thick blue soapy refuse in a stream (which blue soapy refuse a twelve-inch pipe, through a runway connecting directly with the river, openly and above board. So the trip progressed, each and every factory and plant adding its quota to the great open sewer. So far as evidence of pollution is concerned it is ludicrous to consider it. It does not have to be detected; it preclaims itself! As one family living on the course of the river stated, it gets used to the odor in the day time, but "it wakes us up at night." It is a wonder they do not go to sleep once and for all, and never wake up! Powerful must be the interests back of these great plants, which so openly and fearlessly discharge their waste into the river drain. Those living over the stream do not need to look to the wind from the west nor the wind from the south; they know where the stench comes from! And where does Winchester stand? It stands at the little end of the funnel. Go down and look at it! Better still—take an afternoon and see what is dumped into it! Then make up your mind if you are satisfied to put up with it.

THE SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH SECURES OPTION ON LAND FOR SITE OF NEW CHURCH

Due to the growth of the congregation and limited equipment for service, it has been found necessary to erect a new church building to serve the community. Having that desire to serve the Second Congregational Church has appointed the following persons as a new church building committee to go on as and with the work:

Mr. F. Buckminster Miss M. McElhenny
 Mr. John Park Miss I. Copland
 Mr. A. Kendrick Mrs. W. J. Nutter
 Mr. H. Ward Mrs. B. Sawyer
 Rev. J. E. Whitley Mr. C. Buckminster
 Miss L. Tolman

An option has been secured on the land on the northeast corner of Fairmount and Washington streets. This site will be very beautiful, convenient and suitable for the new church. The campaign for raising funds for the new church is well started, and plans are under way for activity in the fall so that there will be an opportunity for every one to contribute toward the new building, which will mean much in this community.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Capt. and Mrs. Abel A. Howard of South Yarmouth, celebrated their golden wedding on Tuesday. They stood beneath a wedding veil filled with confetti as Rev. William T. Carter spoke of their 50 years of married life. Music and readings completed the exercises and many called to congratulate the worthy couple. They received a purse of gold and other gifts. Capt. Howard was for many years a pastor of the local church, and Mrs. William H. Wood of Highland avenue is a daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Wood attended the festivities.

SMOKING, DRINKING, CHAPTERS CATER TO YOUTHS' WHIMS, DECLARES MOTHERS' CLUB HEAD

New Kind Needed, Says Mrs. Mason of Winchester—Blames Careless Dress and Motor Car for the Lack of Present Day Youth

"They smoke and drink openly—" "They dance the most extreme dances—" "Because modern chaperons do these things today," says Mrs. Edward C. Mason, president of the Massachusetts Congress of Mothers, a new kind of chaperon is needed.

"Some of our modern chaperons who permit silly kissing are worse than useless," she declares.

By J. R. Milne

Once upon a time there was a good girl, who always did what her mother told her to do; who went to church every Sunday, and sometimes sang in the choir; who was sweet sixteen before she'd ever been kissed by a man; who never went driving, or to a dance with a man unless he met with her mother's approval.

The good girl has grown up now, and has a daughter. This daughter is a good girl, too, of course, but sometimes she worries her mother terribly. It's because they can't seem to see things in the same light. If, when she was a girl, the mother had done the things which the daughter thinks nothing of doing, there would have been a fearful town scandal.

Millions and millions of words have been written about the good girl of yesterday and the good girl of today. (For most writers admit that most girls are just as good today as they were yesterday, although lots of them contend that it's hard to believe, with all these going-ons.)

Now, there's one man in America who knows more about boys and girls, and young men and young women, than any other man. He's both a Tarkington, who wrote "Papa" and "Seventeen." Recently in Collier's magazine, he blamed the wildness of youth on automobiles, dancing books, laxness of parents, and too much friskiness.

Wants Chaperon to Return

Which is all very well, but Mrs. Edward C. Mason of Winchester, who is president of the Massachusetts Congress of Mothers and the Parent-Teachers' Association, goes Mr. Tarkington one better.

She speaks for the return of the chaperon. And the sort of chaperon she'd have isn't at all the chaperon the world's been used to and that has fallen into disfavor of late.

The chaperon she advocates is likely to be popular even with the "wild-est" of young people.

"To say that the automobile is a curse," she told me, "would be very foolish, of course. But it is true that the automobile is partly responsible for the wildness of the young folks of today. The automobile and the movies and the radio and the canned music—all these things belong to the Machine Age of which Mr. Tarkington speaks.

Alone in the Parlor

"When I was a girl a dance was quite an event. It was the same with the theatre and all other treats. And when a young man called on a girl that call was a very important occasion—so important that the young man prepared for it with great thoroughness. He groomed himself carefully, dressed in his best suit, and his heart beat somewhat faster than usual as he walked up the steps of the girl's home.

"The whole family was there to receive him. True, the girl and he were left to themselves in the parlor, but they were not quite alone. In the next room, perhaps across the hall, sat father and mother. The young folks were more or less on their dignity, but they did manage to enjoy themselves. At all events the young man called again and again, showing that he found pleasure in his visits in spite of chaperonage.

"Today the young man drives up in his sport car and toots the horn for the girl to come out. Oftentimes he has only a nodding acquaintance with her parents, if that. He is well enough dressed, but in the careless style of today—no knickers, or something of the sort.

Modern Chaperons' Useless

"There are chaperons at dances today, but they are chaperons for whom, in every instance, I have little use. They are really worse than useless. They are silly women, eager to play along with the young, and surrendering the ideals of their own generation in order to become acceptable to a wild youth.

Women Who Drink

"They dance the most extreme dances; they smoke and drink openly. And what would one of them do if she came upon a young man kissing a girl whom she was supposed to be looking out for. Some chaperons, of course, might reprove the couple, but there are far too many who would turn on their heel with perhaps a smile of benediction.

"I know of one woman who gave a party to a number of youngsters—few of them more than 15 years old—and passed out cigarettes! She meant no harm. She knew that many of them smoked and was eager to give them the things they wanted, in order that they might consider her a 'good fellow'."

But it is possible for a woman to become acceptable to "wild youth" without miserably surrendering. Mrs. Mason told me of a woman who had achieved complete control of her children without being aware of the reason.

"While I was at a recent convention," she said, "I met a woman from Connecticut who was the mother of several children. When she was told of the difficulties that mothers were having with their sons and daughters, she was amazed.

"An Old Lady Around"

"She told me that she had always expected that her young ones would want to go off by themselves for their good times. But the fact of the matter was that they didn't! Her children always insisted that she go with them—to the theatre, to dances, to all parties.

"But you'd have a better time by yourselves," she'd tell them. 'I'd just by a bother having an old lady around.'"

"They'd have none of that, so she always had to go with them. The reason was rather obvious. The mother had always been a pal to her children. She instinctively combined their viewpoint with her own. Early in life they had come into an understanding with her, so that they learned to respect her common sense.

"There is your ideal chaperon, the chaperon which I hope will come into prominence soon. She is the mother who understands her daughter, sympathizes with her, and wins her daughter's confidence and respect. The father has work to do, also! He has his son to guard."

"Young people have been blamed for not respecting age. Once I felt that young people should respect age, but now I am far from sure. Why should a girl respect an older woman unless that woman has done something worthy of respect? Age in itself has few claims to honor.

"If young people disagree with older people, it is just possible that the young ones are right. Sometimes they seem very silly. They act as if they 'knew it all.' Well, perhaps they do! Perhaps they actually know more than the older people do. Older people must learn to adapt themselves to the young without abject surrender.

Parent, to Blame

"Comparatively few parents know how to bring up children. This last generation has been guarded in the home, and guarded in the church, and in the schools. But a new place of congregation has sprung up—the Street. And when I say the street, I mean all places where the young have been meeting and having their good times.

"Rather dazed by the inventions of the Machine Age, the parents have just looked on and watched their children succumb to dangers. Some have made the futile attempts to better things, but few have tackled the problem in the right way.

"Fathers and mothers in the future must know their job. Being a parent is just about as big a job as the world offers, you know, yet how many married couples have the faintest idea of the duties of a parent?"

"Schools of parenthood may come in the future. Last Spring the Parent-Teachers Association appealed to the State for assistance, and Professor Johnson of Harvard delivered a series of lectures on parenthood. Boston University helped out, with Professor Groves in charge. It is possible that before long all colleges will open courses of instruction in parenthood, and that high school girls will be taught the duties of a mother.—[Sunday Post.

Imputation.

A young man with a pretty but flirtatious fiancée wrote to a supposed gossip that you have been seen kissing my girl. Come to my office at eleven on Friday. I want to have this matter out." The rival answered: "I've received a copy of your circular letter and will be present at the meeting."

VOLCANO GIVES LESSON IN FARMING

A volcano in Alaska, far from most of America's farms, turned agricultural instructor "a few years ago" and staged an important demonstration of modern farming methods on a gigantic scale.

The story of this impersonal giant of the north which wrought its agricultural will on hundreds of square miles of territory, in a way to make the most influential county farm agent envious, is told by Robert F. Griggs in his recently published book, "The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes."

For years the Federal and State Departments of Agricultural and other advocates of better farming methods have been preaching the advantages of the "dust mulch." "Keep down the weeds, keep in the moisture and give your plants a chance" has been the slogan. When Katmai Volcano on the Alaska Peninsula blew its top off, it subjected the surrounding country to a "dust mulch" such as had seldom been seen before. Included in the "mulched" territory was the island of Kodiak whose green grasses supported herds of cattle and on which were a number of farms.

The mulch treatment was pretty heroic at Kodiak. Over much of the island the volcanic ash deposits were a foot or more deep. All vegetation except trees and bushes was blotted out, and when Dr. Griggs saw the country soon after the eruption it looked like a gray desert. Its leadership of expeditions sent out by the National Geographic Society to study the volcanic region took him back to Kodiak in the following years, and he found a surprising transformation. Grasses were more luxuriant than ever before, put out earlier, and grew much higher. The large, luscious berries for which Kodiak was famous were bigger and more numerous than ever. Even the trees grew faster.

Most of the local observers jumped to the conclusion that the ash was a wonderful fertilizer. But when Dr. Griggs had the ash analyzed he found that it had about the fertilizing power of sharp quartz sand as a fertilizer it was absolutely worthless. Then he gathered the evidence which showed that the remarkable growth of plants at Kodiak beginning a year or so after the ash fall was solely due to the action of the ash as a mulch. The heavy blanket of ash, it was found, smothered the many little weeds and grasses that were fighting for a place in the sun and were absorbing much plant food from the soil. The strong grasses and the larger plants, with their root systems continued to live, and when they began to grow again found themselves for the first time without competition. Living was easier; each survivor had a bigger share of the plant food and grew abnormally.

Dr. Griggs' book contains many illustrations showing the effect of the ash mulch on plant growth, including the cross-section of a tree showing that its growth in a single year after the fall of ash was as great as in three or four years before.

Other portions of the book relate to the exploration of the amazing features of the devastated region around Katmai Volcano, with its largest of active volcanic craters; and the discovery of the wonderful "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes," a rival for the Yellowstone, which the United States Government has set aside as a National Monument.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

If you were to let your dishes accumulate for a week, a modern gas-water heater would furnish enough hot water to clean up the whole stack at the cost of a newspaper. Or you could wash your dishes day by day and the cost would be about the same. Running hot water at the faucet means fresh, clean, rust-free water delivered when and where you want it, without waste or waiting. Thousands of housewives are daily discarding the tea-kettle and coal method of heating their water and are casting such jobs on the gas companies.

For baby's bath, a big summer day's cleaning, the family wash—for all sorts of personal comforts and household conveniences, you can't equal the economy and convenience assured by heating your water the gas way.

Public School Children Who Won Contest

A prize story contest was held this summer in the 8th, 9th and 10th grades in the public schools. The names of the 12 winners were printed in the Star of June 15. This paper now gives to its readers the stories themselves. They are published weekly until all 12 have been printed.

THANKSGIVING AT GRANDMOTHERS

Grade Seven—First Honorable Mention in Public School Prize Story Contest

The twins, Bobby and Betty, were on their way to grandmother's for Thanksgiving. They looked forward to a good time, because there were so many things to play, and at night the family gathered around the fire, and grandma told stories of when he was a boy.

"Can't you just see grandma's pantry full of different kinds of pies and jellies, all kinds of vegetables, and a nice big turkey hanging up on a hook?" said Bobby.

"Yes, and the cranberry sauce and nutmeg," added Betty.

Bobby and Betty were children about ten years old. Bobby had dark curly hair tied with a big blue bow on one side. She had broken eyes that seemed to twinkle at one moment and be very innocent at another. There were two big dimples, one at each corner of her mouth, that were very conspicuous. Bobby's hair was lighter but very curly. He was full of fun and very mischievous. He also had dimples and very rosy cheeks.

Presently they found themselves at the station and grandma was there with the old horse and sleigh. When they reached the house, grandmother's gray head appeared at the door and greeted them heartily.

The next day dawned bright and clear. Bobby and Betty arose early and jumped out of bed and dressed quickly for they wanted a long day to play.

"Bobby!" cried Betty. "Don't you dare peek in there! You know what happened last year."

"Yes, but I won't touch anything. I only want to see how it looks." The morning passed so quickly for the twins. They left their shoes here last year so they could coast when they came. This morning they went coasting with their friends Frank and Louise, who were also twins.

That afternoon Bobby thought he would visit the pantry. The maids always went out in the afternoon so no one was in the kitchen. Bobby opened the door quietly.

"Oh! Just as I saw full those pies are! O you lovely turkey! You're the best one we've had on Thanksgiving." Bobby went about a little farther, "Oh, see that lovely plum pudding!" Bobby thought to himself.

"How I would like to stick my finger in the pudding and pull out a plum like Jack Horner did!" Then he said out loud, "It is so big I don't think anyone would notice a little hole in one corner." Oh what a temptation it was! At last he couldn't resist it.

His little finger thrust itself into one corner. "Oh how it it!" he cried. Then he happened to spy a crockery jar. "Oh! I think that is full of the sugar cookies that grandma makes!" He tried to take the jar away, but it was so heavy that it slipped and crashed to the floor. Naughtily Bobby didn't know what to do. He was afraid he wouldn't get out and his mother wouldn't let him have any cookies on Thanksgiving. He put the cover slowly back and made his way out to play as quickly as he could.

The next day was Thanksgiving. Bobby thought to go to see what he had done the day before, but he was mistaken.

He tried to act as natural as he could, but his mother and grandma saw that he had done something that was wrong. It was two days later and poor Bobby wished it was the beginning of the morning.

He went through the first case as if nothing had happened, but his mother and grandma saw that he had done something that was wrong. It was two days later and poor Bobby wished it was the beginning of the morning.

One day when she was talking to the twins, Bobby took his turn, and told them about the day he had done something that was wrong. It was two days later and poor Bobby wished it was the beginning of the morning.

Bobby, in the end, grandma knew the truth now. After dinner Bobby started to go out doors, but Betty caught him and whispered, "Bobby, if I were you I would go and apologize to grandma for what you did yesterday, because she knows."

Bobby told grandma, and she told him that he would always enjoy things better if he didn't see them first. The rest of the day passed quickly. The next morning they were to start home.

Bobby and Betty wished they could have stayed longer. Bobby said, "It doesn't seem as if we had seen Frank and Louise hardly a minute."

"That's what I think. O dear! I wish we didn't have to go to school Monday. Wouldn't it be fun to go to school here with Frank and Louise on our sleds?"

"Yes, I wish we could."

In about an hour the twins found themselves gliding slowly out of the station toward home.

MORE TRAFFIC FOR ALASKA

One more step in "opening up" Alaska will be taken when the Government begins operation of river boats on the Yukon and Tanana this summer.

These Fairbanks, interior metropolises of Alaska, becomes officially the place where rails and rivers meet, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Fairbanks marks the apex of a traffic triangle with one leg planted at Seward, southern terminus of the Alaska Railway, and the other on Bering Sea where flow the waters of the Tanana and the Yukon.

Yukon a Great River

The Yukon is one of the world's great rivers. If its mouth were at New York City its source would be near Salt Lake City.

It is the longest of the five familiar portions of the new government boat route is the Yukon's chief southern tributary. It drains the vast Tanana Valley, rich in gold, other minerals, and virgin farm lands.

This Imperial Valley of the far north, as large as West Virginia, now has a white population of less than 7000. In a dozen years after the first substantial crop, in 1913, the yield was worth $20,000,000 was mined.

A Town of Flowers and Bird Houses

Stamming up the Yukon in summer time the visitor will reach a town of many flowers, where numerous homes have flower-houses, some have bird boxes on their peaks, and practically all have vegetable gardens. Wild roses and Scotch blue-bells grow in the fields.

He rubs his eyes and exclaims, "This can't be Alaska!" But it is, and Alaskans would have their fellow-Americans receive from the idea "due to misleading textbooks of generations ago" that their is a forbidding, ice-covered, glacier-crowned land of dog teams and polar bears. The quotation is from the most recent report of the territorial government, and it is repeated in every opportunity.

The Alaskan are in no denying marked climatic differences from the States. A novelist recently sent the proof of a serial story he was writing to a native. This writer had the pitch-dark of a Fourth of July night illuminated by fireworks. The fireworks were all right—the Alaskan celebrates with the rest. It is—there is no night on July.

For a man to pass a carved law that all children must be put to bed some way, as they do to sleep, but the youngsters get inadequate rest. After a while it is found that the children to bed and takes you to a dance. "You can't do this!" it is a queer story to tell, but it is true.

The town of Fairbanks and its neighbors in Tanana. Tanana is the only town in the Yukon that is not a mining town. It is a town of the future, built by less plentiful evidence than Alaska is, but all alike. The town is a town of the future, built by less plentiful evidence than Alaska is, but all alike.

Today Fairbanks retains little trace of a mining town. It has electric lights, stores, telephones, an agricultural college, jitneys run out to nearby towns and camps, and its women are reputed to be the most modestly dressed in the territory.

The electric lighting plant is used for the chicken house as well as homes in the dark winter, small farms and dairies are springing up around the city, and their celery, growers insist, is on Fairbanks tables before that of Massachusetts reaches Boston consumers.

Fairbanks has its slogan, too, like its sister cities back in the States. It wants more roads and railroads, and capital for development of its surrounding coal fields. Therefore its appeal about to be realized in part. "Give us the railway and motive power, and we will pay the nation's war debt."

FAIRBANKS, ALASKA, FROM THE AIR

Fairbanks, Alaska, which has recently been visited by ex-President Harding over the newly completed Government railroad was seen from an entirely different viewpoint a few summers ago when four aviators of the Army Air Service, led by Capt. St. Clair Street, reached there on the epoch-making flight from the United States proper to Alaska. A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society quotes as follows from a communication from Capt. Street to the Society describing the Fairbanks region and the Tanana and Yukon valleys as these first voyagers of the air in the part of the world saw them:

Speed of Air Travel Amazes

Great was the excitement at Fairbanks when we arrived. We had become so accustomed to the great crowds that gathered to meet us that we took it as a matter of course. The very evident amazement of the old-fashioned settlers of Fairbanks, however, persuaded us that aviation would have some takers in the future, once they had fully grasped its meaning.

They could not believe that we had covered the distance from New York in 50 hours, when they had spent 18 or 20 months reaching there by way of the Yukon, in the gold-rush days. Letters we wrote to them from New York and the East they declared they would keep always as souvenirs of our visit.

Land of Verdure

Fairbanks, and the Tanana Valley were surprising to us by reason of the green verdure, the abundant crops, and beautiful flower gardens that bloomed luxuriantly in contrast with the bleak and forbidding country over which we had so recently flown. The enterprising farmers took every advantage of the few weeks of sunlight and the spring and their crops grew with great rapidity. Every house boasted a well-kept garden.

Unlimited resources remain undiscovered here in interior Alaska. No gold, silver, lead, copper, tin and iron are found in abundance. Cinnabar, too, has recently been discovered in this region.

As we flew up the Tanana toward the Yukon, two days later we saw much of the interesting country from a low altitude. Though few landing places were available, we felt a more than usual disregard for the precaution and landed in a few places.

Our guns, which were Godshalk's survey guns, were the Tanana and Yukon valleys, so we landed in a few places.

We flew through light mists and clouds. The Tanana and Yukon valleys were visible. The Tanana and Yukon valleys were visible. The Tanana and Yukon valleys were visible.

Transportation Contrasts on the Yukon

We overtook a riverboat on the Yukon and were tempted to fly down close enough to get a view of the passengers. The contrast between the riverboat and the airplane was striking.

The riverboat was a small, slow-moving vessel. The airplane was a fast, powerful machine. The riverboat was a small, slow-moving vessel. The airplane was a fast, powerful machine.

We had flown just 53 hours and 30 minutes from New York, covering 4500 miles, without mishap or any breakdown of serious character.

VANCOUVER: APEX OF A TRIPLE CITY TRIANGLE

Vancouver, B. C., where ex-President Harding was one of the few Presidents to pay a friendly visit to a city beyond the borders of the United States, has one of the half dozen safest and most commodious harbors in the world, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Indeed the Vancouver citizen will tell you that it is the "second finest harbor in the world," generously leaving you to pick the rest for yourself. Shipping news of Vancouver often is shipping history as when, recently, the "Empress of Canada" cut down the trans-Pacific running time to a new low record, and her crew was feted by the city for their performance.

The Vancouver enthusiast proclaims his city "American"—and it is just that in respect to enterprise, zest and civic spirit. In 1913, though, it is extremely Canadian and it typifies the spirit of modern Canada as vividly as our own Kansas City, St. Louis, and Omaha represent our vigorous Mississippi-Missouri Valley.

Near in Time: Far in Customs

Vancouver is five hours from Victoria by boat; but the two are centuries apart in some of their customs. Their feeling toward each other is not one of jealousy—they are too different for that. Victoria regards Vancouver as a growing boy, exuberant, spirited, and a bit too flushed with his own achievement; Vancouver looks upon Victoria with the respect and tolerance one bestows upon a gentle maiden aunt who is a bit old-fashioned. Victoria is fickle; Vancouver is aggressively modern.

Vancouver considers her commercial rival the third city of this unworldly water-bound civic triangle, which is Seattle. She tries to convince the thousands of summer tourists, the great majority from "the States" that she has sights to offer as well as Victoria; and she seeks to show the business man that she affords the best shipping facilities north of San Francisco.

Vancouver—City and Island

Vancouver has her troubles with her immediate neighbor, San Francisco. "When you say Vancouver you mean the city," is the gist of the idea she seeks to impart. If you speak of Vancouver Island, Vancouver would have you, as would the Victorians, simply say "the island." It troubles Vancouver a bit to have the capital city of British Columbia located on the island, but occasional suggestions of a change have never been taken seriously.

A railroad made Vancouver. Anyone who spin across prairies and mountains on an express from Montreal or Toronto to Vancouver must marvel at the vision and skill of the men who bridged two oceans and linked four continents.

With all the comforts of your club you are whisked among snow-capped and unclimbed mountains, across dizzy canyons, through a five-mile tunnel, and if you would stop over to see some world-famed natural beauty spot, such as peak-dotted Banff or azure and altitudinous Lake Louise, the railroad has built you a hotel and even has thoughtfully provided ponies for your children to ride.

At your continental train's end, Vancouver, as in other cities you encounter another nation-building corporation, the Hudson's Bay Company. For that historic company which still trades supplies for furs with the remote Eskimos at ice-bound posts now operates a chain of department stores where tweeds, golf-balls, earrings and a thousand ultra-modern articles are stocked.

Vancouver's Stanley Park, with its great oaks and firs, is renowned and its lake attracts the sea-borne visitor as he passes the first narrow of the city's harbor. The city has preserved its trees and flowers though they occupy a peninsular water-front site where real estate is at a premium.

Goblins of the Beach

Its clean streets, new office buildings, modern apartments, brisk traffic all are a part of its modernism. Its distinctive recreation facility is its English bathing beach where, until a few years ago, the women kept pretty much to the end of the beach and men to the other. That time has passed. But the custom of wearing one's bathing robe to the edge of the water survives; and when it is removed it would seem that the actual swimming costume is moulted from its locusty form.

swimming. It is not voluminous enough to hamper the swimmer. There is no parading the beach in these costumes. One goes to the English bathing beach to get in the water.

The beach withholds its most picturesque aspect until nightfall. Then many driftwood fires are built along the shore at which bathers dry themselves before going home in automobiles. With eerie figures dancing around many fires may recall the days before Simon Fraser paddled a canoe along the river now named for him, and George Vancouver arrived to find Indians tending beaver fires along these very shores to signal the headward way to their fishing canoes.

DAY OF MOURNING

Universal Observance Held Throughout Winchester

Friday was universally observed as a day of mourning in Winchester as throughout the nation, all activities of every nature ceasing and all business houses and stores closing. The day here was beautiful, clear, cool and inviting, and that the observance should be so pronounced and universal on every side, gave eloquent testimony to the grief of the people in the death of President Harding. The quiet of an old-time Sunday hung over the town, few people were about, and the autos were generally absent, all but a few giving up the day to a period of mourning and quiet.

Services were held at St. Mary's Catholic Church during the afternoon and at the First Baptist Church in the evening, both largely attended. The solemn memorial service at St. Mary's Church took place at 4 o'clock, it being under the personal direction of Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, pastor of that church. The requiem service was sung by a choir of 60 children. Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbon presided over the rosary, litany and prayers. The benediction of the most blessed sacrament closed the service.

The service at the First Baptist Church, a union service of the Protestant churches, was conducted by the Rev. Clifford H. Walcott, pastor of the church, Rev. Allan Evans, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Rev. William H. Smith, pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church, and Rev. John E. Whitley of the Second Congregational Church.

The church was crowded for the service, many being unable to find seats, although many additional chairs were placed in the auditorium. Rev. Mr. Walcott presided. The altar, flanked on either side by flags, had in its centre a picture of the late President draped in mourning, while at the right was a great bunch of golden rod, the national flower.

The services opened with the congregation singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee" followed by the hymn "Abide With Me." Rev. Allan Evans offered prayer, opening with George Washington's prayer for the Country, this being followed by the reading of the Scriptures by Rev. John E. Whitley of the Second Congregational Church, the selection being the same as read at the services in Washington. Rev. Mr. Smith announced the singing of the President's favorite hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," and Rev. Mr. Evans delivered a short sermon upon the President's life in connection with the affairs of the Nation. After the singing of the hymn "The Lord Is My Shepherd," Rev. Mr. Walcott spoke upon the President's life and character, and the audience sang "The Star Spangled Banner." A period of silent prayer, followed by the benediction given by Mr. Walcott, closed the service.

The ushers were all Legion members and included Messrs. Vincent Clark, H. Wray Rohman, Henry B. Harris and Marshall W. Symmes.

During the funeral hour at Marion, Ohio, the Town Hall bell was tolled, and the bell on St. Mary's called its people out to the four o'clock service.

EDGEHILL ROAD HOUSE ENTERED

The police discovered Wednesday that the house of Ernest Luce, 19 Edgehill road, had been entered by thieves during the absence of the family. A hole, broken in the glass of the back door by a stone, allowed the thief to open the door, and some things inside were found pulled about as though the thief had started to ransack the place and had been frightened away. Owing to the absence of the family, no exact accounting of any loss has yet been made.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cleworth are spending the month at Mt. Vernon, N. H., being registered at the Mt. Vernon Lodge.

MEMORIAL SERVICE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH, WINCHESTER

The service at the Christian Science Church, held at 11 o'clock, last Friday, in memory of our late President, was simple yet impressive, and was well attended. The service opened with the hymn "Lead Kindly Light" followed by appropriate selections from the Bible, and from the Christian Science text book "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. After the recitation of the Lord's Prayer by the congregation and the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee," the First Reader, Mr. George R. Townsend, who conducted the service, read the proclamation of President Coolidge, and made the following brief address:

We are assembled today out of respect to the memory of our late President, Warren Gamaliel Harding, and in response to the proclamation of President Coolidge. It is well that we should ponder in our hearts the solemn import of this moment when we are called to mourn the loss of our leader.

With that thought can we refresh our minds when in distress we are so forcibly reminded that as yet we have not progressed to a sufficient understanding of the Truth to enable us to fully realize the aliveness of Life and the nothingness of death; a point we must, however, sooner or later attain, since God is Life, and man is God's image and likeness. What is our present need? The answer may indeed be found in the last public message of our late President. He said, "We need more of the Christ spirit, more of the Christ practice and a new and abiding consecration to God."

As we Christian Scientists are fortunate in their teaching enables us to understand the import of that admonition; and well may we take those words into our hearts and impress them upon our minds so that our lives will attest the power of this thought for good. In no more fitting way can we build a memorial to the one to whom we today pay homage.

THREE IN PERIL WHEN MOTOR BACKS INTO MYSTIC LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Worrell and their 8-year-old son, Kenneth, 255 Boston avenue, Melford Hills, went home Monday to the skin last Monday evening, but thankful that their's is not a closed car. Had it been a sedan that took them on a submarine cruise of Mystic Lake, they might have been drowned.

Parked on the Mystic Valley parkway, about 200 feet from the Woodson bridge, they watched the setting sun slip downward through banks of rising storm clouds. At 8 o'clock, with darkness approaching, Mr. Worrell began to turn the car around for the trip home. Something happened. Instead of going toward Melford the car went full speed astern, backed across 25 feet of lawn, plunged down a four-foot embankment, and splashed into the lake. Twenty feet from shore it halted in more than a fathom of water. Only the top showed above the surface.

Mrs. Worrell and the boy struggled out and kept their heads above water by clinging to the top of the car. Clarence Anderson, 16, of 16 Grove place, swam out and brought Kenneth ashore. Mr. Worrell brought his wife to land. William Murray, life guard at Sandy Beach, hurried to the scene, but his aid was not needed.

Motorcycle Officer C. K. Sims broke out ropes and tackled from the metro-politan sub-station and hauled out the car. The voyagers had a ride home in the car of Miss Annette Mason, 11 Lloyd street, and vowed that never would they be tempted to buy a closed-in automobile.

FINE CELEBRATION

Italian Fireworks and Concert Best Yet Given

The best band concert ever given in Winchester, the finest display of fireworks yet seen on Manchester Field and the biggest crowd which has ever been in town sums up the celebration of the Feast of the Assumption by the Italian residents on Wednesday.

As is customary, the day's exercises opened in the morning with mass at St. Mary's Church following which there was a parade through the Italian section of the town, the houses and streets being decorated with American and Italian flags.

In the afternoon there was a procession to St. Mary's Church, where the statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary was placed upon a litter and taken in the line. The gathering, numbering about 600, then marched by way of Mt. Vernon street to the centre, Washington street, Swanton street, Chester, Irving, Florence, Swanton, Cedar, Swanton, Holland, Oak, Spruce, Swanton, Nelson and Westley streets back to the church. Around the statue were many little Italian girls, all dressed in white and wearing garlands of flowers. The American and Italian flags, both of beautiful silk, were carried side by side, and the music was by Nappi's Band.

In the evening the program opened with a band concert on Manchester Field by what is considered to be the finest band ever to visit this town. There were 30 pieces, conducted by Signor A. Borvonato, and a program of operatic and Italian music was given which evoked deafening applause from the thousands who listened on the field and in the automobiles on the Parkway. The concert continued until 9 o'clock when the fireworks opened.

The fireworks lasted nearly an hour and were set off as though by clock work. The display was magnificent, it being about equally divided with set pieces and air displays. Many new novelties were introduced, the most interesting being a beautiful fan, which opened a bareback rider in green, and on a white horse which galloped across the field, and a most magnificent set piece of three United States flags with the shields under them, all connected with a rope of green light which changed to the purest white and made a beautiful waterfall. The pinwheels were all very elaborate and grand, as many as twelve wheels all revolving at once in some places. The aerial display was equally good, and the finale gave everyone his fill of thrills.

As usual the Parkway was lined with automobiles from Highland avenue to Bacon street, a force of Metropolitan officers doing duty there. Cars were parked in favorable positions on the Parkway before five o'clock in the afternoon and by six o'clock the line extended beyond Mystic avenue. All the streets about the centre were filled with cars. The once open on Waterfield road was filled, Common street was filled, cars were marked on Main street from the centre to the top of Black Horse Hill, and Church street and the Congregational Church drive were filled.

The crowd was by far the largest yet to attend any similar celebration in Winchester, it being estimated that over 12,000 people were on the field and in the vicinity during the evening. Every police officer on the local force was on duty and Sergeant McCauley laid out a very effective and well designed traffic plan in handling the crowd. Officers in the centre had their hands full during the entire evening, and did a good job throughout. After the fireworks, the centre presented a sight not soon forgotten by those who saw it, the great mass of people and autos filling it to overflowing.

To the committee of Italian residents headed by Mr. James V. Barbano, all commendations for the fine concert and fireworks display should be given. This committee included Alfredo Rolli secretary; James Gigliotti, Dominic DeMambro, Paolo Amica, Guitano Comito and Joseph Rania.

Following the fireworks Wednesday night a fire developed on the roof of the house at 46 Cutting street, occupied by Mr. Herbert V. Perman. The blaze evidently was started from sparks from the fireworks celebration. Slight damage was done and the firemen went to the scene on a still alarm. While answering the call, Everett Kimball received a bad cut on one hand from the siren on the ladder truck. The horn stuck, and when he was trying to start it, it suddenly revolved, one of the fans cutting his finger.

FIRE AT MULLIN HOUSE

Considerable Damage Occasioned by Mysterious Blaze

A fire of mysterious origin, closely resembling the recent Ginn fire, did considerable damage at the fire residence of Mr. Francis R. Mullin, 338 Main street, Tuesday night. Discovered by the family of Mr. Mansfield, recently occupying the house on the opposite side of the street, the alarm was given at 10 o'clock from box 26.

The firemen found a hot fire in progress in an upstairs chamber, and although they made short work of extinguishing it, the smoke damage will be very heavy. The fire did not get outside the room beyond blistering the paint in the hall adjoining, but the smoke practically ruined the paper and paint on the upstairs portion of the house, and did some damage below. The contents of the room were destroyed, and altogether the damage will amount to a large figure.

It was particularly fortunate the fire was discovered when it was, for had it been allowed to burn a short time longer, the firemen would have found a situation similar to the Ginn fire. The blaze much resembled all, being of almost identical nature, although the room where that blaze started was said to have been locked.

There was a big crowd at the fire, auto blocking Main street and the crowd of sightseers hindering the firemen in their work. The spectators were hardly taken care of by an occasional stream of water, but the autos were not so easily disposed of. The firemen are now required to wear the helmets in order that they may be distinguished from the crowd.

Mr. Mullin was notified by telephone of the fire while it was in progress, he starting for Winchester at once by auto and arriving early Wednesday morning. No estimate of the damage has as yet been announced.

WILL BE GOOD RACING AT SANDY

The swimming carnival at Sandy Beach promises to be the best and biggest affair of its kind yet seen in local waters. Not since the old days when the South Reservoir was used for former July 4th sports has such an event been staged here. The entries are coming in thick and fast, and all contestants should note that they close Aug. 22nd. Entries may be made at the Star office.

William Murray, in charge of the affair, promises a fine show on Saturday afternoon, August 25th.

ELKS ENJOY OUTING

The first annual outing of Winchester Lodge of Elks, combined with Woburn Lodge, took place on Wednesday at the Martin Luther grounds, Tyngsboro. Owing to the postponement of Traders' Day to the same date, the affair was particularly well attended, and over 600 went from this town. The trip up and back was made by auto, the Winchester Elks going to Woburn and joining their brothers Elks at the Woburn Club house, from which the two lodges went together.

The day was mapped out by competent committees, two baseball games and a program of sports occupying the time. The morning ball game resulted in a tie and the afternoon game went to Woburn 19 to 7. The two games were between the two lodges.

A buffet lunch was served continuously from 11 until the big clam bake in the middle of the afternoon, when the entire party sat down to a menu which could hardly fail to please the most exacting epicure. Steamed clams, lobster, sweet corn, sweet potatoes, watermelon and as many other delicious articles were served to the satisfaction of all.

Many of the party enjoyed the fine bathing, while others took in the various amusements. One feature of the affair which attracted a large gallery was a most sensational match at quoits between the past-grand-champions Selectmen Walter H. Dotson and Town Engineer James Hinds.

The Winchester Elks were conveyed to and from the grove by the following autos:

P. D. Clement	Parker Hillcock
Dr. James O'Connor	T. P. Wilson
D. L. Hobson	Walter H. Dotson
William C. Schell	George L. Dotson
Charles Meade	John M. McNay
Leo Fanning	William E. Rogers

On Wednesday forenoon two boys dropped into the Winchester Boat Club and attempted to steal a couple of bicycles. One of the boys got away with a wheel, the property of Roger Sweet of 7 Bacon street. The Steward at the club caught the other boy as he was leaving with a wheel, but for some reason did not hold him until the police arrived. Both boys succeeded in getting away.

MAKES SUCCESS IN NEW PLAY

The London Daily Mail, reviewing Mr. Thurston Hall in his new play which opened in that city the first of the month, is very flattering to this favorite English actor. Mr. Hall, who grew from boyhood to manhood in Winchester, has many friends here who are doubtless interested in his success. The Mail's dramatic critic reviews his latest success as follows:

"From the moment that Mr. Thurston Hall made his entrance at the Duke of York's Theatre last night—but not until that moment—'Civilian Clothes' looked like a big success. And the longer he was on the stage the more certain that success became."

For this play by Mr. Thompson Buchanan is a piece of patchwork, now approaching farce, but never reaching it, next climbing toward comedy, but never quite getting there, occasionally suggesting melodrama without melodrama's punch. It is a play full of good lines—some of them very "near the knuckle" as Arthur Roberts used to say—and of ingenious situations. But it needed a big personality to get round some awkward corners—fugues over a situation which have upon them a touch of anticlimax. Mr. Thurston Hall provided that personality.

"When he last acted in London he was seen as a melodramatic Mexican villain in 'The Broken Wings.' The first of the month he appeared as a romantic Irish-American, a war hero masquerading as a butler. And those wonderful eyes of his—dark and full of humor—that power to convey so much with a gesture or a glance, gave a touch of delightful humor or of arresting drama to scenes of little importance in themselves."

"An alternative title to 'Civilian Clothes' might be 'The Taming of the Snob.' For Florence Latham, in spite of all that Miss Owen Rose does to make her acceptable, is not a nice girl at all—in the beginning. By a most extraordinary means she had set within close quarters of the front line in the Great War—those who were in the war laughed at this idea last night—and had had her ears boxed for her recklessness by an American captain with long rows of decorations. As a consequence they were secretly married—bang in the middle of the war!"

"But when her husband appeared at her Kentucky home, and when she found that he was not at all imposing in mien, and that he was the son of a humble shoemaker in Chicago, she was very rude indeed. How the husband took up the position of butler in the service of her father, and how he taught her better manners—and better sense—makes up a bright play—a play that always amuses and holds."

"But it is chiefly the acting of Mr. Thurston Hall that matters."

BOY SCOUT NOTES

The sixth annual Rockport camp of Troop One, Winchester Boy Scouts, having attended for the full time with fifteen over the weekend.

More scout work was done at this camp than in any other except the third camp. Richard Dow passed the most tests with 24 to his credit, Edward Woodbury passed 21 and Henry Knowlton 20.

A large factor toward the success of the camp was the work of Acting Scout Master Dana J. Kelly together with the able assistance of the other members of the Big Five: Henry Knowlton, Frank Kelly, Richard Dow, and Francis Montague.

Richard Smith caught the first cod fish and John Robinson caught the best lot of canners. John Robinson's cooking stories were a new and welcome feature at this camp.

The boys made a trip to the light houses on Thatchers Island, some of them being in the fog-horn engine room during a sharp thunder storm—a novel experience.

Five ball games were played with the town teams, the all round work of Henry Knowlton, Francis Montague and Dana Kelly featuring for the seniors, and of Bobbie Smith and Kezar Nichols hitting for the juniors.

In the home baseball games and football scrimmages Ralph Horn, Linwood Brown, Kezar Nichols, Stanley Roberts, and Philip Hartson were towers of strength to their side.

All the boys were conscientious and reliable about doing their cooking and altogether were a fine set of scouts.

Privates Theodore Elliott and Monroe Morley of Winchester, left Wednesday for Minerva, L. I. N. Y., where they will train for two weeks with the first Aero Squadron.

TWO HYDRANTS BROKEN IN ONE DAY

Saturday was a bad day for hydrants in town, two being broken here, one by a runaway team and the other by an automobile. As neither were reported to the police, the Water Department investigated the damage, finding that in one case the accident was not reported as the man whose team caused the damage was in the hospital.

About 4 o'clock a farm truck owned by George Russell collided with a horse and wagon driven by Tony Gentile, also of Woburn. The accident occurred on Washington street near the Wells place, and Gentile, who was thrown off his wagon, was run over and quite badly hurt. The horse stampeded and broke the hydrant, which is the last one in town on Washington street approaching the Woburn line. The horse was caught in Montvale.

A second hydrant was broken on Clark street when Patrick J. Corrigan backed his auto into it.

AUTO AND BICYCLES COLLIDE

When passing two boys riding bicycles on Cambridge street Sunday night, John D. Carey of Arlington, operating a Dodge touring car, struck a stone wall in avoiding one of the boys, Robert Dearden of Dorchester. Both Carey and Dearden turned at the same time and in the same direction, and as it was Carey hit the boy. When he drove his car into the wall he also hit Albert Dearden, Robert's brother. The mix-up resulted in damage to both bicycles and the automobile, but the boys and man escaped except for slight cuts and bruises which Robert Dearden received.

WINCHESTER 2—MALDEN CITY

CLUB 1

A big crowd on Manchester Field last Saturday afternoon witnessed one of the best baseball games seen there for many months when Winchester in 11 innings defeated the reinforced Malden City Club 2 to 1. With both pitchers working well and the men behind them playing airtight ball game, was a nice game to watch. Several spectacular plays were turned in. Gray turned in a haul when with one on in the tenth he tore in from deep center and grabbed Dempsey's Texas leaguer. Ryan made one nice stop and pop while Dempsey for Malden made two classy stops. Although Malden had three sluggers with a reputation on their team none of them could do anything with Kelley's slants. Clancy, who usually gets a couple of hits every game, fanned twice and it was the last strikeout which was the cause of him being benched. In all, Kelley got 10 by the strikeout route.

Winchester started the scoring in the fourth inning when Lane doubled and scored on Phillips' sharp single. In the seventh Butler, for Malden, got a hit, went to second while Buckley was being put out at first and came home on Penney's drive which got away from Kendrick. Both sides then settled down until the eleventh.

Malden came to bat. Danophsky fled out to Ryan, Sullivan poled a long fly which Lane got under after a long sprint and Phillips threw out Butler at first for the third out.

Winchester came to bat with the head of the list up. Ryan singled and went to second on "Touchy" Gray's sacrifice and Kendrick was thrown out at first. Lane, next up, belted one out to centerfield, scoring Ryan and the crowd went home happy.

The score:

WINCHESTER 2—STONEHAM 2

Stoneham brought their jinx with them and sure worked it last Thursday night at Manchester Field. The Legion boys after playing big league ball on Monday night kind of fell down against Stoneham and a tie score was the result. Kelley pitched a good game, fanning 11, but costly errors let two runs in and the game ended in a deadlock.

The score:

WINCHESTER 7. COLUMBUS A. S. 1

With three on Lane belted one almost to Dorchester Bay for four bases and Winchester gave the Columbus All Stars a trimming, 7 to 1 at C. J. Lee Playgrounds, South Boston last Monday night. Although the All Stars played errorless ball in the field they could not seem to get to Matthews, four hits being all they could put across. The one run they got in the last inning was really a present.

In the first inning Ryan was passed and went to second on Sullivan's single. Kendrick was passed and then Miles Lane landed on the first ball pitched for a four sacker. McDermott the South Boston pitcher was yanked and Garabaldi took up the battle. Lane at bat in the third connected for a nice double, went to third on Phillips' nice hit and came home on Hatch's hot drive through second base territory. Again in the fourth Sullivan was on via the hit route. Lane was passed and clean hits by the Matthews brothers brought in two runs.

The score:

The Legion boys continued their winning streak when Kelley shut out the strong Somerville Civic Club 3 to 0 last Tuesday night at Richard Tamm Field, Somerville. Winchester hammered Shea, Somerville's crack southpaw for twelve hits while all Kelley allowed was five singles. Sullivan started the scoring in the third inning when he wallowed on over the right fielder's head for a home run. In the eighth inning Lane got on an error, Phillips singled and Ralph Hatch tallied the both of them with another lusty wallop.

Somerville never threatened, thirty men facing Kelley the whole game, and getting only five singles between them.

Sullivan turned in a classy play when he came in fast after a Texas leaguer and while running drilled the ball to the plate and caught Emmett by a foot.

The score:

Saint Bartholomew's Day, Aug. 24.

It is surely a commonplace that last Friday will go down in the history of our country as one of its greatest days. A whole nation spent a day of rest to honor the memory of its President. From every section of the country comes the news that activity and pleasure of all sorts was abandoned. It is said that never before has our nation spent such a day.
And to those of a religious mind, no matter what their faith may be, some thoughts of a serious trend. Some nineteen hundred years ago there died a man of divine origin who sacrificed himself for all mankind, not for one nation or people but for every human being. There died for us a Savior to whom we owe debts of gratitude and human bondage we might be free. And yet our allowance to that death of so much more importance than any other can be, is but trifling. This is a religious people, we are proud to claim, and yet but a small part of his people are conscientious in their religious duties. We have the influence as well as the duty to show activity and pleasure not only in a festive but in a religious way. Let us remember that our allegiance to Him who is far greater than any earthly ruler. We do not do so.

CHESTER

Harding is to us a man of great achievement. No doubt history will record him as such. He stood, and stands, for all that is good, a true Christian. But best of all, practical and effective, were the results of his quiet determination to lead in the path of justice and right.

Practical were the results of his efforts; incalculable indeed but nevertheless measurable in a comparative way; for are not the economic wastes of armaments checked as a result of his conception and masterful leadership, and does this not mean peace and happiness to mankind instead of loss and distress?

Truly through him as a channel for righteousness were the prophetic words of Isaiah to a large degree fulfilled. "And he shall judge among the nations; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks."

The international agreement on limitation of armaments was his great achievement, the master stroke which will cause the name of Warren G. Harding to be heralded through the years to come.

We, who have lived in his time, will have our lives enriched because of the memories we shall receive of the man devoted to duty, loyal to those who labored with him, of simple and modest ways, just in the use of his power, high in his courage in office, effective in results because of his love of his God, his country and his fellowmen. It is fitting to quote from an editorial published in the Christian Science Monitor under the heading "Five Years of President Harding" as follows:

When President William M. Kieley, in whose kindly way, and noble and serene manner, the new type of President Harding passed away, the founder of this newspaper, Mary Baker Eddy, wrote:

While our nation's destiny of peace and prosperity was in our hand and soul, while the people were in a state of doubt, and the government, for the first time, was in a state of confusion, she is so truly our own—radio to mount the banner for renewed leadership! Tears blend with her triumphs. She stoops to think, to mourn, yea, to pray, that the God of harvest send her more laborers, who, while they work for their own country, shall surely regard the liberty of other peoples and the rights of man.

What cannot love and righteousness achieve for the race? All that can be accomplished, and more than history has yet recorded. All good that ever was written, taught or wrought comes from God and human faith in the right. Through divine Love the right government is assimilated, the way pointed out, the process shortened, and the joy of acquiescence consummated. May God sanctify our Nation's sorrow in this wise, and His rod and His staff comfort the living as it did the departing. O may His shield, support, and comfort the chief mourner at the desolate home!

Could the sorrow of the Nation today be more fittingly phrased? Could the task that others must take up be more truly stated? Could the nature of the aid through which alone great men and great nations may achieve their destinies be set forth in words more helpful?

We as Christian Scientists are striving to know that God is Life, the healer and comforter—the great and only Physician—and we know that as we demonstrate the Truth in our lives the world at large also feels the healing touch and beneficent help. We have a part in ushering in the millennium—that day when the last enemy shall be destroyed.

For this knowledge and this privilege we are grateful to God, grateful to Jesus the Wayshower, grateful to the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy.

The service was closed by singing "O'er Waiting Harpstrings of the Mind," by Mrs. Eddy—the reading of the Scientific Statement of Being from the Christian Science text book and its correlative Scripture from 1 John 3:1-3, and the benediction.

Comedy, romance and drama is the happy blending contained in the attractive program of feature photoplays announced for the coming week at Locatelli's Ball Square Theatre in Summerville. For Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday the bill is topped by the screenings of Paramount's superb picturization of the great stage success, "Only 34," with May McAvoy, Elliott Dexter and Lois Wilson in the principal parts. This splendid production follows closely the absorbing story of the stage version. The companion picture will offer Gladys Walton in the thrilling production "Criminal Wire." A laughable comedy and the last of the Fox News completes the bill. For the closing half the management has contracted for the showings of Marshall Neilson's supreme effort entitled "The Strangers Banquet," containing a galaxy of screen celebrities and a plot since the birth of motion pictures. The accompanying production will be Johnny Hines in "Sinner's Fire." A 2-reel comedy and musical events makes up the remainder of the program.

A special feature, including the Fox News, will be shown on Wednesday.

Woman in Unique Position.
Miss Jessie Benedict, of Warwick, New York, is believed to be the only woman in the United States to become head of an organization of Civil War veterans. She has been elected president of the Orange Blossoms, the survivors of the famous one Hundred and Twenty-fourth regiment, New York volunteers, of which her father was a member.

Showing Time's Change.
Mrs. Mary Bradwell of Chicago in 1892 applied for a license as an attorney-at-law and was refused by the Superior court of Illinois, the Supreme court of the United States affirming the decision; now there are many in the state, women being admitted to practice by statute.

Elephant's Sense of Smell.
The elephant does not smell with his trunk. His olfactory nerves are contained in a single nostril, which is in the roof of his mouth, near the front.

Danger in Jealousy.
Jealousy is said to be the offspring of love; yet unless the parent makes haste to strangle the child, the child will not rest till it has poisoned the parent.—Hare.

With a view to fuel economy experiments are under way with an air blower to control the draft in locomotives instead of employing exhaust steam for the purpose.

Six per cent is all you spend of your total income for the services rendered by your utility companies, including gas, electric light, water, telephone and street railway. This is a good figure to spring on the person who claims that a reduction in utility rates would save hundreds of dollars a year to each customer.

The fact is that a reduction as great as eight per cent would only represent a saving to the average man of the equivalent of one per cent of his total income. The six per cent spent for a utility services compares with twelve per cent spent for clothing, fourteen per cent spent for rent and taxes, and forty-five per cent for food.

The service rendered by the public service companies is a luxury in everything but cost.

CARNIVAL TOMORROW

First Big Swimming Meet at Sandy Beach to be Event of Summer

From all reports and the big entry list already received by instructor William Murray, all roads will lead to Sandy Beach on Mystic Lake tomorrow afternoon. This Saturday will witness the first swimming carnival ever to be held on the lake. Entries have been received from boys and girls, beginners and experts, big and little, from all of the surrounding towns, and Mr. Murray, through whose energy and interest the meet has been arranged, has secured some very attractive prizes for the winners. Arrangements are now complete for the event. It is expected that around 50 will compete in the various events, which are announced as follows:

- Special Half-mile for boys 16 years and over. Two entries each allowed from Somerville, Arlington, Medford, Winchester and Woburn.
- Half-mile for boys and girls 16 years and over. Entries may be made from Medford, Arlington and Woburn.
- 200 yards for boys and girls under 16 years.
- 100 yards for boys and girls under 16 years.
- 30 yards for boys and girls under 16 years.
- Special events over 25 yards for young swimmers.

A special prize has been awarded for the special half-mile swim by the Arlington Board of Trade, and this event will probably be the banner number on the program.

The races are to be held along shore in front of Sandy Beach, with the exception of the two major events, which will be run probably over a straightaway course finishing in front of the beach.

In addition to the list of swimming races there will be a number of exhibition events yet not announced. Miss Esther Morrison of Brookline, the 13-year-old Miss who was one of the winners at the national diving contest, will be present and give an exhibition of her skill and grace, and John J. Bray, N. E. A. U. champion and winner of the Curley Cup in the swim to Boston Light a fortnight ago, will also be present. A number of other local amateurs have signified their intention of attending. Winchester is probably as much interested in the entry of Miss Mabel Snodgrass as any other. She has acquitted herself very creditably in several important races and is looked upon as a coming swimmer.

The events will start promptly at 2 o'clock. All contestants are required to be on the beach by 1 o'clock. Capt. Hawkins of the Metropolitan District Commission has made arrangements for a detail of officers to handle the crowd, care for parking automobiles and supervise the affair.

Instructor William Murray, life guard at the beach, has all the details in charge and has appointed the following officials: From Winchester, Sgt. John A. Harrold, W. P. D.; Harry W. Dotten, George W. Harrold, T. P. Wilson, W. J. Richburg. From Arlington, Chief Thomas O. Urquhart, A. P. D.; Sgt. T. R. Belyea,

A. P. D.; William Powell, William Tatten.

Winchester Lodge of Elks has arranged for several attractive prizes, Mr. Murray receiving from Exalted Ruler Clement notice of the gifts yesterday.

MRS. JAMES P. BOUTWELL DEAD

Was a Resident of Winchester For Nearly Fifty Years

Mrs. Hannah H. Boutwell, wife of Mr. James P. Boutwell of 30 Winthrop street, known to many of the older residents of this town, where she had made her home for nearly 50 years, died on Wednesday. Her death was not unexpected, for she suffered a shock ten weeks ago which left her in a condition which indicated that the close of her life was near. She was 83 years of age.

Mrs. Boutwell was one of the remaining few of the old-time residents of Winchester. She was a native of Griswold, Conn., the daughter of William and Elizabeth (Tyler) Huntington. She married Mr. Boutwell at Norwich, Conn., April 29, 1873, the couple celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary last spring. She was a member of many years standing at the First Congregational Church and also of the Ladies' Western Missionary Society. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. A. (Mrs. Everett A.) Smith, with whom she made her home.

The funeral services are to be held this Friday afternoon at the residence at 3 o'clock, and to be conducted by the Rev. S. Winchester Adriansen. The burial will be in Wildwood cemetery.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Dorothy Nowell celebrated her eighth birthday Wednesday at her home, 19 Winchester place. Among her guests were the Misses Florence and Emma Fisher, Mary and Catherine Murphy, Ruth Virginia, Margaret and Marion Nowell, Theresa McAdams, Constance Titilash, Myrtle Smith, Masters John Nowell, Arthur Johnson, Lawrence Smith, James Murphy and Kenneth Titilash.

A very enjoyable time was spent by all. She received a number of gifts.

THE ABERJONA VALLEY SEWER BILLS

An Account of the Legislative Measures Attempted in the Sessions of 1920-21-22

There were introduced in the Legislative session of 1920, two bills, one introduced by Senator McKnight in the Senate as result of a vote of the City Council of Woburn, and the other introduced by the Selectmen of Winchester through Representative Coolidge. The bill provided for the construction of a sewer in the Aberjona valley to the Wilmington line; this sewer to be constructed as a Metropolitan District Commission sewer. These bills failed of passage in the Legislature of 1920, the Winchester bill being referred to the next annual session. The session of 1921 again referred the bill to the session of 1922. In the Legislature of 1922 the Winchester bill became House Bill 627. Hearings were held before the Metropolitan Affairs Committee and Senator Parkhurst and Representatives Medford and Coolidge appeared with fellow citizens in advocacy of the bill as a District Commission bill. The opposition of those representatives of the sections of the district not affected was very strong and it was seen that it was hopeless to expect a bill to pass the Legislature as a District measure. The report of the Metropolitan Affairs Committee was next annual session, but at the suggestion of the then House Chairman (Representative Arthur Reading), the bill was laid on the table in the Senate pending the appointment of a subcommittee of the Metropolitan Affairs Committee to confer with the representatives of the communities affected by the Aberjona pollution.

LEGION LAWN CARNIVAL

The Winchester Post of the American Legion will hold a Lawn Carnival Saturday afternoon and evening, September 29th. Should the day prove unfair the carnival will take place the following Saturday, October 6th.

Mr. Vincent P. Clarke is chairman of the following committee consisting of Messrs. Andrew Anderson, Marshall England, Robert Hamilton, Daniel Lynch, William McKee, Rowen Parker and H. Wray Rohman. The townspeople will remember the carnival held two years ago on the Legion House lawn. The parade this year will be omitted but the committee is working hard to have this carnival even a larger success than the last one.

The grounds about the house will be decorated as before and various booths and attractions provided. The committee has several surprises in store for the townspeople which will be announced in the coming issues of the Star.

There will be no baseball game at that date in order that nothing will detract from the carnival.

Do You Want the River Purified?

The following petition is being circulated about town in an endeavor to have the Aberjona River, now little better than an open sewer, purified. It is the desire to secure the signature of every man and woman in town who is interested in cleaning up this nuisance.

If you are interested, sign the following petition, cut it out and mail it to the STAR.

TO THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH.

Respectfully represent the undersigned residents of Winchester, that the Aberjona River is a natural water course running through the town, the shores of which are owned in part by the town and in part by various individuals.

That drainage, sewerage, filth, chemicals, and various other fluids and substances which are offensive to the public health have been and are now being discharged into the said river and its tributaries in the different towns through which they flow so that the waters of said river have become offensive, unfit for their natural uses, dangerous to health and a nuisance.

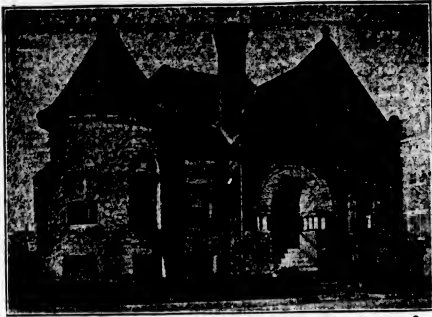

Wherefore your petitioners respectfully pray that your board will conduct an investigation of the sanitary conditions of said Aberjona River and its tributaries within and without the town of Winchester, examine into all nuisances, sources of filth, pollution or contamination thereof which affect the same or which are or may be dangerous to the public health and destroy, remove or prevent the same and make regulations for the public health and safety relative thereto.

THE ABERJONA VALLEY SEWER BILLS

As a result of conferences of the town council and the city solicitor of the district affected, a bill was reported into the Senate (Senate 442) authorizing the Metropolitan District Commission to construct not only a main trunk sewer from a point of connection at or near Hill street, Woburn, with the existing Metropolitan sewer to Reading and from thence to a point connecting with the existing Metropolitan sewer in Winchester (Sec. 1), but also to construct a sewer in the Aberjona valley to the Wilmington line (Sec. 2). Section 3 provided for the apportionment of the cost as follows: "Sixty per cent by the City of Woburn; seven and five tenths per cent by the City of Medford; one and five tenths per cent by the Town of Arlington; one and five tenths per cent by the Town of Reading; and ten per cent by the Town of Winchester in annual payments in addition to the sums paid by cities and towns under the provisions of section 5 of chapter 92 of the General Laws. The remainder of the cost of said work and the entire cost of the sewer authorized by section 1 of this act shall be paid by the cities and towns of the north metropolitan sewerage district in the manner provided in said section 5." (Said section 5 provides for the apportionment of costs in each of the towns belonging to the north metropolitan sewerage district on the basis of respective taxable valuations of the property of said towns.) This bill was reported in the Senate and referred to the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

In the meantime, the City Council of Woburn held a special meeting to consider the matter and Representative Mendon and City Solicitor Philip G. Gallagher appeared before the Council and explained the provisions of the bill. Representative Mendon stated that the division of cost was the most favorable that Woburn could secure and that postponement to the next Legislature would probably endanger the passage of the legislation altogether. Mayor Golden also sent a communication to the Council urging favorable action. There was considerable debate and opposition on account of the tremendous expense to Woburn in its then financial condition, but the Council finally voted to go on record in its favor of the bill.

In the Senate Ways and Means Committee hearing held on May 12, 1922, the representatives of Winchester registered strong opposition to the 10 per cent apportionment. As a result the Senate Ways and Means Committee reported an amendment of the bill providing for the apportionment by the Chief Justice of the Superior Court of three commissioners, not residents within the territory served by the sewer, who should determine, after due notice and hearing, what cities and towns should bear the cost thereof and assess such cost on such cities and towns in such proportions as they should deem just and equitable. The amended bill then went before the Ways and Means Committee of the House for further hearing, and again the representatives of Winchester objected to the 10 per cent assessment. The result was that no Aberjona sewer bill was passed by the Legislature of 1922. Toward the close of the session, however, a bill was put in providing for the construction of the sewer to take care of the additional sewerage due to the construction of the Reading sewer. That sewer is now being constructed under the provisions of chapter 529 of the Acts of 1922, being made large enough so that if the Aberjona Valley sewer is eventually constructed, it will be able to take care of the additional sewerage.

The representatives of Arlington and Medford also objected to the proportions under the original bill. It was stated at the hearing that suits against certain manufacturing plants in Woburn had been instituted and that these would now be pressed. Apparently they have not been pressed. In the Legislature of 1923 no bill was introduced providing for an Aberjona Valley sewer. There is ample statutory authority, however, under which the State Board of Health can act to stop pollution of the Aberjona River, (Chapter 291 of the Acts of 1911,) even to causing proceedings in equity to be instituted and prosecuted by the attorney general to enforce the provisions of the act.

A farewell reception was tendered Mrs. Albert Horn of Loring avenue last Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Cullen, Canal street. A large number of friends attended, and Mrs. Horn was presented during the evening with a handsome traveling bag and $10 in gold. She left Saturday for California.

ATTEMPT MADE TO SET FIRE TO HOUSE

On Sunday, when new tenants arrived at the house at 94 Middlesex street to look it over preparatory to moving in on Monday, they found that an attempt had been made to set it on fire, newspapers had been scattered about and set on fire, and the charred papers and particularly burned woodwork gave evidence that the fire had burned itself out without setting the house. The house is owned by Mr. Dexter P. Blaikie of Everett avenue, who is away at his summer home. The matter was reported to Chief DeCourcy of the fire department and to the police department.

Mrs. Patrick Lynch and daughter, Miss Eileen Lynch, are spending a fortnight at Bayside, Hull.

TWO FIRES

Two alarms of fire came in over the week-end, the first being from box 53, when two alarms were rung shortly before 12 o'clock Saturday night. The blaze ruined a Ford touring car owned and driven by Leo F. Cormier of 84 Grant street, Waltham. He found his car smoking when passing 53 Bacon street. Leaving it, he ran towards the centre until he met officer William Cassidy at Common street. They returned together and found the car burning fiercely. Officer Cassidy rang in the alarm, but not hearing the fire whistle, pulled the box a second time. The body of the Ford was burned off, the fire being thought to have started from a leak in the gasoline line. Cormier was accompanied by another man and two ladies.

On Sunday afternoon an alarm was rung in from box 38 for a fire in an empty hulk car owned by Frank A. Cutting, an standing on his spare track at the lower end of the freight yard. It is thought this fire was started from locomotive sparks. The damage was slight.

At 5:51 Sunday night two Paige cars were in collision at the corner of the Parkway and Main street, a Paige runabout operated by Lawrence Ludden of Lawrence turning into Main street from the Parkway, going into a Paige touring car driven by Thomas S. Whiting of Arlington. The Whiting car lost a rear wheel, which was smashed, and both cars sustained minor damage.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Few men ever get so busy that they could not spare time to listen to themselves.

This world will never be made any better by people who constantly think and talk that it is getting worse.

The man who forgets a kindness is not usually the fellow who forgets a hurt.

Women differ from men; they think they are always right while the man thinks he is never wrong.

A nice autumn morning!

One more week of vacation.

What has become of our old street watering carts? With this new road surfacing we now enjoy (?) they should come in mighty handy.

Yes, there may be something in this report of cold weather.

No matter what it is, apparently the whole of New England is ready for some action in the coal strike controversy.

Speaking wholly from a personal standpoint, the Editor can truthfully say that he never remembers better telephone service than that received during the last strike. Holding the same vein of thought he would not object to a continuance of the strike.

We trust that those men (we can hardly call them boys) who have been breaking our pear tree down during the week to pick green fruit, take a bite and throw it away, did not take our last week's editorial in a personal way. If they will only wait until Monday they will find a basket of nice ripe pears under the tree for their benefit. We regret that we could not get delivery earlier.

In the city of Lynn it has been decided to do away with future bell alarms for fires. The new system went into effect yesterday, and has been inaugurated as an endeavor to stop the traffic congestion occasioned by the herd of motorists who drive their machines to every fire, seriously hampering the work of the firemen and apparatus. Here in Winchester the situation is also serious, for our firemen are complaining more and more about the number of automobiles which jam in at a fire and prevent them from doing adequate work. In fact at many fires it is impossible to lay a length of hose after the first has been run from a hydrant. Winchester is a little differently situated from Lynn, in that the fire whistle calls the call firemen as well as the motorists. Nevertheless, Chief DeCourcy has considered several methods of relieving the pressure, and reports that it may be necessary to take the matter up with Registrar Goodwin and have the licenses of those who crowd in on the apparatus revoked. There is no question but what if this were done the firemen would soon have plenty of room.

PETITION TO CLEAN THE RIVER

As announced in the Star recently, the petition talked of by interested citizens who have the welfare of Winchester at heart, and who feel that the pollution of the Merrimack River, flowing through the center of our town and polluting our lake, is detrimental to the growth and standards of Winchester, has now become a recognized fact. This petition is now being circulated about town.

Interested citizens (and this should include every one in town) are called upon to see to it that their names are promptly signed to this important paper. It is the desire to show the authorities in charge that Winchester objects to this condition.

The petition may be found at all of the principal stores, and also in this paper, from which it may be clipped, signed and mailed to the Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Salzer of Central street entertained over the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Garnett of Kansas City. Mr. Garnett is editor of the Kansas City Star.

RECORD FOR COLD WEATHER

Winchester has not varied from other parts of the country this week in experiencing particularly cold weather for this time of year. During the past week the temperature is reported to have been as low as 48 on two mornings.

This morning creates the record for low reading, the temperature in the centre being reported at 42 at five o'clock. Report from the west side placed the mercury down to 37. Frost was found at many points about town.

ONE HONEST AUTOIST

On Wednesday, a Mrs. Kraglund, visiting at the home of Mrs. John A. Mooney of 130 Cambridge street, accepted a ride in a passing auto as far as Arlington. While waiting for the Arlington car she was accosted by a man in a car, who inquired the way to that place. She directed him, and learning that she was going to the same place, he took her there. Upon leaving the auto Mrs. Kraglund left behind her bag, containing money and valuables. She reported her loss to the police, although hardly expecting its recovery. This morning acting Chief of Police Thomas F. McCauley received a letter from the driver of the car, who resides in Westwood, explaining the incident and requesting that the police try and find the owner of the bag. Mrs. Kraglund was much delighted to recover her property.

NO BOAT CLUB DANCE

There will be no dance tomorrow evening at the Boat Club. The dance this week is omitted on account of so many Winchester people being away.

The ladies' auction bridge committee is planning a series of afternoon bridge parties and also evening bridge parties as held at the beginning of the season.

Activities at the club will be resumed in September and several valuable attractions will be provided as a means to help the building fund.

The membership quota has very nearly been reached and it is expected that by the end of the season there will be a waiting list which condition has not existed for several years.

ANOTHER GAME

Because of the non appearance of several of the Somerville players the ball game scheduled for last night between the Legion boys and the Somerville Civics was called off.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 on Manchester Field the fans will forget their disappointment when Winchester and Stoneham will clash. Stoneham is anxious to break Winchester's winning streak and has strengthened up their team in an effort to do it. Come one and all and enjoy a battle royal. Manchester Field at 3:30, come early and get a seat.

Power to Stop!
Buick Four-wheel Brakes

BUICK four-wheel brakes provide a factor of safety welcomed by every driver. No matter how careful he may be there are moments when the power to stop his car quickly and safely averts a serious accident.

Buick four-wheel brakes operate simply by light pressure on the foot pedal. There is no change in the method of operation over former Buick rear wheel brakes.

Buick rear brake construction has proved its dependability for many years. Identically the same principle, simple in its mechanism and effective in its braking control, now has been employed on the front wheels.

The adoption of four-wheel brakes by Buick on its 1924 cars is wholly in keeping with its policy of giving the owner everything that will increase his safety, comfort and satisfaction.

The 1924 Buick cars likewise are distinctive for their beauty, their increased power, ease of operation and comfort—giving features never before found on motor cars.

The summer days have been flying by and in our surprise we find ourselves almost on the threshold of the Fall. The days have been days of glorious weather, God-given, for most of us, clear skies and cool breezes for the last part, with but little of oppressive heat. Many of us already have our vacations behind us and we are feeling refreshed with a new vitality and alertness. Vacations, after all, do not make us take it solely that we may have pleasure and a "good time." Vacations are rather a time when we can lead healthy, normal, outdoor lives. If we come home tired out by our days of we have missed a great blessing. Busy days are ahead of us all, whether we like it or not, and our vacations should have been spent so that we come back better men and women; more ready for life; with days so spent that we can do our work as though it were God's work, with more intelligence and greater strength and calmness. Here's hoping our experience has not been that of Otto Grimm!

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, AUG. 20

The Board met at 7:30 p. m., all present.

The records of the meeting of August 13 were read and approved.

The following letter was received in regard to the School Building Program from the Town Treasurer:

Board of Selectmen, Gentlemen:

In reply to your inquiry relative to proceeds of bonds sold on account of School Program, would state they are deposited in the Old Colony Trust Company as a checking account, but I have a proposal from them to transfer $200,000 of that amount to a time loan due January 1, 1924 at 3 1/2 per cent, with 30-day notice of withdrawal required. After approval by Mr. H. B. Sanborn of the building committee I shall accept but small endeavor to have time extended from January 1st on same terms.

Yours respectfully,

G. H. Eastis, Treasurer.

Jurors 1923: A letter was received from the clerk of the United States District Court of Massachusetts stating that Russell B. Armstrong, 21 Lebanon street, Winchester, was drawn and has served as a Petit Juror during the March term 1923 of this Court. The clerk of the Court asks that his name be taken off the Jury list.

Edward F. Maguire as Constable of the Town of Winchester appeared with a venire calling for one Francisco Juror for the Superior Criminal Court to be holden at Lowell, Mass. and for one County of Middlesex on Tuesday, September 1, 1923. William M. Smith, 12 1/2 Church street, was drawn.

Licenses 1923 (Miscellaneous): Mr. Joseph L. Kagan, 20 Arthur street, Winchester, appeared before the Board with an application for a State license to deal in dry goods and clothing. After calling up Mr. George T. Davidson to find out about the standing of Mr. Kagan, the Board signed the no license, certifying as to the moral standing and integrity of Mr. Kagan and stating that he is not a citizen of the United States.

Gasoline: Mr. James N. Clark of Bacon street appeared at the hearing on his application for permission to keep and store gasoline amounting to 50 gallons in motor vehicles while in a garage situated on 1 1/2 No. 7 Bacon street. As no one objected to granting him a license, and as Mr. Clark presented the proper papers to show that the notice had been given of the hearing, the Board voted to grant him a license. Same is effective for one year unless sooner revoked. (Licenses expire August 20, 1924).

Bacon Street: Mr. Clark asked that his house be given a number. This matter was referred to the Town Engineer, he to furnish Mr. Clark with a number.

Dunster Lane: The Chairman submitted a copy of a letter which he has sent to the Public Works Commission of the Town of Arlington relative to a request which is being made of the Town of Arlington by the Board to supply the residents of this street with water from the Town of Arlington.

Acceptance of Streets and Building Lines: The Clerk was instructed to put on the docket for the meeting of Sept. 4th all petitions for acceptance of streets as town ways and requests for building lines.

Streets: The Clerk is also to bring up at the meeting of Sept. 4th, the matter of extending an invitation to the Planning Board and Finance Committee to make a survey of the streets with the Board of Selectmen, the date of survey to be determined at this meeting of the Board.

Bridges: The Superintendent of Streets is to report on the condition and whether notices have been posted on the following bridges: Tiding the amount of the bond which these bridges can safely carry; Bridge on Washington street, near the Watchman Factory; Lake street Bridge; and Bridge near the Winchester Railroad Depot on Cross street.

Signs (Guide Posts): Mr. Berry called the Board's attention to a new clipping relating to the statute requiring Massachusetts towns to erect and maintain guide posts at forks or crossings of roads which lead to adjoining towns giving the names of the towns to which they lead, and the distance there. This matter was referred to Mr. Bateman for report.

Everett Avenue: The Clerk was instructed to place on the docket relating to building matters the following application relating to Everett avenue: The road of fixing the street, curbing and flagging out the gutter, the motor pertaining to poles and wires in this street will probably be considered by the Board before building matters for next year are being taken up.

Woodside Road: The Board adopted an order assessing the owners for the laying out of Woodside road and ordered the same committed to the Collector of Taxes.

Pole Location: The Clerk was instructed to write the Inspector of Wires and ask him to report on what progress he has made in regard to inspecting all the poles in town.

Coal: Mr. Bryne and Mr. Berry reported that they had talked with the Locke Coal Company relative to Welsh Anthracite Coal. Mr. Berry presenting a letter which he had received from

Mr. Locke quoting a figure for this coal. The Board voted to purchase of the Locke Coal Company (165 Pleasant street, Malden) 50 tons of Welsh Anthracite Colliery (Coal) at $15.50 per ton, provided delivery can be made on or before October 1st of this year. This matter was referred to Mr. Bryne with power to act.

Surface Drainage (Ash Street): A report was received from the Superintendent of Streets relative to the complaint of surface drainage conditions in Ash street. In view of the fact that there are no funds available in the Surface Drainage Account, the Superintendent of Streets suggests that the situation in this street can be remedied to a certain extent by slightly raising the westerly sidewalks and deepening the westerly gutter, and recommends that this be done. This matter was referred back again to the Superintendent of Streets, he to estimate the Several times during the 110 years that gas has been a public utility, certain people have thought that it had reached the limit of its usefulness. However, each period of pessimism has been followed by the discovery of new uses for gas and consequently by greater growth of the industry.

Forty-four years ago last December there was a panic in gas-shares when Edison's experiments in electric lighting were made known. But along in 1893 came the incandescent mantle and those who thought gas was "going out" were wrong again. Now the use of gas for industrial purposes is making giant strides.

The output of gas has tripled in the last twenty years, and doubled in the last ten. Right now the industry is on the threshold of an expansion beyond anything it has yet experienced.

SANDY BEACH SWIMMING CARNIVAL

Sandy Beach was host last Saturday to a large crowd of enthusiasts who witnessed the first swimming carnival ever held in the waters of Mystic Lake. In making the preliminary announcements, Life-guard "Burr" Murray said he hoped to see the carnival an annual affair, explaining that such events go far towards stimulating the general interest in swimming that is necessary here in New England if we are to equal the crack swimmers being produced in other parts of the country. He urged all present to talk up the carnival which he characterized as "only a starter." We venture to predict that those who attended the "starter" will be present when its successors are held, for from the first until the storm put an end to the program the spectators were treated to some real sport.

Immediately preceding the start of the races a representative of the American Legion Post in Woburn was introduced. He announced a swimming meet to be held in that city on Labor Day and solicited entries from the swimmers present. It is expected that "Sandy" will be well represented.

The opening event of last Saturday's meet was the half mile for boys. There were five starters and they remained well bunched on the first leg of a triangular course which started and finished at the beach. This race was interesting because the winner, John Scherschewsky of Arlington, looked to be the out-standing performer among all the boys who competed. Starting easily and swimming throughout with a smooth powerful crawl stroke he gradually pulled out ahead and won as he pleased by nearly 25 yards. It was a popular win, and the smiling victor was given a great hand as he waded ashore, readily "breathing" after his long grind. Another win that pleased the spectators was that of Lillian McLennon of Somerville in the girl's half mile. This little Miss, one of the youngest and smallest of all the contestants, swam a steady race, going out in front on the last leg and winning by 15 yards. She too had "plenty left." Beside winning the half mile, Miss McLennon was also the privilege of leading a race for girls, and here again her win was convincing. She looked to be the best of the "mermaids."

LEGION BABY SHOW

The Winchester Post of the American Legion will add an innovation this year to their lawn carnival Sept. 29. This will be a baby show, to be held in the afternoon on the club house lawn. A program of events will be issued later stating the exact time for the baby show. The contest will be open to all babies which will consist of members of the medical profession in Winchester. The babies will be divided into three classes—infants up to one and a half years—one and a half years up to three and a half and from three and a half up to five. Blue ribbons will be awarded for the winner of each class, and a silver cup will be awarded to the best baby in the show irrespective of sex.

Another blue ribbon will be awarded for the best decorated baby carriage. It is hoped that the parents will cooperate with the Legion to make this event as successful as it has been in our neighboring towns. It will not be necessary to enter the babies until the show begins. Each youngster will be judged according to points, namely: for physical condition such as weight, height, color, disposition and such qualities which go to make a prize baby. The Winchester Post American Legion will also have a special display of a picture of the winning babies for use in the Winchester Star and possibly elsewhere.

DOLAN-EDWARDS

A wedding of much interest to Winchester's young set took place last Sunday evening at St. Anne's Church, Somerville, when Mr. James Dolan of this town and Miss Gertrude Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Edwards of Somerville were united in marriage. Miss Katherine Edwards, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, and Mr. Jeremiah Dolan, brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception took place at the Hotel Vendome attended by relatives and friends of the young couple. They will be home to their many friends after October 1st at their new home on Pierson avenue, Somerville. The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School, class of 1917, also a member of Winchester Post and the local K. C.

A WINCHESTER BOY'S EXPERIENCE

Mr. Edwin Halvorsen of Walnut street who has been cruising this summer on the coast of Maine and Nova Scotia encountered an experience during last week's severe storm that nearly was disastrous for all on board.

After leaving Nova Scotia in a dense fog, they struck a southwest gale half-way across the Bay of Fundy. The storm was in its worst stages, and considerable damage was done to the vessel. The motor was blown to sea about 100 miles, the sea running very high. It was also so cold that Mr. Halvorsen's hands were locked to the wheel.

TOWN PLANNING AND ZONING

To the Editor of the Star:
The citizens will recall that at the annual Town Meeting an appropriation of $2500 upon recommendation of the Finance Committee was made to enable the Planning Board to make a study of the Town Planning and Zoning for Winchester. Accordingly the Board early in the year retained Mr. John P. Fox of New York a recognized authority on Zoning, and Mr. Arthur A. Shurtleff of Boston, who has served important cities and towns in Massachusetts as an expert on Town Planning. The first step has been taken by the preparation of maps for Town Planning and a tentative plan for zoning has been completed. The plan will be submitted to the citizens in a series of hearings which the Planning Board trusts will be helpful and instructive to all who are interested in such a development as well known as will secure for the future its highest welfare.

The subject of zoning is comparatively new and yet clearly understood by the public at large. It is the intention of the Planning Board to give the citizens all the information available regarding the advantages to be gained by its adoption in the expectation that its principles will commend themselves to the community at large.

Frank E. Rowe, Secretary

William J. Thompson of Arlington, a man 78 years of age, was struck by an automobile driven by Tony Russo of Swanton street, this town, Saturday night. The accident occurred in Arlington when Thompson was crossing Massachusetts avenue. Thompson, who was knocked unconscious, was taken to the Symmes Hospital, where he was treated for injuries to his head.

BACK HOME

Winchester Is Still a Pretty Good Place For Many

With the close of August and on the threshold of Labor Day, Winchester appears to be a pretty good place during the past week. This shows the interest in the matter held by Winchester people, for this petition has not been circulated—only placed about town where it may be voluntarily signed. The interest is not alone confined to Winchester. Already many Medford names have been subscribed, and in fact one letter, the first received, came in before the addition was off the press, it being signed by Mr. John McCarroll of White street.

Friday night's mail brought 18 of the signed clippings, and Saturday morning 26 more. Every mail since Friday has contained the clipped petitions. These signatures who are making in their names are practically all Winchester residents from out-of-town. They include our people who are in Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine and Connecticut, as well as many who are here in the State, but too far away to come home just for the purpose of adding their signatures. One signer sent his name from Seattle, Wash., and two names were received from California.

Many of the clipped petitions contain expressions of approval of the movement, such as "Don't leave me out," "Badly needed," "Glad to help," etc. It was the idea of those interested in the matter to have the names of the signers published in the Star, but the large number received and coming in daily have led to a reconsideration of this idea, and it is not yet known definitely whether this will now be done or not.

A number of residents have requested that they be given petitions to circulate among their friends. But the large number received and coming in daily have led to a reconsideration of this idea, and it is not yet known definitely whether this will now be done or not.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Thummin of Parkway are moving this week to their new residence in Medford. They have been spending the summer at Falmouth, and will reside in their new home upon their return next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Boag of Bacon street, accompanied by Daniel Jr. and Miss Isabel, are on a camping trip in the Adirondacks. They have been spending the larger part of their time at Jackman, and expect to be in Winchester the first of the month.

SCHOOLS OPEN WEDNESDAY

The public schools will open Wednesday, September 5. The various school sessions will be from 8:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. in the Wadleigh School and in the elementary schools sessions will be from 8:45 a. m. to 12 m., and from 1:30 p. m. to 3:15 p. m. Pupils four years and nine months old will be admitted to the Kindergarten, and pupils five years and nine months old will be admitted to the first grade.

Pupils who are a little younger than the September 5th and whose parents think them mature enough to do school work will be examined to determine their mental age. If, upon examination, they are found to be five years old mentally, they will be admitted to the Kindergarten, and pupils found to be six years old mentally will be admitted to the first grade. The examinations will be conducted by a representative of the Harvard University Graduate School, at the same time as the entrance examinations by the parents with the Superintendent of Schools. Parents having children to be examined should notify the office of the Superintendent of Schools before the opening of school.

TOWN HALL NEARLY FINISHED

The work of decorating the interior of the Town Hall is expected to be completed this week, the workmen now being engaged in removing the dense scaffolding. When cleared, the hall will doubtless present a very changed and pleasing appearance to what our residents have been accustomed. The ceiling is in a cream, with a light gray trim, and the woodwork around the base has been left in its previous natural color. A steel ceiling has yet to be placed over the stage. New electric lights have been installed so far as possible, while the staging was in place, but the Selectmen desire to place new fixtures giving a better and more up-to-date lighting of the hall as soon as the necessary funds can be obtained.

On Wednesday a thorough examination of the chimney at the building was made by Selectmen Main and Dutten, together with J. Frank Tuttle and Chief DeCourcy of the fire department. It was found that there was one flue in the chimney which apparently has never been used, and this, turned into the present smoke flue for the boilers, will undoubtedly remedy the difficulty experienced last winter in heating the building.

BOYS KILLED BIG SNAKE

A big snake, measuring over four feet in length, was killed on Tuesday afternoon at Long Pond in the Fells by George Bartlett, Kenneth West and Daniel West. The reptile was seen sunning itself on a stone on the shore of the pond and a well directed stone apparently broke its back. It started into a hole at the base of the stone, but one of the boys grabbed its tail when it was half way in and pulled it out, when it was dispatched. The snake was a water moccasin. About a dozen young snakes measuring about eight inches long were in the stomach of the mother snake, they coming out during the process of extermination.

PUPILS TO RECEIVE PRIZES

Mrs. Annie Seale Lewis will receive her pianoforte pupils, socially, in her home, 131 Washington street, Saturday, Sept. 8th at four o'clock.

On this occasion, pupils will receive the prizes they have won for the best records made during the past season, and will select dates for their lessons for the coming season.

New pupils will be assigned dates after Sept. 9th. Season commences Sept. 11th and 13th. For information address Mrs. Lewis, 131 Washington street, Winchester.

Mrs. Robert M. Hamilton and children, Sheldon and Dorothy, leave this week for a stay at Marshfield Hills.

HEAVY SHOWER SATURDAY

One of the few showers experienced this summer visited the town last Saturday afternoon, coming up with remarkable speed shortly before four o'clock after thunder and ominous clouds, which had been banked in the northwest for nearly an hour, gave indications that Winchester would escape any rain. Clear skies at the southwest were overcast inside of 15 minutes, and when the rain arrived it was a veritable deluge. Sports on the lake, links and diamond were hastily abandoned, the spectators and participants fleeing for shelter without lingering. For a short period during the storm a heavy shower of hail descended, but fortunately not sufficient to do much damage, the dry streets on the side hills suffered considerable, the loose sand and gravel being washed down and filling the catch basins. The rain was over by six o'clock, a considerable drop in temperature causing a damp and foggy evening.

RUN OVER AT CHATHAM

Eliot K. Blaisdell, 6-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell of 11 Fenwick road, had a narrow escape from being killed by an automobile at Chatham last week. Dr. and Mrs. Blaisdell and family have been spending the summer at their Chatham home, and while crossing the street at the village store, Eliot was knocked to the ground by the front bumper of a rapidly moving Franklin sedan, the machine passing completely over him before the driver could stop, but none of the wheels touching him.

He was taken to the Cape Cod Hospital at Hyannis, where his name was on the danger list for several days because of the fear of internal injuries which fortunately did not develop. In addition to a general shaking up, his injuries consisted of multiple contusions and abrasions, and a broken bone in one lower leg.

The fire department responded with the Packard truck for a still alarm on Monday for burning grass on the Parkway near the railroad at Sandy Beach. The fire was quickly extinguished.

FOSTER HOUSE SOLD

Several important real estate transactions were made this week through the office of Percival B. Metcalf, the more important being the sale of the house on Grove street formerly owned by the late Edward S. Foster. This estate was taken over by the Winchester National Bank and was recently placed on the market. It has been purchased by Mr. Edward B. Haynes of Andover and Brookline, who will occupy for a home.

Another sale of interest is that of the estate on Main street owned by Miss Mabel L. Vinton and being the former homestead of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Vinton. Dr. Herbert H. Pentz has purchased the estate, which he will occupy.

Mr. Metcalf has also sold the double house at 7 and 9 Myrtle street, owned by Mrs. Marion J. White of Everett, to Mrs. Carrie L. Woodman, now occupying one half.

RESULTS COUNT

"Will you please cancel the next two weeks' insertion of that 'Want Ad' I sent in, as I have placed the person mentioned in the notice,"—Mrs. T. G. Abbott.

Winchester	W	L	PC
Stonham	7	4	.636
Worcester	6	4	.600
Worcester	3	6	.333
Worcester	0	4	.000

The above standing shows Winchester with a two game lead on Thursday morning. With two more games to be played, Winchester by the loss of both games they have to play will be tied for first place. A win against Stonham tomorrow afternoon will clinch first place for the second half of the race and Wakefield will be first half of the race so that a little world's series will be staged for the benefit of the Winchester fans probably starting on Labor Day. The morning game will be played at Wakefield and the afternoon game at Manchester Field. Should the Labor Day game be upset that is, if Wakefield is unable to play on that date there still will be a stellar attraction for the townspeople on Manchester Field. Labor Day afternoon.

Come down to Manchester Field tomorrow afternoon if you want to see a good ball game. Stonham is anxious to tie up for first place and will bring a team that will give Winchester a tough battle.

Again on Monday afternoon the fans will witness another battle royal. Come one and all, come early and buy a ticket.

The management are in hopes of having some extra seats for these games at a small added cost to the fans.

MALDEN 1, WINCHESTER 0

Winchester suffered their second defeat after a long string of wins at Malden last Monday night. In a most brilliant pitcher's battle, Winchester came out on the short end of a 1 to 0 score. Although the box score gives the Malden Club five hits, only two of these were clean clouts the other three being of the scratch. Shea, for Malden going like a house afire, held Winchester to one hit.

BRADLEE AND BELCHER WON

Saturday's match at the Winchester Country Club was a four-ball, best-ball tournament, there being a large field out at the opening. Belcher were the winners, turning in a 68, they being followed by W. W. O'Hara and F. F. Nazro, who tied with W. B. Bouve and R. U. Sawyer with 70 each.

Strangers Cordially Welcomed

Fourteenth Sunday after Trinity, Sept. 2. 8 A. M. Holy Communion.

It is a difficult task to construct a life without God in it and there are not many people who do so. Such lives as are lived without God are usually tempered with despair and tinged with pessimism. On the other hand there is a large class of people who would not deny the existence of God but for whom God has no real, vital, active influence.

God and religion and the church are all right for their lives and children but are not to be taken too seriously by themselves. It would seem as though it requires some things, some reverse, some sorrow, some disappointment to stir them to a better need for God. Now we are not pleading that these people should become Christians for the most useful religion is often almost worse than none. Yet it is not possible to live through the course of our lives without some of religion, and there have been many, to the vital fact of God's love for them and of their need for God.

SANDY BEACH SWIMMING CARNIVAL

The half mile for girls was the big upset of the meet. Mabel Snodgrass of Winchester was the favorite to win, which was not surprising in view of the splendid record she has made in the New England open meets. Apparently she was away "off form," her best for the afternoon being a second in the girls' hundred where she was barely noted out by Dorothy Bubar of Somerville after a tough battle in the closest finish of the afternoon. This second was the only place won by Winchester in the meet.

"Jo" Donovan of Arlington won the girls' 50-yard race, and was the real "iron man" of the carnival. Beside her win in the 50 she had a second in the 200, second in the 100 yard, and third in the 100 yards. Four places in four starts is an afternoon for any one, and speaks volumes for the little Misses' condition.

In fact all the contestants showed that they were in good shape, only two casualties occurring during the entire program. Edith Anderson of Grove place was kicked in the stomach while making a turn in the 200-yard swim for girls, and an out-of-run contestant was forced to quit in the girl's half mile when she was stricken with cramps. Neither mis-lap proved serious.

In general the weather conditions were not particularly favorable. The water was rough and cold, and a stiff west wind bothered the swimmers. Toward the end of the meet this became a veritable gale, and in the girls' hundred yard which was the last race possible to run the contestants were literally blown yards out of the course. This together with the pelting rain of the thunder storm prompted Life-guard Murray to postpone the remaining events, which were the two novice races for girls and boys, and the half-mile special race for the cup donated by the Arlington Board of Trade. The plan is to run of these events next Saturday afternoon.

The carnival was a huge success from the point of view of both competitors and spectators. We can't say who enjoyed it most. Surely when a crowd will stay even in the face of a certain drenching until announcement is made that there isn't to be any more racing as most of last Saturday's crowd did, the interest is there. Turn this interest in the right direction and we will have some real swimmers in the Mystic Valley.

We might state that the only excitement not furnished by the races was that occasioned when Life-saver F. H. Higgins of this town was unable to find his bathing suit when it was time to dress for action. A general search coupled with some professional sleuthing by the Metropolitan Police who were present disclosed the fact that he was looking for the missing suit in the wrong car. "Frank" claims that kind of car all look alike.

One of the features of the afternoon was the exhibition swim given by Mr. John Bray of the L Street Swimming Club. Mr. Bray, who is 60 years of age and doesn't look it, recently won the swim to Boston Light for the Mayor Curley Cup. He was much applauded as was Life-guard Murray who also did some "fancy stuff" for the crowd's benefit. This same "Bill" Murray had entire charge of the carnival, and acted as starter. He was assisted by Alfred Vozena of the M. D. C. and F. H. Higgins of Winchester who accompanied the swimmers in boats. The judges at the finish were Sergeant John Harold of the Winchester police, George W. Harold and James H. Penalligan, all of Winchester. The clerk of course was Donald Hunt of Stoneham, and the timer, William Powell of Arlington. The police detail was in charge of a sergeant of the Metropolitan police.

The summary of events:

Half Mile Race for Boys—Won by John Scherenschowsky of Arlington; Paul Wilkins of Medford, second; F. J. Mulrany of Arlington, third.

Two Hundred Yard Race for Girls—Won by Lillian McLennan of Somerville. "Jo" Donovan of Arlington, second; Ethel Holzhberg of Stoneham, third.

Fifty Yard Race for Girls—Won by "Jo" Donovan of Arlington; Louise Fitzhugh of Stoneham, second; Rose O'Connor of Arlington, third.

Fifty Yard Race for Boys—Won by H. Kelley of Woburn; K. C. Hall of Woburn, second; John Scherenschowsky of Arlington, third.

Half Mile Race for Girls—Won by Lillian McLennan of Somerville. "Jo" Donovan of Arlington, second; Ethel Holzhberg of Stoneham, third.

On the basis of five points for first place, two for second and one for third which is the recognized system of scoring where there are but three awards, Arlington, lead with 18 points, Somerville is second with 16, Woburn is third with 10, Medford is fourth with six, Stoneham is fifth with four and Winchester last with two.

HURT BY AUTO ON MAIN STREET

Three Boys Had Narrow Escape Monday Forenoon

One boy was badly bruised and cut and two others narrowly escaped being seriously injured about 11 o'clock Monday morning in a collision of a 2½-ton auto truck owned by the Royal Transportation Company of 143 Grove street, Lowell, and operated by Harold A. Hardy of the same address, with a hand cart, in which one boy was seated and which was being drawn by the other two boys down the hill on Main street near the Symmes mill, nearly opposite 703 Main street.

Joseph Beaton, aged 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Finley Beaton of 40 Clark street, who was seated in the hand cart, sustained a bad cut on the right foot and bruises and contusions on the arms and body and a cut on the head.

Frank Duran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Duran of 2 Clark street and William Bond, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Bond of a Clark street, boys about the same age as Beaton, were bruised slightly when the big auto truck sidestepped the hand cart and demolished it. Beaton was taken to the Winchester Hospital by the driver of the auto truck and attended by Dr. Simons. He was painfully, but not seriously hurt.

The three boys were going down Main street to gather up some railroad ties and waste wood for firewood for their homes. The truck was going north to Lowell and hit the hand cart in some unexplained manner, throwing Beaton to the ground and scattering the parts of the cart all over the side of the road.

A quantity of old boards, liberally filled with bent and broken nails, was distributed over the Medford end of Highland avenue by a truck Monday night. Officer Hogan found this menace to auto tires and removed the boards, notifying the Medford police to warn the driver of the truck.

My dear Mr. Wilson:

I am so glad that you are going to push the matter of the Aberjona River. Coming into the community as a stranger one is impressed with the beauty of Winchester and the way in which the places and streets are kept and the general up-to-dateness of the entire community and then when one happens to linger to look at the Aberjona River or if one wishes to take a swim in the lakes or ponds he is apt to be quite disgusted.

Public opinion can force any issue if it wishes to. I am hoping that public opinion in Winchester will do so in this case. As many of our people are away, I suppose you will run the petition in several issues. If there is any way in which I can help please let me know.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

Centuries ago, in England, the importance of pure air was recognized, and drastic measures were taken to prevent its being poisoned.

In the year 1850, Queen Elizabeth issued an edict prohibiting the burning of certain fuels in London while parliament was in session, because the health of her "knights of the Shires" might suffer by having to breathe the smoke and fumes. It is recorded that at another time a man was hanged for burning prohibited coal.

Recently, active steps have been taken in London to clear the atmosphere of smoke. The "Hull Mail Gazette" offered a prize of ten guineas for the best suggestion to that end. It is noteworthy that the prize went to an American girl, Miss Alice Young, of Mishawaka, Indiana, who advocated the substitution of coke and gas fires for those most in use.

An automobile accident occurred Sunday evening at 7:45 at the corner of Harvard and Chester streets in which the Ford sedan of Daniel L. Hurley of 71 Holland street was badly damaged. Hurley and Salvatore Equatore of Woburn met head on at the corner of the street, and the Buick truck which Equatore was driving ripped off the side running gear of the Ford. Equatore had not received his license to drive, although he had taken the examination. He promised to have the Ford repaired.

The new Ford garbage truck arrived last week and was put in service by the Health Department. The truck, which is driven by Mr. Patrick Craughwell, is being used to collect garbage from the outlying districts and is reported as saving much time in the work.

A Cole touring car was badly burned on the Border road Tuesday night. An autoist notified the fire department at 9:30 that a car was on fire in the Fells, and Chief DeCoursey responded in his roadster. He found the auto burning fiercely and extinguished the fire with chemicals. The body of the car was nearly burned off. The car was owned by Sam Biesky of Malden, being driven by Frederick G. Ladd of Everett. How the blaze started could not be determined.

Mounted officer "Ned" Shea, who patrols the Winchester reservoirs, is credited with making another exceptional stop of a runaway the first of the week. The story only came out during the week, and officer Shea, has little to say regarding the incident.

As near as can be ascertained, the officer was attracted by a woman's screams Sunday evening. Upon investigating he found that a female horseback rider was being run away with, she having lost her saddle and clinging desperately to the horse's neck. It took nearly a half-mile chase for the officer to catch up to her, after which he made quick work of stopping the runaway. The woman was frightened and exhausted, but after a rest, she was able to ride to her home. Officer Shea is a very efficient man in the Fells, and this is not the first time his quick and energetic action has earned him praise in his line of duty.

The Water Department has had men at work during the summer thising out the brush around the shores of the reservoirs, giving the small pines which have been set out a chance to mature. The reservoirs are somewhat below the average level for this time of year, although the rains of this week have brought the waters up. The readings last week showed the South reservoir to be about 3 feet and the middle and North reservoirs were 2 1/2 feet below normal. With our abundance of water, however, it would take a much more protracted dry spell than that of this summer to create any apprehension over our supply.

SANDY BEACH SWIMMING CARNIVAL

The races postponed from the swimming carnival of August 25th, were held last Saturday afternoon at Sandy Beach. While not so large as the previous week, still a fair crowd was in attendance when the first race was called off at about 2 o'clock. The delay in starting was due to Life Guard Murray's desire to give several entrants from one of the Somerville beaches who were delayed in transit, a chance to participate in their respective events. The first event called was the 200-yard swim for boys. This proved rather uninteresting as the winner, James Keely of Somerville went out in front at the start and was never headed. He had a comfortable margin at the finish over Arthur Repetto who also came from Somerville. There was plenty of splashing in the water. The next race for boys which was very close all the way. John Reardon of Somerville finally won over Harold Anderson of Winchester after a tough struggle in the water. Youngsters making the distance in fast time, and showing good form. Then came the novice race for girls. This contest proved the most exciting of the afternoon. It was found necessary, owing to a judge's decision, to call the first race a contest, and order the contestants to swim again after a short rest. This was done because the winner, Ruth Goff of Somerville, who had been judged to have won the race in the last few feet of the race was thought by most of the judges and practically all the spectators to have been given a false start. The Somerville swimmer coach who claimed that his girl had won by three feet, refused to allow his charge to swim the race, though the Winchester swimmer was willing to swim again. After considerable wrangling, the race was called off and the first place was given to the Somerville entrant. Fate, however, was with the visitors, for the girl who won the race, finally gave up the prize, and the Somerville swimmer was declared the winner. We are inclined to think the little Somerville maid was lucky. The special free-for-all swim for girls to be held on Sunday, was a family affair. None came to contest for honors with the Nelligan sisters of Cambridge, and they fought it out between themselves. Finally, coming from Julia in a "see-saw" contest that was too slow to be interesting. The last race of the afternoon was the half-mile special race for "boys over 16." Interest in this contest was particularly keen because of the first prize which was to be a silver medal. Many were expected to win, but they went off not nearly as much warmth as the old anthracite and after the race had been going for some time, a good-sized field faced the starter, and got off pretty well together. The favorite for first place was Clyde Wilkins of Medford, but he was seen to be in second place with James Keely of Somerville, the winner of the 200-yard swimmer race, only a few feet ahead. The race was gradually increased on the second leg of the race, and the winner, Clyde Wilkins, was seen to be in second place with James Keely of Somerville, the winner of the 200-yard swimmer race, only a few feet ahead. The race was gradually increased on the second leg of the race, and the winner, Clyde Wilkins, was seen to be in second place with James Keely of Somerville, the winner of the 200-yard swimmer race, only a few feet ahead. Following the races there was exhibition swimming by Life Guard Murray and Miss Lillian McLennan, the little 10-year-old star and general favorite of the beach. The summary of events: Two Hundred Yard Race For Boys—First, James Keely, Somerville; second, Arthur Repetto, Somerville; third, Paul Wilkins, Medford. Boys' Novice Twenty-five Yard Race—First, John Reardon, Somerville; second, Harold Anderson, Winchester; third, Raymond Wilkins, Medford. Girls' Novice Twenty-five Yard Race—First, Ruth Goff, Somerville; second, Mary Doherty, Winchester; third, second, Cambridge. Special Free-for-all For Girls—First, Nelligan, Cambridge; second, Nelligan, Cambridge. Half Mile Special Race For Boys—First, Clyde Wilkins, Somerville; second, Clyde Wilkins, Medford; third, Charles Atwood, Arlington.

ENDORSED THE STAR

Tuesday evening, Sept. 4, a meeting of the directors of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce was held at the office of Thomas H. Barrett and called to order by President George Gendron at 7 o'clock. It was voted to call a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at which it is hoped that all members will be present, also any persons who may be interested in the Chamber of Commerce on the third Tuesday evening of September at which time all members will be notified and a public meeting will be held. It was voted to endorse the splendid work of the "Winchester Star" in its efforts to clean up the filth in the "Aberjona River."

MISS RUTH MARCHANT ENGAGED

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The C. D. of A. will hold their Thirtieth Annual Banquet on Thursday evening, Sept. 20th. The speaker will be the Rev. John I. Corrigan, S. J. of Boston College. It will be the best event in the history of the court.

PETITION POPULAR

Almost 1000 Names Pledged to Support of Campaign for Clean River

The petition which is to be presented to the State Department of Public Health, asking that steps be taken to clean the Aberjona River, has received a feature in our town through its dirty and filthy water, is meeting with increased popularity—if such a thing is possible. To date nearly 1000 names have been signed. The increase this week was just a few under 500—436 so far as could be counted up. Considered that these signatures are all accepted voluntarily, there being no canvass, one needs little further proof regarding the desire of the Town to have action begin in cleaning up the river. Many names are being signed to the petition from residents of Medford and Somerville. This water flows through those places, and people living there, hearing of the move being made here, appear eager to lend their aid. The Star received requests from three Medford residents during the week for petitions which may be placed there. This will probably be granted. It is also interesting to note that some Woburn names are being signed, as well as one or two from Stoughton. As has been stated previously, it is up to Winchester people who are interested in the matter to see to it that their names are on the petition. There is no limitation for you to sign. If you are interested and want the river cleaned up—if you wish to get the return on the vast expenditure you as a resident have contributed to beautify the river—if you wish our well kept lawns and attractive shrubbery reflected in water rather than covered over by the filth that you name is on the petition.

Y-D VETERANS BAND

The Winchester Post American Legion has secured the Y-D Veterans' band to play at their lawn carnival Sept. 20th. The band is composed of ex-service men who played in the 20th Yankee Division and will be in their service uniforms which will be in keeping with the Winchester Post members who will all be in uniform. They will also be two singers and possibly more to be accompanied by the band. This will be the first appearance of the Y-D Veterans' band in Winchester and they are particularly anxious to gain favor for future engagements. They will bring 25 pieces here for the carnival. The Winchester Post American Legion wishes to announce that it intends to have a memorial service in the Legion house in memory of the 12 Winchester boys who lost their lives in the service. The committee appointing has been planning for some time a memorial service and the enlarging of the room selected so it may be used for memorial exercises at any time. Pictures of the deceased servicemen will be framed with their official war records and the public will be allowed to visit the room at all times. For this reason the Winchester Post is endeavoring to make this a bigger and more successful carnival than the one held last year. The Post will be very grateful for any contributions for the memorial room. Many townspeople will be obliged to be here for the carnival, Sept. 20th but who would like to assist the Legion in their work. Such contributions will be publicly acknowledged in the Winchester Star and should be mailed to the Post Commander Vincent P. Clarke. CULLEN-BENHAM A wedding of interest to Arlington and Winchester people took place Sunday night at 7 o'clock when Anna G. Benham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Benham of 19 Norcross street Arlington was united in marriage to Arthur T. Cullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cullen of Middlesex street, this town. The Rev. Father Simpson, of St. Agnes' Church, performed the ceremony. The bride was attired in white georgette with a bridal veil and carried a bouquet of lilacs of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary E. Benham as bridesmaid, who wore a pink georgette with hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Peter, as best man. A wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was attended by over 500 guests, who were present from Jersey City, N. J., Lawrence, Maryland, N. C., Lynn, Woburn, Winchester and Dorchester. The young couple received many presents including two checks of $100 and a purse containing $500 in gold. After the reception the young couple left for Detroit, where Mr. Cullen is connected with the Ford Company.

BUILDING PERMITS

Winchester News Company, Ever-sharp pencil. Winchester Lodge of Elks, Subscription to magazine. E. Hubbard (Somerville) ton of coal. might also be added that Mr. William A. Murray, himself, donated quite handsome medals. STOPPED TRAIN AT CROSSING TO SAVE CHILDREN The engineer of the 8:23 inward express stopped his locomotive at the centre crossing yesterday morning to save running over small school children who were crossing the tracks. The train comes from Woburn and is not in sight until it reaches the crossing. Apparently the small children crossed to cross the tracks in groups. The gatesmen shouted at them and attempted to run up to where they were. This only confused them and when the train stopped there were two directly on the track, one trying to pull the other back. Fortunately the engineer had brought his train down the loop at a slow rate, otherwise he might not have been able to have made the stop.

JAPANESE DISASTER CALL

Red Cross Acts Quickly To Rally Relief Forces

Unless all accounts are totally in error, and the latest news dispatches fully confirm the earlier reports, Japan has just experienced the most terrible and destructive sudden disaster from an earthquake in all modern or even recorded history. At the time when similar destruction overwheled San Francisco, Japan, which has millions of people enrolled as members of the Red Cross, was quick to contribute to the relief fund. Both the Emperor and the Japanese government have made heavy financial contributions for the relief fund. ### SOME FUNNY THINGS IN THE POST OFFICE

Two letters mailed without postage, no return address, except written on the back. "No telling how long I have carried this, J. C. W."

A patron on Route 1 advises me: "As you being General Postmaster, he hopes I will instruct my carrier not to put mail for boxes on the Voth road in boxes on Collier's Ferry road, and to be more cautious."

A lady mailed some letters and a five dollar bill which she held in her hand.

A lady came to Postoffice to mail two letters and cash a money order. She mailed the money order and put the letters in her purse and did not get wise to what she had done till she got home.

Special delivery messenger called at a residence and knocked on the door. A lady's voice from within said, "What do you want?" Turning his head in the direction from which the voice came he saw a lady at the window pointing a six shooter gun at him. He said, "Lady, I have a special delivery letter for your husband." She replied, "He is not here." He said, "Can't you take it?" to which she said, "Not very well. My advice to you is to beat it from here before this six gun goes off and accidentally kills somebody, then the Postoffice will have to get a new messenger." He took her advice and one more special was sent out as ordinary mail.

Following a vacation a carrier noticed a boy playing in front of a double house which had formerly been vacant. "Which side to you live in," he asked. "The inside, of course," the boy replied and kept on playing.

MRS. GEORGE L. HUNTRESS DEAD

Mrs. Julia Peck Huntress, wife of Mr. George L. Huntress of 7 Central street, passed away at her home last Saturday afternoon after a long illness.

She was 69 years of age and had made her home in Winchester nearly 40 years, coming here in 1884. She was widely known to many of the older residents of the town, having in former years been socially prominent in town affairs as well as active in the work of the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association and the hospital. She was also identified with the activities and work of the Church of the Epiphany.

Mrs. Huntress was born in Buffalo, Her husband, George L. Huntress, Sr., is a well-known Boston attorney, and survives her, together with one son, George L. Huntress, Jr., of Boston.

The funeral services were held at the residence on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Lewis W. Hicks, of the retired Congregational clergyman of Wellesley, and a classmate of Mr. Huntress at Yale, 1878, officiated at the simple service. There were many beautiful floral tributes and a large attendance of friends. The interment took place at Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

There are many people in Winchester who will miss her generous gifts.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

AUTO JAM AT CROSSING

Wednesday morning furnished considerable excitement in the square for a few minutes, when over a hundred automobiles and trucks were held up at the railroad crossing. An outward train made a longer stop than usual at the station. As the gates were lowered for it to start up, an inward train rang in at the gate tenders' shanty. The train at the station continued to stop, and as the express was due, the gatemen dared not raise the gates, especially as the automobiles were jammed in great numbers at all points.

By the time the train from the station had passed over the crossing, cars were lined up on both sides of the crossing the situation was about as bad.

With the raising of the gates the railroad tracks were instantly covered with cars, and as the inward express rang in, it looked as though an accident might be expected. It was impossible to clear the tracks, cars behind jamming in so close that the mass on the tracks could neither back up or go ahead. The streets were finally cleared except for the cars coming down Main street, one truck stopped on the crossing furnishing quite a thrill by trying to go ahead and then back up, in front of the express. The express ran through very slow, and this undoubtedly was the most fortunate feature in the mix-up.

LUNCHEONS FOR TEACHERS

Two luncheons were given in town on Tuesday noon by the Winchester Mothers' Association for the teachers in the public schools. One luncheon was given at the residence of Mrs. Raymond Merrill in Rangleway, this for the teachers of the High School, and the other in the beautiful garden of Mrs. Harrison Parker on Main street. In all, close to 80 members of the teaching staff attended, invitations having been extended to every teacher in town.

The High School affair was in charge of Mrs. Merrill, who was assisted by Mrs. Joseph T. Clark, Mrs. Charles Case and Mrs. Alfred S. Higgins. Tainty tables, spread in the living and dining rooms, were features of the entertainment. At Mrs. Parker's estate the spacious barn was used in an attractive way and the guests enjoyed an hour in the beautiful garden. The ladies in charge of this luncheon included Mrs. William P. DeCamp, Mrs. Charles Bryan, Mrs. Herbert May, Mrs. William Hickey, Mrs. Marcus B. May, Mrs. Lorenzo M. Crowell and Mrs. A. Ollie Weld. Much of the success of the two social events was due to the supervision of Mrs. John Powers, president of the Mothers' Association. It has been the custom of the association to entertain the new teachers at the opening of the school year, but it has been felt that this social should embrace all of the staff and the success this week of the innovation has been very gratifying to the ladies interested.

Mr. Wixon was for seven years principal of Winchester High School previous to his Auburn appointment. He was graduated from Cornell University in 1907, and Columbus in 1915.—[New York World.]

James Dwinell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Dwinell, is recovering from a bad kick by a horse, received last week during the closing festivities at White Mountain Camp, Casco, Me. A horse show was in progress at the time, one of the animals getting out of control of its rider. James was kicked in the back before he was aware of the situation or had time to get out of the way. He was unconscious for three hours, but was able to return home at the close of camp and is rapidly recovering from the effects of the blow.

A peculiar accident occurred Monday evening on Main street, near Central Square, Woburn. A wheel dropping from the machine of Leon W. Richards of 45 Irving street, this town while going south on Main street, caused Robert Sullivan of North Woburn to turn out to avoid the wheel, which was bounding across the street. The wheel struck the Ford car, causing the front trucks of the Ford to swerve. The Ford was slightly damaged.

It is reported that Mr. Henry Chapman, graduate of the High School last spring, who was stricken with infantile paralysis early in the summer, is considerably improved. When stricken he was completely paralyzed, but he is now able to use his arms and is much better in the upper part of his body. Hopes are held that this improvement will continue, and it is expected that he will be able to sit up within a short time.

WINCHESTER 2—STONEHAM 0

Allowing them only one hit, Joe Mathews shut out Stoneham 2 to 0. Winchester Field last Saturday. Pitching a superior brand of ball and getting air tight support, Mathews had the Stoneham men at his mercy, only one man reaching first base and not until the eighth inning did this happen. Such a game of baseball has not been seen on Manchester Field for a long time and the big crowd on the side lines certainly got more than their money's worth.

Winchester a Stoneham man hit the ball there was one of the Legion boys under it or in front of it and it was one, two, three for the Stoneham club the whole game.

Martin for Stoneham pitched no mean game, but hits by Gorman, Gray and Ryan in the seventh did the trick for "Crab" later, when scored the other two boys ahead of him. Gorman shone at the bat with three hits out of three times up.

WAKEFIELD 9—WINCHESTER 4

Two errors and some listless playing cost the Legion boys the game on Labor Day morning at Wakefield Common. Wright, twirling for Winchester was hit freely the first five innings which combined with his wildness and the team's errors gave Wakefield a lead which was hard to overcome. Winchester staged a rally in the second inning when two bases on balls and three hits netted them three runs. Three more hits in the eighth brought in one run. Lane relieved Wright in the sixth and held Wakefield for the rest of the game. The feature of the game was the umpiring behind the plate.

WINCHESTER 5—WAKEFIELD 1

On Labor Day afternoon at Manchester Field an extra large crowd saw an extra good game when Winchester evened up the "World Series" by defeating Wakefield 5 to 1. Lorenzan's home run in the fourth inning was the only scoring in which Wakefield participated. In the fifth inning Hatch, Ernie and Joe Mathews led Ryan all singled, scoring two runs for Winchester. In the seventh inning hits by Ryan, Sullivan and Kendrick brought the tally to three. Again in the eighth Gorman was passed, stole second and third. Gray got on by a fielder's choice and both came home on Joe Mathews line drive.

It was a grand exhibition of baseball and the record crowd of the year was on hand to witness it. Tomorrow the third and deciding game will be played on Manchester Field. Wakefield with "Chick" Meehan, "Len" Weafer, Walter Lorenzan the ex-Red Sox star and Arthur in the field will present a strong lineup. Winchester will have their usual lineup, so the fans may bank on seeing another sizzling good game. Come early and get in the shade.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

The true value of anything lies, not in the object itself or in its legal possessions, but in our attitude toward it.
To keep your health and to do your work? That is life.
The things that haven't been done before, those are the things to try.

Many are the human struggles in which you can find no aid, but if you cannot help, at least you may not hinder.

Men too often act as life were nothing more than hardships to be endured and difficulties to be overcome.

From observations at the railroad crossing in the center, the Star is convinced that steps should be taken at once to keep the jam of automobiles off the railroad tracks. When one line of crossing is opened, the other is at once filled with cars. Following the passage of a train, the congestion on the tracks is alarming, and in numerous instances they are hardly cleared in time to allow the passage of the next train. It is impossible for one traffic officer on the east side of the tracks to handle the traffic and keep back the cars which are held up, and an added danger is the crowding over the foot crossings of the cars held up. Either large signs should be hung in front of the crossing warning cars not to run on the tracks until they receive the signal for an open road, or else additional officers should be placed in the centre during an hour or so in the morning and through the rush hours in the evening.

A particularly bad feature during the daytime hours in the center is the sliding up of cars, which are signaled to stop. This is especially noticeable on Main street at Hovey's drug store;
a very busy crossing. Persons waiting to cross the street here will have the right of way, but trucks and cars will roll slowly forward until the crossing is covered, and then when they are given the right to proceed, the pedestrian has no chance to cross.

A small dog, barking loudly, chased madly after a passing express train up a country railroad station platform.

"What makes him run after it?"
asked a traveler of the railroad agent, owner of the dog.

"I dunno," answered the agent, thoughtfully. "But that never bother me so much as what will he do with it if he ever catches it."
There are many communities which talk loudly about the need of good roads, the value of good roads, the use of good roads. They talk themselves into a bond issue, or a road tax, and build, one, two, ten miles of good roads. Too often those miles never begin anywhere, nor end anywhere; do not connect with any good road at either end. Travelers wonder what they will do with their good roads now they have caught them.

There is no magic in a few miles of paved highways. The farmer who must haul produce through mud to get to a paved highway, and over ruts and stones after leaving it to get to market, experiences no real economy.
The economy and benefit of improved highways comes when they are improved for all their length. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.
A regiment is no faster than its slowest soldier. A road, for economy of horse flesh or motor capacity, has no more economical than its worst mile.

FRANKFORT HOME OF JEWISH MUSEUM

Frankfort sausage, probably is the reaction of the average American to the report that the home of the five famous Frankforters is to be a museum. Frankfort-on-the-Main in Germany, the town from which hailed the famous banking family of Rothschild, is to turn the old home place of that family into a museum of Jewish antiquities.

It is upon the financial strength of Frankfort that its important commercial standing among the cities of the European Continent rests, rather than upon its manufactures, and other industries, though it has these in abundance. Since the days of old Mayer Anselm, the first of the Roth-schilds who won fame as a financier and sent out his five sons to corner the money markets of other European countries, Frankfort has been the home of some of the strongest moneyed institutions in the world, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its Washington, D. C., headquarters.

Old Ford of the Franks Frankfort, now the size of Milwaukee, Wis., or Washington, D. C., was the old Trajectum Francorum or "Ford of the Franks" of early Roman days which Charlemagne selected as the place for the convocation of bishops and nobles. Its position in a fertile and picturesque plain surrounded by mountains has been one of the chief factors contributing to its long career of almost uninterrupted prosperity.

During the days of Mayer Anselm, Frankfort, like most European cities had a Jewish quarter known as the Judengasse, the gates of which were closed at night to prevent the inhabitants from going out of their portion of the city until morning. Those gates were torn down during the French occupation of the city during 1806. By degrees almost all the old houses in the Ghetto have been torn down, with the exception of number 148 in the street now known as the Bornstrasse, the ancestral home of the Rothschilds, which has been restored to its former condition. This is the building which is to house the valuable collection of antiquities representing all periods of Jewish history from the Diaspora, or the dispersion of the Jews after the Babylonian captivity.

A Safe Deposit Vault of History
Many a famous man has left a heritage of history and romance to the city. Charlemagne built one of his favorite palaces there; in the thirteenth century the city became one of the notable free cities of the continent and so remained until 1856 when after having sided with Austria in the war with Germany, it was formally incorporated in the Prussian State.

From the days of Frederick Barbarossa, who was the first reigning German king to be chosen in the city, it became customary to elect the German rulers there, and in 1356 Charles IV made this custom a right. The Golden Bull, in which the provision was made, is still in the Archives of the Romer or City Hall, where it may be seen today almost in its original state of preservation.

No other native of Frankfort holds as high a place perhaps in the hearts of so many people as Goethe. At number 23, Grosser Hirschgraben, stands the Goethe House, where the poet spent his boyhood. It has been carefully preserved and on the front has been placed the following inscription: "Johann Wolfgang Goethe was born in this house 28th August, 1749."

Luther's Famous Motto

A short distance from the Goethe house stands a house in which resided for a time a man who left the firm impression of his personality on the German mind. Martin Luther's picture hangs in the house and the inscription marking the place and the description of the man and in confidence shall be your strength.

Napoleon defended the city and made it the capital of a grand-duchy, but upon his downfall it regained its independence.
A statue of Schiller stands at the beginning of the Zeil, the principal business street of Frankfort. The city is properly divided into the old city and the new section. The former, which is made up mainly of narrow streets, centers about the Romberg, or market place, from which the Jews were for a long time barred. The fashionable quarter of the city is the West End.

Fairy Palaces.

Do you know what fairy palaces you can build of beautiful thoughts, proof against all adversity? Bright fancies, satisfied memories, noble histories, faithful sayings, treasure houses of precious and useful thoughts, which can be carried about in a painless glimpse of houses built without hands for our souls to live in.—Ruskin.

Stagnant Spots in Ocean.

The Sargasso sea is almost the oceanic center of the whirl of the ocean currents in the north Atlantic. The seaweed comes from distant shores, where it has been wrenched off by the force of the currents. There are four other great weed-hampered areas of

GOETENBURG: A SYSTEM AND A CITY

Gothenburg's celebration of the 300th anniversary of its founding is a reminder of a name which is better known by its application to a system than to a city, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society's Washington, D. C., headquarters.

The system in question is the ingenious device first adopted in that city in 1845 to curtail the excessive consumption of alcoholic liquors.

Spirits were made a public utility and their sale regulated by the formation of a municipal company which was granted a monopoly for their sale and the manner of such sale clearly defined.

Profit Limit 5 Per Cent

All sellers, employed by the company, were allowed a profit of only 5 per cent on liquor business, whereas they had also to sell in the same establishment soft drinks and food upon which they might reap all the earnings they could.

The city's profit over the 5 per cent was devoted to counteracting alcoholic consumption by provision of other amusements, such as parks, lectures, sports and games, and even free excursions.

The plan worked so well in Gothenburg that it was adopted in Stockholm, then over the greater part of Sweden, and it has been widely applied, with modification, in Norway and Finland.
One experiment with it in South Carolina, where it was called the dispensary system, was less fortunate.

Founded by Famous General

Gothenburg has many claims to fame in its own right beginning with its founding by Gustavus Adolphus.

According to the legend, memorialized in a famous statue in Gothenburg's central square, that famous general was standing on a hill which the city now overruns when a bird pursued by an eagle dropped at his feet. "Here the town shall be built,"
he is reputed to have said.

This statue is the second one made at Munich from a design by Fogelberg. The first was lost at sea and salvaged by Helgoland sailors who held the ransom too high. So the original now is at Bremen.

Gothenburg bears more tangible evidence of the facts of its founding is its many canals. History scorns the pretty tale for the more matter of fact statement that Dutch financiers of Gustavus pointed out to him the commercial possibilities of the site and he entrusted to them the laying out of the new port.

Canal Enters Central Square

The Dutch modeled it after their own towns, canals and all. Though many of the waterways have been filled in an important one still enters the great central square and gives an unusual and picturesque touch to the city center.

Gothenburg is as fortunate as Washington, D. C., in having within its limit a beautiful natural park, the one of the finest in Europe, and another charming touch is added by the old

Chief Port and Second City

The chief port and second city in Sweden, Gothenburg has a fleet that sails to all parts of the commercial world. Its population was only 26,000 in 1840; today it has nearly 250,000 people. Napoleon caused its first business boom when he chose it to be a transfer and storage point for shipments from England to the continent.
England's industrial revolution gave it a second impetus by providing a customer for its raw material exports, principally ores and timber.

The Gothenburg, or Gota, canal is not one within the city but a famous trans-Sweden route between Gothenburg and Stockholm. The route is misnamed, for only 56 of its 240 miles is canalized, the rest of the journey lies across Sweden's beautiful lakes. It has been said that, as an engineering achievement, this waterway through Sweden compares with the building of the Suez Canal. In traversing it the passenger steamers ascend more than 300 feet above sea-level, through electrically operated locks, past ruins of ancient castles and one of the largest electric power stations in the world.

One of the most exciting occupations is that in which new-boats engage when a coin drops through a grating in the sidewalk. A long stick canalized first. Someone provides a end of a string, which is stuck on the end of the stick. Then one of the boys guides the gum to the coin and draws it forth, while the rest of the gang coaches and criticizes.—Ex-

Oldest Known Will.

A will executed in 2548 B. C. is the oldest extant. It is written on papyrus by an Egyptian named Ush. In it he gave his home and other property to his wife, to be left to his children,
and he entrusted to them the lay-

Money Not Everything.

When I hear a man saying that he is in business only for the money he can make and not for the favors he can render, I think of what some wise man said one time: "If a pig could pray he would devote his entire prayer to corn and swill, but men should pray for other sorts of things."
—Tom Dreier in Forbes.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

He plans to go to Philadelphia, where he will go in business with his father-in-law.

Two alarms of fire yesterday afternoon a few minutes after four o'clock gave the firemen runs to the north and south ends of the town. A telephone alarm was rung in at 4:05 and almost immediately an alarm from box 64 was pulled. The first fire was for a Ford truck on Main street at the end of Highland avenue, which forbids more than two engines being served at dinner or supper, except on certain holidays. Needless to say, the law is broken with impunity.

Effect of Vines on Walls.

Stone and brick buildings are not injured by clinging vines. These may keep the building cool somewhat later in the spring, but are otherwise harmless. On wooden buildings damage may be done, since many vines which climb by twining force their way through any joint which is not perfect and then by continued growth force the woodwork apart.

Ignore Supper Law.

One of the ridiculous acts of parliament still in existence in England is that passed in the reign of Edward III, regulating the meals of the people, which forbids more than two courses being served at dinner or supper, except on certain holidays. Needless to say, the law is broken with impunity.

The Century Plant.

The report that a century plant blooms only once in a hundred years is probably due to the importance of some of its admirers. In some parts of South America where it grows wild it blooms once in eight years, but when it has been transplanted into greenhouses under artificial conditions its blooming time is much prolonged.

Mistaken Identity.

A young millionaire showed a black eye to a beautiful lion star, and said, reproachfully: "Why did you knock me down when I kissed you in the dark conservatory?" "Pardon me, dear one," the beautiful star explained, "I thought it was my husband."

Public School Children Who Won Contest

A prize story contest was held this summer in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades in the public schools. The names of the 12 winners were printed in the Star of June 15. This paper now gives to its readers the stories themselves. They are published weekly until all 12 have been printed.

THE ADVENTURES OF YAP YUR

Second Honorable Mention for Grade 7 in Public School Prize Story Contest

His father was a noted hen thief, a great honor among foxes. His mother was dead. He was continually getting in trouble because of his "yap, yap, yap." Everything he saw that he suspected, or was curious about he would sit up, let his head hang down on one side and bark, "Yap, yap." This is where he got his name.

He was now going to school and learning fast. His father was the teacher and he was the only pupil. At first his father had brought him only dead game. This he would tear to pieces and eat in great mouthfuls. Later he had had live mice and chickens brought him. These he would play with, letting them get away, and then pouncing on them.

He was now learning to tell things by their smell and thought he knew everything about it. One day his father took him to a large black thing near the farmhouse, farther than he had ever been before. He sniffed at it, then turned about and ran a short distance. Then he sat up, cocked his head on one side and barked. Yap, Yur, what is it, father?

"It is man smell." "It is horrible." His father then took him still nearer the house. Suddenly a dog dashed out of the yard. The young fox dashed off with the dog behind him. He could get out of that dog he knew. It was fast, getting dark. If he could only keep away until then. He was so tired that he could not wait until dark. Straight to the sheep pen he ran and jumped on a sheep's back. The sheep ran across the pen. He was of course very frightened. At the other side of the pen Yap Yur jumped off. Of course the dog could not find his father. Discouraged he returned to his supper.

Yap Yur sat up, cocked his head on one side, and listened. He heard a faint "yap yap." It was his father. He trotted off in the direction of the sound. Presently he met his father carrying a nice fat chicken. And so he learned another trick.

Tom and Dan were two boys that lived at the farmhouse. Tom was 14 and Dan was two years younger.

It was now winter and the snow was deep in some places. There was a hard crust on top that would hold even the two boys. They had dug down and made a large snow house in which they had great fun, but as the weather grew warm they had considered it unsafe as the roof might fall in.

Yap Yur had spent a hard winter and had found very little to eat.

At last, starving hungry, he had decided to try and steal a chicken at the farm house. He knew they were cooped up tight, but he thought there might be a hole. He did not find a hole, but the door was partly open as careless Dan had left it. He stole in and got a chicken. He was so hungry he ate it right where he was.

He had hardly finished it when the dog rushed out. Away went Yap Yur, the dog after him. Straight for the river they raced. With the coming of spring the ice had begun to melt and was floating down the river in huge chunks to be dashed to pieces over the falls. Yap Yur chose a place just above the falls and dashed across, jumping from one cake to another. Just as he jumped off one cake, the dog jumped on. Before he had time to get off, the cake of ice went over the falls.

Yap Yur was very tired and uncomfortable, because he had not had time to rest after eating his chicken. He trotted home slowly and went to sleep.

The next day he was curious to know what had happened to the dog. After eating his breakfast, the greater part of which he had to imagine, he trotted off.

On the way Yap Yur had to pass over the snow house of Dan and Tom. With the warm weather the roof of the snow house had grown very thin and even the light shown through in places.

As he neared the place, chills seemed to run all through him. His instinct told him to "look out." When he had reached the very edge, he stopped. His instinct seemed to cry out and his ears rang with the sound. "Danger! Don't go there! Don't! Don't!"

He could not hear, the common sense said, "It must be all right." He started across. Just as he got part way, he began to feel a sinking sensation.

Then suddenly he went through. All that night and the next day he stayed there, occasionally barking, a faint "yap yap."

The next night he layed there cold and stiff.

HAMBURG: GERMANY'S PORT WHICH HAS COME BACK

Though Hamburg, the fourth commercial city of the world before the war, has been doing more shipping in the first five months of 1923 than it did in the same period of 1913, to the average American woman's mind, the name of the city suggests just one thing—the trimming on her grandmother's stiff cambric petticoats, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its Washington, D. C., headquarters.

Hamburg has always been a jealous rival of New York, London, and Liverpool, the three other great commercial cities at whose ports more vessels dock than visit the German harbor. During 1921 nearly 20,000 ships representing a tonnage of 20,000,000 and flying flags from all over the earth, entered the Hamburg harbor as against a net tonnage of 32,000,000 for New York harbor during the same period. Hamburg and Bremen have the honor of being the chief gates of intercourse between Germany and the United Kingdom and the United States.

Is a River Port

Unlike most of the other great commercial cities of the world, Hamburg does not lie within a stone's throw of the ocean. About 90 miles from its mouth in the North Sea, where a tributary of the Elbe, the Alster, has been dammed to form two lakes, Hamburg has been built, its earliest beginnings having been a castle of Charlemagne which stood on the spot in 811. Its harbor is broad and deep enough for the largest vessels. The docks are among the finest in the world, and will accommodate 150 ships at one time.

Most of the German railroads ultimately lead to the city and numerous canals having their traffic to its ports. Hamburg has a very interesting, if dirty, old district along these canals where the poor of the city live in dark houses and damp cellars. When the tide is out these canals become empty and the women and children of the district immediately run out and wade about in their muddy bottoms to look after articles which may have been dropped overboard by the boats. Three cannon shots are sounded when the tide begins to turn to tell the scavengers that soon the waters will come rushing into the canals.

Old Customs and Costumes Cling

The State and Free City of Hamburg, comprising 168 square miles, is a republic, its constitution bearing the date of January 7, 1921. In 1920, its population of 1,091,074, more than a million of whom live in the city proper, made it the most densely populated of all the German States. Its average of more than 6,000 persons to a square mile, gave it more than twice the density of the State of Bremen, the next in order, and nearly 6 times the density of Lubek, the third in order. The public debt of the city at the end of 1920 was nearly three billion marks, spent chiefly for public works.

Hamburg street and market places are typical of those of many German towns. In the markets women may be seen wearing yokes on their shoulders from which hang big wooden buckets filled with milk. A few of them still cling to their wooden shoes and bright colored costumes. And some of them still hitch themselves to their vegetable and milk carts and draw the loads through the city streets.

Mr. Herbert Wadsworth moved his real estate office, maintained for a number of years in the Lane Building, to his new quarters on Mt. Vernon street in Lyceum building. He takes the office adjoining the Edison Company formerly occupied by S. B. Giddard & Son.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

A GAS BILL, containing only the meter readings and the total of the amount due, doesn't tell half the story of service rendered. One of our customers suggested the other day that his bill for last month should have mentioned the following items:

- "To carrying out ashes for one month."
- "To carrying in coal and kindling for one month."
- "To curtain washing, cleaning of woodwork and upholstery for one month."
- "To eliminating several thousand useless steps in the kitchen."
- "To saving baby's life when she became suddenly ill in the night and it was necessary to heat water quickly."
- "To all services rendered as above, $2.00."

If it were possible for this company to render individual bills, based on definite services performed, we would be the most popular company in the world.

Last Sunday witnessed the annual visitation of thousands of persons of the Jewish faith to their cemeteries at the northern end of the town in East Woburn. The congestion of former years was hardly noticeable this week, due largely to the plan put into effect by Sgt. McCauley of the police department of making Washington street a one way thoroughfare. Although many of the visitors came by automobile, the electric car lines ran extra cars throughout the day. There were no accidents this year, the only incidents being the loss of one boy (who was found later) and the loss of over $50 by a man who had his pockets picked.

An important development was started this week at the corner of Park and Highland avenues. The new owners of this property plan the erection of six duplex or two-family houses, the first to be built being the one at the corner of the streets. The plan for this house has been filed with the Inspector of Buildings and calls for a very attractive single house with a frontage of 35 feet and 45 feet in depth. There has been considerable speculation regarding the grade of houses to be erected at this place, and if the remaining plans are in keeping with the one now ready, the development will be an asset to the neighborhood.

MANY SIGN PETITION

Names Still Coming In For Clean-up of River

The survey of the petition out for cleaning up of the Aberjona River shows that many names are continuing to be signed by interested residents. The list of names is growing. The list now includes many residents from other places through which the water flows, one paper having 22 Medford names. The list of names from Medford, however, names are noted. Over 70 members of the Medford Boat Club have signed the petition and club members are being asked to circulate petition there. A copy requested by members of the Winchester Boat Club is said to contain 24 names. The town's special committee, given no assurance that it does not consider the petition, in its letter this week sent the town's special committee, gives no assurance that it does not consider the petition. At this time, the originators of the petition feel that the vast number who have signed their dissatisfaction with the river and their desire for consideration and action and they are therefore still holding the petition open.

In fact, it is thought that the letter from the Board of Health will mean an immediate increase in the number of signatures of the petition, for it is a recognized fact that if the river is cleaned up, it will continue to grow worse and it will be many years before anything will be done to clean it up. The School Committee has been meeting every night this week in its work of selecting a new superintendent. It is reported that the number of applicants has been sifted down to eight. No selection is expected for several days. Mr. John R. Fausey, acting superintendent, has agreed to remain with the town until Nov. 1.

The following petition is being circulated about town in an endeavor to have the Aberjona River, now little better than an open sewer, purified. It is the desire to secure the signature of every man and woman in town who is interested in cleaning up this nuisance.

If you are interested, sign the following petition, cut it out and mail it to the STAR.

Respectfully represent the undersigned residents of Winchester, that the Aberjona River is a natural water course running through the town, the shores of which are owned in part by the town and in part by various individuals.

That drainage, sewerage, filth, chemicals, and various other fluids and substances which are offensive to the public health have been and are now being discharged into the said river and its tributaries in the different towns through which they flow so that the waters of said river have become offensive, unfit for their natural uses, dangerous to health and a nuisance.

Wherefore your petitioners respectfully pray that your board will conduct an investigation of the sanitary conditions of said Aberjona River and its tributaries within and without the town of Winchester, examine into all nuisances, sources of filth, pollution or contamination thereof which affect the same or which are or may be dangerous to the public health and destroy, remove or prevent the same and make regulations for the public health and safety relative thereto.

WINCHESTER MARINES ON MANOEUVERS

Washington, Sept. 14—Marching through the hills of Virginia with the East Coast Expeditionary Force of the U. S. Marine Corps, more than 50 marines from Massachusetts, two of whom are from Winchester, are now taking part in a series of maneuvers, which began Aug. 27 and will not be concluded until Oct. 7, when the force returns to its base at Quantico, Va., near here.

Many unusual features are being carried out in connection with the maneuvers, including visits to the Civil War battlefields at Manassas, Winchester and New Market.

The marines are following a circuitous trail to Washington, through the Shenandoah Valley, and will return over a northern route by way of Winchester, the entire journey being over 300 miles. They will reach Washington about Oct. 6, where a football game and a great military spectacle is scheduled to take place before the force returns to Quantico.

Winchester marines who are taking part in the maneuvers are Roland A. Hammond, son of David Hammond, of 27 Hemmaway street, with the City Company, Engineers, and Louis F. Grandel, son of Mrs. Ruth Trott of this town. The latter is with the Force Train Company. Both enlisted in the marine corps at Boston.

A NEW OIL HEATER

Winchester people who are interested in, and who are turning to oil heaters for their furnaces and boilers, will doubtless be further interested to learn that the firm of Kimball & Earl has come out with a heater which appears most attractive. This firm has gained an enviable reputation in this town for the excellence of its work in automobile repairs, and the fact that it is back of the new oil heater is a recommendation in itself, although the oil heater, rather than being new, is put out by one of the oldest makers in the field.

The heater is simple in installation and produces three times the heat at one-third saving in coal. It runs with no attention, has no odor, no smoke, no carbon, no electric motors and no gas pilots. It is sold at a remarkably reasonable price.

Kimball & Earl are now making delivery of the heater and have already placed a number in service about town. They will be glad to give a demonstration. See their ads.

"THE CAT AND THE CANARY"

Exciting Play at the Plymouth Theatre

Nothing in the way of drama has been presented in recent years, if at any time, that could equal "The Cat and the Canary," now being played at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, for intensity of interest and excitement. It is the kind of a play that everyone with good red blood in his veins will enjoy. The story is full of action that keeps one's interest fixed from start to the finish. There are plenty of thrills in the piece. In fact, for every thrill you get there is a laugh to follow it. The plot of the play revolves about the fulfillment of the conditions of an eccentric millionaire's will. This document provides that his heirs must assemble at midnight on the anniversary of his death in the house where he died and hear the will read. Obedient to his desires, the surviving relatives are on hand at the appointed time. The strange happenings begin at 11:30 p. m. and keep up until an hour after midnight. During this time a man disappears mysteriously while talking to the heiress to the estate. A necklace of great value is snatched from the neck of a sleeping girl in a room where every door and window is locked, and then follow strange knockings on the walls, sounds of gongs and other uncanny happenings. A more absorbing plot would be hard to imagine. That the Boston people like the play is evident from the large audiences it is drawing nightly at the Plymouth. Front row indications the Christmas holidays will still see this play in the Hub.

"I'LL SAY SHE IS"

Musical Comedy Revue a Sensation at the Shubert Theatre

The four Marx brothers, stars of "I'll Say She Is," which is presented at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, for a limited engagement come by their talent honestly. The Marx brothers represent the third generation of a family of show folks. Long before the Franco-Prussian war their maternal grandfather was famous in the Bohemian Valley as a strolling musician and neocromancer. Their mother, professionally known as Minnie Palmer, 25 years ago, was prominent in vaudeville and musical comedy.

It is fifteen years since the Marx quartet first presented one of those nondescript variety specialties technically known to the trade as a "school act." Crude as it was, the act formed the groundwork for their later efforts. After several years in minor vaudeville the boys were recognized by heads of the more important variety circuits as being fit material for their glorified establishments. Since then they have been recognized as among the ten most important headliners in American vaudeville. They are supported by a brilliant company of comedians, dancers, and girls of startling beauty, all in a gorgeous production as to scenes and costumes.

Mrs. Charles E. Moore, who with her two little daughters Janet and Margery, has spent the summer with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Etheridge of Lloyd street, has returned to her home in Roanoke, Va. Mrs. Etheridge accompanied her as far as New York.

"SALLY, IRENE AND MARY"

The joyous musical comedy of youth, "Sally, Irene and Mary," under the direction of the Messrs. Shubert at the Wilbur Theatre, Boston, is the biggest musical comedy hit in years. It has a brilliant cast which includes Eddie Dowling in the stellar role, Jessie Ingham, Louise Brown, Kitty Flynn, Marquerite Zander, Maude Odell, Clara Palmer and a charming collection of tantalizing toe-tapping versapachoreans and the famous Casino Beauty Ballet. The story of "Sally, Irene and Mary" is as follows: Three little girls, Sally, Irene and Mary, live in one of New York's East Side tenement districts. The leader of their gang is little Jimmy Dugan, son of Mrs. Dugan, general caretaker of the tenements. To Jimmy there is no girl in the world like Mary O'Brien. Into this district there happens to stroll a playwright and a theatrical manager. They see the three little girls dancing to the music of a hand organ, and the manager, impressed by their ability, wagers with the playwright that he can develop these girls into theatrical stars. The playwright agrees to write plays for them if the manager is successful in the experiment. When the proposition is placed before the children they are agreeable. Jimmy Dugan begs Mary not to go, and when she does she leaves him broken-hearted. Four years elapse. Jimmy Dugan, now a successful plumber and head of the Dugan Democratic Club, has never heard what has become of Sally, Irene and Mary. When he learns that they are stars on Broadway, he seeks Mary out. Dazzled by her magnificence, he attempts to improve himself in order to be worthy of her, but when he sees his rich young rival putting a ring on Mary's finger, accepts defeat and returns to the East Side with his political friends, who have come to notify him that he has been nominated for alderman. Jimmy thinks he has lost Mary forever, but she comes to him and explains that the ring was a prize which she had won in a popularity contest. It takes him time to get married along with Sally, Irene and their fiancés.

RAISES VALUATIONS 100 P. C.

Increase in land values from 15 to 100 per cent in a single year, the latter increases being due largely to passage of a zoning ordinance, is the experience of Evanston, Ill., that will be of significance to members of the National Association of Real Estate Boards wherever this plan for conservation of property values is under discussion. George C. Olcott of Chicago, author of the Land Values Blue Book, is authority for the estimate of valuation raises in Evanston and their cause. Oak Park is another locality in the environs of Chicago to instance the measurable value of zoning. Mr. Olcott's estimate puts a rise in residential property during the year at from 10 to 25 per cent, apartment districts from 25 to 50 per cent, business streets 25 to 75 per cent, due largely to zoning regulations. [Boston Herald.]

Mrs. Florence Smith of 13 Stone avenue is reported to have sold her property to Miss Mary Butler and Mrs. Katherine McDonald.

had his house painted. We may take our choice of "gas," but evidently our favorite beverage is decided for us.

So the "turbulent" waters of the Aberjona are responsible for the scum on its surface and the colors of its water!
It is reported that the registration at the Wyman School, greatly increased this year over last, is so large at the present time that it will fill every room in the new Wyman School now nearing completion.

It is interesting to note, that while the State Health Board fails to find ground for regarding the Aberjona River as a nuisance as it flows through Winchester, it says: "The investigation has shown serious pollution of the stream in some places . . . but as the conditions at these places affect only the citizens of Woburn, they can be dealt with more effectively and expeditiously by the Woburn authorities in case the authorities find action necessary," etc. This is the first time we ever knew we could cut our cess-pool flow over our neighbor's lawn.

The Star prints an anonymous letter in this issue which it hopes every resident of Winchester will read. It is signed "Stranger in a strange, strange land." This communication voices a criticism which we often hear and which we have always had held up before us (in print at least) as a characteristic of the "Hub." It brings to mind a discussion overheard once upon a time along a similar trend of thought between a group of well known people, and the remembrance of one statement which was made therein by a good friend whose value as a citizen is recognized throughout the community. He said: "If you wish friends, you must be friendly. You cannot stand aloof and enjoy the society of your fellow men. You must show a friendly disposition just as much as the other fellow. I find the Winchester people as friendly as any I have ever known, and I always make it a point to be as friendly myself." His philosophy was sound and his remarks impressed his hearers, as he is a man with a host of friends and a most likable personality. The Star may not, of course, apply his philosophy to the stranger who has left us as a criticism of his condition. It knows nothing of the conditions surrounding the writer, or of his efforts to make friends or his attitude of reception of friendly advances, but there is much in the thought expressed, not only for this lonely stranger, but for us all. One should regret that such a sentiment as given may be expressed regarding our town, and may we all realize that no such thought may be presented in the future through any oversight, carelessness or lack of friendly spirit on our part.

Through the courtesy of our local committee, appointed to investigate the pollution of the Aberjona River, the present intoleration condition, the department is "unable to find . . . in the Town of Winchester or other objectional conditions." It further states that "there appears to be no reasonable ground for action at the present time by the Department under existing laws." The present condition remains! We appear in the crystal stream! No one smells anything rotten! All is serene. The Board further states "It is, of course, possible that the condition of the stream may grow worse, and become such that action may be called under the acts of 1911." In other words—hold the patient under observation. There you have it. The water is fit for swimming! The color of the water may not be exactly as it should be, but it's color only. Woburn residents can find no odor, why should we? Fish die in it, but why pity the "poor fish?" The Star wonders if the investigators interviewed the farmer's wife who found that the odor of the water "wakes you up at night." It wagers that the same investigators never took a drink of the water. It looks as though the poor river has been very badly treated. Meanwhile about 1500 people living in Winchester, Medford and Somerville, holding different thoughts regarding the river, have signed the petition asking relief from the present intoleration condition. Sewers appear the only recommended remedy to restore the natural color of the water. Filtration beds apparently are not needed! Look the river over. The Star would be glad of your opinion.

FROM A STRANGER

Sent, 11, 1923

To the Editor of the Star:

Through you, may I address the people of Winchester in general? Thank you. Winchester would be an ideal town, were it not for the attitude of its people. Is it possible that "once a stranger, always a stranger," is the only welcome that the townsfolk have to extend to the stranger?
Dear people, I have spent a short period in your town. The most lonely period of my entire existence, and today I leave. And in the name of all strangers who come after me, I ask your friendship for the "Stranger in a strange, strange land."

EXCELSIOR!

ON August 29 Edison Service, climbing steadily up the grade of progress with its community, reached a new level.

On that date the load connected to the Edison system equalled 500,000 kilowatts, or 671,000 horsepower.

Five hundred thousand kilowatts would light ten 50 candle-power lamps (bulbs) in each of one million homes.

Or, 500,000 kilowatts would light a continuous line of such lamps set twenty inches apart on every street in the territory served by Edison Light.

Or, 500,000 kilowatts would light a continuous line of such lamps, eighteen inches apart, from Boston to San Francisco.

TIME flies. A community like ours is on the march. In January, 1895, there was a great celebration in Edison Service because it had reached a record of connected load equal to 100,000 lamps of 16 candle-power each.

Today the 500,000 kilowatts will light ten million lamps of 50 candle-power each.

There's a thrill, of course, but no undue elation. For in the years between we have learned that Edison Service grows not only by, and for, but especially with its community.

STATE HEALTH BOARD FINDS NO CAUSE FOR ACTION ON THE ABERJONA

The State Department of Health has worked on the question of the last four months, through its own men, visiting all parts of the river, making tests and analyses in large numbers in order to locate sources of pollution and to determine the degree of pollution present in Winchester.

The findings of the Aberjona Committee on sources of pollution are confirmed. The decision has turned on the degree of pollution shown in the river at present. The discoloration of the water, it may be said, is traced by State investigators to salts of iron coming from a chemical plant and from the waste of a gelatine factory.

The State Health Department fails to find in the river here at this time, substances injurious to public health or odors such as give rise to a nuisance. It has thereupon issued its ruling to Winchester and based its warning to Wolburn.

This, for the present, must cause a waiting policy on the part of the Aberjona Committee, which there is one possible method of defense arising out of the decision of the Health Board, and accordingly yet to be laid before the State authorities. This we shall undertake with thoroughness.

The Health Board's Finding

The full text of the ruling of the Department of Health, Acting at Boston, Aug. 20, and addressed to the Aberjona Committee, reads as follows: "That department, in a communication dated Mar. 1922, advised you that 'as soon as conditions are favorable for a thorough study of the sources of pollution of the river, the coming summer, the Department will undertake a further careful study of the whole question in order to determine what action, if any, can be taken toward preventing the pollution of the stream.'"

The department at that time also urged that some action be taken to secure the construction of a sewer in the upper part of the Aberjona Valley where there has been a considerable increase in manufacturing in recent years, but where no provision has been made thus far for the proper disposal of manufacturing waste.

Since the beginning of the present summer season, the Department has made a thorough study of the Aberjona River in Winchester and Woburn and has examined the sources of pollution in the stream. The results thus far disclosed show that the river is objectionable in the town of Woburn on account of its appearance, the water being badly colored and the stream covered in places with considerable scum. The Department is unable to find, however, that the river causes an objectionable odor in its neighborhood in the town of Winchester, or other objectionable conditions, thus far at least, than as described above.

The question of whether a river which is objectionable in appearance on account of abnormal turbidity or color of its waters, or on account of the presence of scum, but which does not have an offensive odor such as to be seriously noticed in the neighborhood, is probably a nuisance under the meaning of the act, has been submitted by the department to the Attorney General for his opinion. In reply the Attorney General advises in part:

"... the question of whether a public nuisance exists in any situation is a mixed question of law and fact. It is not the duty of the court to determine the question of fact, but the only effect produced on the general public by the acts complained of is such as results from the discoloration of the water and an unpleasant appearance of its surface. I should be of the opinion that such facts did not alone give rise to a public nuisance at the present time."

In view of the results of the investigation of the department and of the opinion of the Attorney General, quoted above, there appears to be no reasonable ground for action at the present time by the department under existing laws. It is, of course, possible, that the condition of the stream may grow worse, and become such that action may be called under the acts of 1911.

The investigation of other parts of the Aberjona River and its tributaries has shown serious pollution of the stream in some places, especially in the city of Woburn, but as the conditions at these places affect only the citizens of Woburn, they can be dealt with more effectively and expeditiously by the Woburn authorities in case the authorities find action necessary for the protection of the public health of that city.

While the conditions are not so objectionable in the opinion of the department as to constitute an infringement of the act of 1911, at the present time it is nevertheless probable that if the pollution continues to increase and a further development of industries takes place in the valley of the Aberjona River, a serious nuisance may result unless proper provision is made for the disposal of sewage and manufacturing wastes, especially in the valley of the main river in the city of Woburn.

Bernard U. Carey,
Dep. Comr. of Public Health

The Warning to Woburn

The communication sent to Mayor Beane of Woburn is as follows: "A copy of a communication of the Department of Public Health to the town of Winchester relative to the present condition of the Aberjona River in that town is being sent you herewith for your information. While the department does not find that the condition of the river in Winchester is such at the present time as to call for action under the law of 1911, it has, nevertheless, found that the river and its tributaries receive much pollution chiefly from manufacturing wastes within the limits of Woburn, especially in the main valley of the Aberjona River in which no sewer has yet been laid.

"In the opinion of the Department, failure to make prompt and adequate provision for the disposal of the sewage and manufacturing wastes in this growing industrial valley may result in the enforcement of the drastic provisions of the law of 1911, and the effect of such enforcement might seriously retard the development of this important industrial district, which lies within the city of Woburn. The department recommends that the city of Woburn take steps without further delay to provide sewerage for this valley."

WHAT CHARLIE SAW AT THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA

First Prize for Grade 6 in Public School Prize Story Contest

Charles and his uncle were at the beach for a few days. Charles was quite fond of fishing. One day he caught one. Charles examined it carefully. "What kind of a fish is this, Uncle?" he asked.

"That looks like a butter fish to me," said his uncle. Charles nodded his head.

"How do they breathe?" he asked. "Through these gills we see here," said his uncle.

Charles was silent. He was thinking of the fish. Slowly his head dropped on his shoulder. Charles was sound asleep. A sharp tap on his arm caused him to spring up in alarm. Where was he? He looked around. A long avenue, paved with pebbles, and sheltered with strange sea wood trees, his head fell on his arm. Another sharp tap fell on his arm. Standing beside him was a crab. "What are you doing here?" he asked. Charles was too frightened to speak.

"Come with me and I will show you something you have never seen before," said the crab. Leading the boy down the street he led at length came to a beautiful castle built of white rocks.

"This is where King Cod lives," said the crab.

Entering the castle Charles beheld a codfish in fine clothes with a crown on his head. Next to him was a silver fish. She was queen. Butterfish courtiers ran here and there waiting on the king. Charles thought he had never seen such a queer place in his life. As Charles was looking around he suddenly heard the words "Run! Run for your life!" Charles immediately ran and hid under some seaweed. But one of his butterfly friends was about as lucky. He was pulled to the top of the water and Charles imagined him put in a boat. He thought he heard someone say, "What a splendid fish!" Suddenly something cold touched him. He was on the sandy beach and the cold touch was the waves which crept up and played over him. Charles told his uncle about his dream and resolved never to catch a fish again.

REICHENBERG: GERMAN CENTER OF BOHEMIA

How the specters of almost forgotten history and heroes infest the barnders of the New Europe is illustrated in the reported withdrawal of some rule from Reichenberg by the Czechoslovakia government, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Reichenberg is the chief German manufacturing town of Bohemia. In respect to political boundaries it lies between two small prongs which thrust into Germany from the new republic of the Czechs, Slovaks and Ruthenians.

Glance at a map of Europe and the Czechs seem to be a racial peninsula, jutting out from Slav stock on the east but completely circled by Germans on the north, west and south.

Early Bohemian kings tolerated German colonizers, sometimes invited them in. However when Bohemia found itself between the Hapsburgs and the Czech element formed a solid core of their state by holding to their land, language and literature. The Magyars of Hungary dominated the Slav element in their midst much more successfully than the Austrian controlled the Czechs.

It is no reflection on the Czech spirit to note that the fertile Bohemia plateau land contributed to this Czech cohesion, and the German fringe begins where natural conditions replace farms by factories and mines.

Reichenberg has the oldest school of weaving in Europe. Meat and malt extracts of the Liebig plant found their way around the commercial world. The city's industrial museum is notable. Its exhibits range from original porcelains and 17th century furniture, French keys and art objects in pewter, copper and brass. It also has a municipal theater.

Manufacture of cloth is the city's principal and oldest industry. It has developed cotton, carpet and linen manufacture, and also has important dye works. Its population of almost 30,000 is preponderantly German, and the strength of the German sentiment was expressed in the refusal of city officials to answer communications in the Czech language. This adherence to their native tongue is the immediate cause of the orders from Prague.

CLAM BAKE THE 12th

The success of the clam bake held last year by the Benedict Club of Park avenue has led to plans being formed to repeat the event this year. Accordingly, on Friday, Oct. 12, the club will hold another "bake" on even a more elaborate scale than that of last year.

This year the event will be open to the public, and tickets will shortly go on sale. The affair will occupy the entire day, with various sports for old and young, and a midway. The "bake" will be held at 1 p. m., with all the "fixins'."

It is the desire of the officials that the public become more generally interested in the club, which represents Winchester in the Old Colony Tennis League. Its best players are at Longwood this week, playing out the singles and doubles championships of the league.

Miss Eleanor E. Herrings, daughter of Judge George G. Herrings, of Sanford, Fla., is visiting her uncle, Andrew E. Heneberger, 43 Myrtle terrace.

WINCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

At a meeting of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening, Sept. 18, there was a strong sentiment expressed of a need of a hearty, energetic, co-operative spirit of progression to do all that is possible for the civic benefit of our town.

It was voted to accept the name of Margaret A. Shireff as a member of the Chamber of Commerce as proposed by George F. Arnold, and also to send Charles E. Kendall to represent the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of Massachusetts Forestry Association Saturday, Sept. 22, 1923, in Room 570, State House, Boston.

Mr. Preston Pond was invited to the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, to tell about the dinner to the unemployed, and it was also voted that the Chamber of Commerce unanimously support the committee appointed by the Town of Winchester to clean up the Aberjona River. There was a discussion of the tree on Church street for its removal before we have an accident that may cost the town a considerable money. It was voted to petition the Selectmen to remove the tree, and by a unanimous vote that the secretary be instructed to act as the Board of Selectmen.

It was voted that the Selectmen be instructed to place a danger sign and a white line on Forest street and that the secretary send this request to the Board of Selectmen.

It was voted to send a request to the School Committee in regard to danger signs at the schools on Mt. Vernon and other streets.

There is a great need of a large and active Chamber of Commerce to help guide and direct the present and future affairs of our beloved town.

The Village Improvement Association of the past did much for our town, the result of which we now enjoy. The Chamber of Commerce Association placed the town of Winchester among the foremost towns of this Commonwealth.

An appeal is hereby made to the voters of our town for your assistance to help in all ways possible to advance the best interests of this town in all possible ways.

There is an abundance of latent ability in town to accomplish great results if we will but make the effort and use our own power.

It is perfectly feasible to have a Chamber of Commerce with a thousand members or more, that would accomplish splendid results for the present and future welfare of our noted town.

This subject matter as to the prosperity of our town is of vital importance to every individual in town and therefore, why not become a member of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce and help yourself by helping the organization?

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, Sept. 25, at White's Hall at 8 o'clock.

George F. Arnold, Pres.
Charles E. Kendall, Vice Pres.

LAST WEEK OF PETITION

Aberjona Request to be Closed Next Friday

Although many people feel that it is useless to sign the petition to the Health Board to clean the Aberjona River, in view of its letter of last week to the town committee, in which it said in substance that the petition had not had enough to receive its attention, there was a distinct increase in the number of signatures during the week past, and those in charge of the petition plan to allow it to stand another week to complete the even month. The petition will be sent to the State Board the first of October.

The letter published in the Star of last week, sent to the local committee appointed by the town to undertake the cleaning of the river is in line with the accomplishments of the State Board in this matter to date, and occasioned no surprise. The petition has been a success in the matter. The only place which is thickly settled where the river flows on its way to Boston is Winchester. It is natural that these old places should not hold the same interest in its condition. But notwithstanding, the petition has been a success in the matter. The only place which is thickly settled where the river flows on its way to Boston is Winchester. It is natural that these old places should not hold the same interest in its condition. But notwithstanding, the petition has been a success in the matter.

Winchester people will, therefore, still have a chance to sign the petition during the coming week.

ELECTROCUTED AT MELROSE

Death of Ernest S. Simonds Shocks Community

Ernest S. Simonds, 20 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Simonds of 4 Bruce road, was electrocuted yesterday afternoon at about 3:30 at Melrose, when he was throwing a switch, he came in contact with a live electric wire.

In company with his father, mother and a lady visitor, Mr. Simonds was showing the guest through the plant. Reaching the point where the ice cream was made he said "Now I will show you how ice cream is made," and he reached up to throw the electric switch. He failed to grasp the handle and his fore arm crossed the points. He cried out, and the shock threw him directly into his father's arms.

A doctor was immediately summoned, and members of the fire department called, who brought a pulmotor. Attempts to resuscitate the young man failed and he was taken to the hospital, where further unsuccessful efforts were continued to bring him back to life.

Mr. Simonds senior, formerly with a well-known automobile company of Boston, purchased an ice cream and confectionery store at 424 Main street, Melrose, early this summer. His son was associated with him in the business.

Ernest Scott Simonds was born in Everett and moved to this town with his parents about four years ago. He attended the Winchester High School and was widely known among the town's young people. Last year he attended Dunbar Academy at South Byfield, and he was in line this year to captain the football team and serve as president of his class. He was 20 years of age in August.

He leaves behind his parents, two sisters, Miss Louise and Miss Estelle Simonds, and one brother, Ronald E. Simonds.

The funeral services will be held at the residence on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be conducted by the Rev. Howard J. Childley of the First Congregational Church. The burial will be in Wildwood cemetery.

THANKS TO WINCHESTER CITIZENS

The Winchester Red Cross has exceeded by more than $200 its quota of $100 for the Japanese Relief Fund, and extends most hearty thanks to the great body of Winchester citizens who so cordially and so quickly responded to their first work.

Americans can take great pride in the splendid organization of their National Red Cross Association. Six hours in the midst of disaster was received in Washington of the Yokohama calamity an American warship had started from the Philippines with relief and supplies, and within a week adequate relief had reached Japan. Never was assistance more quick and complete. Thus instantly from impulse into action to transform a people's heartfelt yearning to lift another's burden is a wonderful accomplishment. The Red Cross stands in a place alone among the actually invaluable organizations on this earth.

Do You Want the River Purified?

The following petition is being circulated about town in an endeavor to have the Aberjona River, now little better than an open sewer, purified. It is the desire to secure the signature of every man and woman in town who is interested in cleaning up this nuisance.

If you are interested, sign the following petition, cut it out and mail it to the STAR.

TO THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH:

Respectfully represent the undersigned residents of Winchester that the Aberjona River is a natural water course running through the town, the shores of which are owned in part by the town and in part by various individuals.

That drainage, sewerage, filth, chemicals, and various other fluids and substances which are offensive to the public health have been and are now being discharged into the said river and its tributaries in the different towns through which they flow so that the waters of said river have become offensive, unfit for their natural uses, dangerous to health and a nuisance.

Wherefore your petitioners respectfully pray that your board will conduct an investigation of the sanitary conditions of said Aberjona River and its tributaries within and without the town of Winchester, examine into all nuisances, sources of filth, pollution or contamination thereof which affect the same or which are or may be dangerous to the public health and destroy, remove or prevent the same and make regulations for the public health and safety relative thereto.

WHAT AN OPTOMETRIST IS

Not frequently in headlines and reports in the newspapers an optometrist is called an oculist or an optician. This is misleading to the public.

An optometrist is one skilled in the measurement of human vision and in the correction of defective eyesight by means of properly adjusted spectacles, or eyeglasses. In every State in the Union and in Canada, an optometrist is examined, registered and licensed under the State laws, to practice the profession of optometry, as are dentists and physicians in their professions respectively.

An oculist is one skilled in treating diseases of the eye. Many oculists, or ophthalmologic surgeons, examine the eyes for glasses, as do all optometrists but the terms are not interchangeable.

An optician is one who makes or deals in optical goods, grinding of lenses or a fitter of frames. Some optometrists also are opticians in training or experience.

In the eyes of accuracy and fact, I hope you will be able to publish this short statement.

Dr. George S. Houghton,
Department of Administration, American Optometric Association.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, SEPT. 17

The Board met at 7:30 p. m. Present, Messrs. Byrne, Bateman Berry and Main.

The records of the meeting of Sept. 10 were read and approved.
Town Hall Building: The Clerk was instructed to notify the custodian of the town hall, Mr. Callahan, that no basket ball is to be played in the town hall nor any decorations requiring nails are to be put up in said hall without first obtaining permission from the Board.

Sidewalks (Corner of Washington Street and Forest Street): A report was received from the Superintendent of Streets recommending that the dirt sidewalk on Washington Street petitioned for by Mr. C. W. Wigginsworth (130 Forest street) be laid off time permits. He estimates the cost to be $150 and distance to be covered as 200 feet. This matter was laid over for one month.

Dangerous Corners: A letter was received from Mr. C. H. Young, 49 Calumet road relative to the need of putting a lighted beacon at the corner of Church, Cambridge and High streets. A letter has already been received from the Registrar of Motor Vehicles in regard to this matter and the Board at a previous meeting ordered the matter put on the docket again toward the end of the year when budget matters will be considered.

Myrtle Valley Parkway and 1st View Road: A report was received from the Superintendent of Streets in regard to the surface drainage condition at the intersection of the Myrtle Valley Parkway and Lakeview road, about which Mr. Clarence A. Warren wrote the Board under date of Sept. 5. The Superintendent of Streets states that there is a condition at the intersection of these streets which causes the water to stand in the Parkway gutter and states that "the remedy to be applied is to regrade a section of the Parkway gutter by raising it. The gutter in question is within the limits of the Parkway, and I (Superintendent of Streets) should assume it was the duty of the Metropolitan District Commission to make such changes." A copy of this report was ordered sent to Mr. Warren.

Curbing 1923 (Florence street, Corner Swanton Street): The matter pertaining to the proposed laying of curbing in front of property of Camilla Launzo on Florence street corner of Swanton street was laid over for two weeks.

Sidewalks Granolithic 1921 (Wilson Street and Highland Avenue): A petition signed by Harry L. Fillingim, 5 Wilson street; Forbes D. Smith, 7 Wilson street and Helen M. Jordan was received for a granolithic sidewalk in front of their properties on Wilson street and also in the case of the Jordan property a granolithic sidewalk also on Highland avenue abutting this property. This matter was ordered put on the docket when sidewalk budget matters for next year are being considered.

The meeting adjourned at 9:25 p. m. George S. F. Bartlett, Clerk of Selectmen

BRICKS AT 120 A MINUTE

Through the courtesy of Mr. H. K. Libby, Jr., of Forest street, associated with the Bay State Brick & Stone Company, a representative of the Star was privileged to inspect the big brick-making plant of the company at Groveland Monday morning. The plant is the largest of its kind in the State, turning out 60,000 cement bricks a day at the rate of 120 a minute.

The plant is situated on a sandy tract of land adjoining the Merrimack River, with the B. & M. Railroad running through the property. The sandy soil is ideal for the work and it is estimated that on the basis of 1,000,000 bricks a month, the property will supply material for the next 30 years.

Efficient, labor-saving methods make for economy in manufacture in the Bay State Brick and Stone plant. The sand is taken direct from the bank, in huge scoops, handled by power, at the end of long steel cables, and dropped on an endless conveyor whose buckets carry it to the top floor of the factory, where it is emptied into a long screening cylinder, which not only sifts the sand for brick-making, but delivers all sizes of gravel for roofing and other purposes, through convenient chutes. Sand is also sold for general building purposes, being loaded into trucks directly from the conveyor, without shoveling.

From the screener, sand is carried by gravity to containers, the right amount of highest grade cement added, and mixed in the mixer. Water is properly mixed in the mixer. Water is added in the mixer. Water is added in the mixer. Water is added in the mixer.

Huge, hammer-like steel plungers, striking a 300-lb. blow, compresses the cement-sand mixture into formed bricks—eight at a time—delivering them on long pallets. These trays, loaded on trucks, are wheeled into the steam-heated curing chambers. After proper treatment therein, the partially cured bricks are taken into the drying yard for final treatment. Moulded bricks are produced in four and one-half minutes from the sand bank to the finished product.

Bay State bricks may be used with safety and satisfaction within two weeks of making, an advantage that will be appreciated by builders generally. And their true, even surfaces and face allows for faster laying and easier handling by the mason.

The finished bricks are being produced in the gray color, at present; later on, white, red and buff colors will be added. It is interesting to note that these bricks may be manufactured to sell at much less than fire-clay bricks.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Every boy should have as good an education as he can get, but that depends on the boy, and not on his father. Don't forget that the man who earns $2000 a year and saves $100 is smarter than the man who earns $1000 and doesn't save anything. You can always get something for old rags and iron, but when time is gone its gone. It isn't so hard to know as we know as it is how we use it. Someone has asked the question: "When is a man the bigger for, when he is courting or running for office?"

WAYS AND MEANS

Of interest to every householder in the State is the following abstract from the report presented to the governors of the New England States at their recent conference in Boston by the Joint Special Committee of the Committee of the Commonwealth. The report stated in part: "The settlement just made does not solve our domestic coal problem. It will add to the cost of production, and an attempt will be made to pass on to the consumer this added cost. When the new contract expires, further tribute will be demanded, and can be obtained if anthracite continues to enjoy in Massachusetts and the other northern seaboard States an exclusive market, free from competition with other fuels. "We believe that the most effective way in which the passing-on to the consumer of the present wage increase can be discouraged, and further increases in price be prevented in the future, is by establishment of a market for competitive domestic fuels. "By reason of unlimited quantity and low price, bituminous coal is the chief competitive fuel to be relied on. Over half of all the people of the United States now use bituminous coal exclusively for domestic heating and cooking, and a number of households in Massachusetts have already adopted bituminous coal, or a mixture of bituminous coal and the steam quality of anthracite, for domestic heating and cooking. By so doing they have obtained better heat with less fuel and a large saving in price. The spread between domestic sizes of anthracite and bituminous coal is now not less than $3 a ton and we estimate that the people of New England, by adopting bituminous coal for domestic use, would save from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 a year."

THE POSTS IN THE CENTRE

To the Editor of the Star: In 1919, Mr. George A. Arnold and his son Robert filed a petition in the Land Court at Boston for registration of title to land on Mr. Vernon and Main streets and Railroad avenue in Winchester. The Selectmen at that time were notified of said proceedings by registered letter, one on Oct. 28, 1919, and again on Nov. 17, 1919. The Town counsel entered his appearance for the Town of Winchester in said proceedings on Nov. 6, 1919, but withdrew said appearance on Jan. 13, 1914, and on May 22, 1914, the Town was defaulted and a decree entered which (as is now claimed) cuts off the Town's right to a portion of its streets. The result is the public disgrace created by a public spirited citizen on Railroad avenue.

LET'S CHANGE THE SUBJECT

To the Editor of the Star: For some time past a great deal has been said about the poor, old Aberjona River. It seems as though the Winchester people had become so interested in this one subject, that they found nothing else to talk about. Nothing has ever been said about the top of our beautiful Back Street building with its crazy Jacob. I think that it would be an interesting subject to inquire as to the size of it. It is quite as noticeable as the "red" water of the river. Is it a newly discovered art or just the latest device for the decoration of public buildings? Interested that he was a good father, that he was a

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Malcolm Jones Found Shot in Head With Revolver

Malcolm Jones, 17 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones of Crest road, was found by his father in the early Sunday morning suffering from a wound in the head made by a 22-calibre revolver. Dr. Herbert E. Maynard was called, who ordered the boy taken to the Symmes Hospital, Arlington, where it was found that the bullet had entered at the temple and passed through to the other side of his head, where it was lodged.

There is no question but what young Jones shot himself by accident. He was semi-conscious when the doctor arrived, and when asked if it was an accident, nodded his head. He was taken to the Symmes Hospital at once, in order that an x-ray might be taken, there being no machine at the Winchester Hospital.

The revolver used was one which the boy's father had in the house. The family had supposed it to be in a drawer in an upstairs room. How the accident occurred is not known. It is not known when it occurred. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were out Saturday evening, leaving Malcolm and his two younger brothers at home. When they returned Mr. Jones entered the boy's room and opened the windows, but did not turn on the light. The next morning he heard Malcolm groaning and went into the room. At first it was thought that he had a nose-bleed, but examination revealed the wound in his head.

Winchester, the accident occurred on Saturday night or Sunday morning is not known, but it very possibly may have been the earlier period. There was very little blood and the other boy in the room was undisturbed and knew nothing of it until he awoke with his brother rooming at 6 o'clock.

Jones is a senior at the High School and popular among his playmates. Dr. Maynard reported the accident to the medical examiner after the boy had been taken to the hospital. The boy's condition is considered serious, but hope is held for a recovery. He has been semi-conscious at periods and has the use of his limbs.

Report this morning is to the effect that the doctors have not given up on Jones' recovery, his condition appearing to improve. An operation was performed to remove the bullet, which was unsuccessful, and no further effort in that direction will be made immediately. He is conscious and able to talk some, and his pulse and temperature are normal.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETING

A largely attended meeting of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce was held in White's Hall on Tuesday evening, President George F. Arnold presiding. An interesting talk upon the development and organization of merchants' organizations was given by Mr. William L. Cushman, district manager for the N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co., and Mr. Preston Pond gave a talk advocating a get-together dinner by the town for its employees, as well as giving an explanation of the zoning system as applied to Winchester. Mr. Charles E. Kendall of the Water department, spoke upon reforestation, its nature and the work done in this direction by the town.

PIERCE NOT BADLY HURT

On Monday evening as the 9:05 train was pulling into the Wedgemere station the body of a man was noticed lying on the walk near the tracks. The engineer stopped his train and found that Benjamin Pierce of 51 Cutting street was the man. His face was covered with blood and he appeared badly injured.

He was taken into the baggage car and carried to Winchester, where Fred Piccolo took him to the hospital in his truck. Piccolo was assisted by Thomas E. Fallon of Irving street and Philip McManus of Roxbury.

At the hospital Pierce was found to be badly bruised and scratched about the face, but not seriously injured. His injuries were the result of a fall as he was crossing the tracks just before the train arrived.

TRUCK STRUCK ELECTRIC

Bad Accident on Main Street Friday

A Mack truck, loaded with steel rails, colliding with a one-man electric on Main street Friday afternoon had a bad wreck, several people being injured. The truck, owned by David Likens of Lowell and driven by Michael Callery of Lowell, smashed the left front of the vestibule of the electric and four or five windows. Callery was pinned in between the car of the truck and the car and complained of pains in his chest, being taken to Dr. Ordway's office by Chief of Police McIntosh.

Two men were in the cab of the truck with Callery, Paul Kohenicki and Sandy Pallulu, both of Lowell. Kohenicki had his knee injured and cuts on his right hand and lips. Pallulu suffered injuries to his right arm. Callery, but later reports are to the effect that several of them have been confined to their homes.

The accident occurred near Symmes road, and that the consequences were not more serious than they were was a wonder, when the nature of the load carried by the truck is considered. The shifting of the rails smashed the cab on the vehicle and inflicted the injuries received by the three men in the cab. The wreck caused considerable damage, while the electric car was lifted from the tracks.

DOHERTY—LEAHEY

On Monday evening Miss Anna Frances Leahey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Leahey of 24 Grove street, was married to Mr. William Doherty of 100 Main street, by Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbon. The ceremony took place at 7 o'clock.

The bride wore a wedding dress of white satin with pearl and orange blossom trimmings, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Margaret T. Leahey, who wore a dress of jade green canton crepe, trimmed with white and pink ribbons. She carried a bouquet of Killarney roses. Mr. Charles W. Doherty of Woburn, the groom's brother, was best man.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents, taking place on the lawn. The residence is a part of the beautiful old Brooks estate on Grove street, and the spacious grounds were attractively decorated with Japanese lanterns. The musical program was rendered by the orchestra of which Mr. Doherty is a member.

The ushers included Mr. Daniel T. Leahey of this town and Mr. Edward M. Leahey of Woburn, both brothers of the bride. The couple were assisted in receiving by their parents, many intimate friends and relations attending to offering their good wishes.

The bride presented her bridesmaid with a green bracelet and the best man received the gift of a leather cigarette case from the groom. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls. The couple received many welcome gifts.

They left after the reception on a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., and will make their future home in Woburn.

ELKS START SEASON

Many Activities Planned by Winchester Lodge

Winchester Lodge of Elks will hold its regular meeting Tuesday evening, Oct. 2. This will be an important meeting, being the first session of this fall's activity, and a number of committees will make their reports on various matters.

The lodge is planning many events for this fall and has underway preparations of considerable import. The first social event will take place when the lodge will take its ladies to Marlboro. The affair will include a chicken dinner and a dance, which will be held at the Marlboro Elks' Home. This affair has been in process of preparation for some time. The chief at the Elks' Home in Marlboro is noted for the excellence of the chicken dinners, and a well-known orchestra has been engaged for the dancing. The party will leave the Winchester Elks rooms at Lyceum Building and go over and back by auto.

A series of four white parties are also planned, tickets for which are now on sale. These parties are to be held at Waterfield Hall on the Thursday evenings of Oct. 4 and 18 and Nov. 1 and 15.

Plans are also being made for a Charity Ball in the Winchester Town Hall on the evening of Thursday, Nov. 22. This is the event of the season and will be the first big affair to be held in the newly decorated hall.

In addition to the announced events, a committee is actively at work making arrangements for a smoke talk for the Elks and their friends. This will take place about the middle of next month, and an exceptional program is promised.

RESCUED AT WEDGE

Mother Saved Child From Drowning Yesterday

It is due wholly to her bravery and prompt action that Mrs. Francis Carson, of Wedge Pond, saved her child from drowning yesterday. The child, a boy named "Buddy," aged 3 years, was playing in the water when he suddenly sank. Mrs. Carson, who was standing nearby, saw him struggling and immediately jumped into the water. She held him up and brought him to shore, where he was revived by Dr. Robert L. Emery, who was summoned to the scene. The child is now home and well.

Mrs. Carson, who is 34 years old, has a husband and two other children. She has been married for 10 years. The child, "Buddy," was born on June 1, 1920. The accident occurred on Tuesday afternoon, September 25.

The child was playing in the water when he suddenly sank. Mrs. Carson, who was standing nearby, saw him struggling and immediately jumped into the water. She held him up and brought him to shore, where he was revived by Dr. Robert L. Emery, who was summoned to the scene.

The child is now home and well. Mrs. Carson is a member of the Winchester Elks Lodge. The child's name is "Buddy" (Francis) Carson.

Running to the door she saw him struggling in the water. She was crying and said Jack was in the water.

Wedge Pond at this point has a high bank, and it was not until she saw her child floating in the water about 15 feet out from the shore that she ran down the bank and into the water. She held him up and brought him to shore, where he was revived by Dr. Robert L. Emery, who was summoned to the scene.

How the accident happened could not be learned, for "Buddy" himself is too little to explain. Residents in the neighborhood who saw the child in the water, thinking that "Jack," aged 2 years, and Francis, aged 3 years, were playing in the water, saw them suddenly disappear. The child was heard "Buddy" (Francis) screaming. Running to the door she saw him struggling in the water. She was crying and said Jack was in the water.

CLAM BAKE THE 12TH

Much enthusiasm is being shown over the Clam Bake to be given Oct. 12th by the Benedict Club of Park avenue. This is the first event of the kind where the Club has issued a general invitation to everybody. In addition to active members, several former members are planning to be present for the occasion, and town people are assured a warm welcome.

There will be a hot steamed lobster for each ticket holder, in addition to plenty of clams, sweet potatoes, frankfurts, cider and other good things. Games for old and young and novelties will afford amusement during the entire day. The committees will do its best to accommodate all who come, but recommend buying tickets in advance, in order that all may be properly taken care of.

Albert S. Snow of 4 Park avenue is general chairman of the affair, and chairman of the committees are Richard and Fernandez, Diener; Kenneth Hall, Midway; Theodore C. Hurd, Sports; H. C. Parish, Decorating and Kingman Cass, Ticket. Tickets may be obtained at the Star office.

ABERJONA PETITION STARTED IN WOBURN

With the closing of the petition here for the cleansing of the Aberjona River, a new petition is being circulated in Woburn among interested residents for the same purpose. Woburn has not been credited with being particularly interested in the matter, but there are some families living in that city who have entered the petition and they are determined to add their word to the general protest.

A new news which was received at the Star office yesterday from a informant reported that some 500 names have already been signed to this Woburn petition, which will be presented to the State Board of Health within a few weeks.

ASSOCIATES HONOR ALONZO P. WEEKS

Banker 50 Years With the Merchants' National

Alonzo P. Weeks of Pine street, senior vice president of the Merchants' National Bank, 25 State street, was honored by the bank on Tuesday afternoon at a dinner given in his honor of his completion of half a century of service in that institution. It was the gift of his fellow directors and officers of the bank, who have been associated with him over a span of years. The presentation speech was made by President Alfred L. Ripley. Mr. Weeks replied fittingly and briefly.

The watch, the latest and also the thinnest, was a widely known watch factory, is in a platinum case of colonial design, simply but artistically engraved, inside the case is this inscription: "To Alonzo P. Weeks from his associates in the Merchants' National Bank of Boston, in token of affection and esteem, 1873-1923."

Mr. Weeks entered the Merchants' at an early age, when it was the largest bank in New England, and occupied a foremost place among all the national banks of the country. Before it was made a national bank, with its capital of $4,000,000, it was one of the largest banks in the country. He was cashier of the institution for a little more than 20 years and in 1908 was made vice-president, the first man ever to hold that office in the bank. He has seen many great changes among Boston banks, has witnessed a great many financial setbacks and has brought through it all a constructive influence in Boston business and finance. He is today one of the best known bankers in New England.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The 13th annual banquet which the Court held on Sept. 20th was the most successful event which the Society has held so far. Over 1000 witnesses and all were tremendously impressed with the wonderful address delivered by the Rev. James I. Corrigan, S. J., of St. Francis College, Boston. The Grand Regent, Alice Martin, was presented with a bouquet of beautiful pink roses. Much of the evening's success was due to the wonderful work of the heads of the various sub-committees: G. R. Alice Martin, Reception; P. G. R. Elizabeth C. McDonald, Entertainment; Miss Mabel Cote, Music; Miss Mary Martin, Decorations.

Sarah Cassidy is chairman of a hustling committee which will have charge of a table at the American Legion Carnival. Among the attractive novelties will be a beautiful dressed doll and a very handsome hand-made table scarf.

The charity wheel will be held at the regular meeting on Thursday evening, October 19th and will be accompanied by a sale.

ALONZO P. WEEKS

SELECTMEN'S MEETING SEPT. 24

The Board met at 7:30 p. m. all present.

The records of the meeting of Sept. 17 were read and approved. Fire Department (Firemen): A letter was received from the Chief of the Fire Department stating that he has received and accepted the resignation of John E. McNally as a permanent member of the fire department. Mr. McNally leaves the Fire Department to enter business in Philadelphia. The Board voted to approve the action of the Chief.

Jury: 1923: Another letter was received from the Commission of Jury Service asking the Board to appear and send a representative at a hearing to be held on Friday, Sept. 28 at 10 o'clock a. m., Room 222, State House, Boston for the purpose of discussing the annual preparation of the Jury list. This matter was referred to Mr. Byrne.

Town Hall Building (Grounds): Mr. Vincent P. Clarke, Commander of Post 97, American Legion, appeared to find out if the Board would grant the Legion permission to use the grounds back of the Town Hall for carnival purposes on the evening of Sept. 29. The Board voted to grant the Legion permission to use these grounds for these purposes.

Streets: Mr. Clarke also asked the Board if they would be willing, should the Legion so desire it, to close a certain part of Myrtle or Washington street for the purpose of dancing on Sept. 29. The Board voted to close, if the local Post of the American Legion desire it, Washington street from Myrtle Valley Parkway to Mr. Vernon street on Sept. 29 from 8:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. for this purpose of dancing.

The Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Clarke of this action taken by the Board and to ask him to let the Chairman of the Board know whether or not they will want the use of the street for the purpose of dancing on Sept. 29. The Clerk was instructed to notify the Chief of the Fire Department in regard to this vote taken by the Board relative to the possible closing of Washington street for dancing.

Church Street (Tree): A letter was received from the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, stating that at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held Sept. 18, 1923, it was unanimously voted that the Secretary should write Mr. John C. Martin, asking you to use your best efforts for the removal of the large tree on Church street opposite the Winchester Public Library, as it is a great obstruction and a detriment to public travel, and we feel also that the Town of Winchester is in danger of liability from serious accident to persons.

This matter was referred to Mr. Byrne.

Traffic Regulations (Signs): In the same letter from the Chamber of Commerce a request was made that the Board place a danger sign and a white line in the center of Forest street at the corner of the house of Mr. John Creamer. The Chairman called upon the Superintendent of Streets and ordered him to have a line placed on Forest street at the corner of the house of Mr. John Creamer. The Board suggested, but the Board felt that no danger sign would be necessary if this line is properly placed.

Signs: At the request of Mr. Bateman the matter pertaining to guide posts was ordered put over until such time as budget matters for next year are being considered.

Mystic Valley Parkway and Lakeview Road: Another letter was received from Mr. C. A. Warren relative to surface drainage conditions at the intersection of Lakeview road and the Mystic Valley Parkway. This matter was referred to Mr. Byrne to take up with the Metropolitan Park Commission.

The meeting adjourned at 10:30 p. m.

RIVER PETITION CLOSES

Will Be Sent to the State Board of Health at Once

The petition opened a month ago for the closing of the Abenigona River closes this week. Interested residents who have copies out should return them to the Star office.

This petition to be presented to the State Board of Health, is the expression of the desire of residents of Winchester, Medford and Somerville, together with members of the two boat clubs on Mystic Lake, that this body take steps within its power to compel the cessation of the pollution of the river by various factories and plants. These offenders are all located outside of Winchester, and as the water within the towns and cities where they are located is far from most of the dwellings, authorities in those places are not particularly interested in the nuisance.

Winchester, with the river flowing through its centre, gets the whole of its sewage.

Efforts thus far to have the nuisance remedied have failed. The Town has appointed committees and spent thousands of dollars on the river.

Although in a recent letter to the special town committee, the State Board has indicated its intention of standing pat in the matter, it is anticipated that the petition will receive recognition from this department, which has the power to remedy the matter.

WINCHESTER POST LAWN CARNIVAL

The Winchester Post of the American Legion is holding a lawn carnival on the grounds of their Legion House next to the Town Hall in Winchester this Saturday afternoon and evening. The committee has had the untiring efforts of all of the ladies' organizations in Winchester as well as the support of all the town merchants and the carnival will undoubtedly be the largest event which the Winchester Post has ever undertaken.

The V-D Veterans Band has been engaged from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 11 p. m. and there will be a great many booths where prizes of sweaters, blankets, dolls, umbrellas, candy, aluminum ware and other attractions will be awarded. The members of the Winchester Post will run the booths and the ladies' organizations are contributing and on these booths the Winchester Post members will assist.

Two soloists have been engaged to sing during the afternoon and evening.

A baby show and parade will take place at 3 o'clock at the Legion House and there will be three classes of baby entries, ranging from infants to a year and a half, from one year and a half to three and a half, from three and a half to five years of age. Ribbons will be awarded to the winners of the various classes and Doctors Richard W. Sheehy, Daniel Donnet and W. L. Brown will be the judges and will be assisted by Mrs. Gornley, the Winchester district nurse.

Dancing will be from 8 to 11 and arrangements have been made for an outdoor "bikie dance" which is another new event for Winchester.

The carnival is held in order to raise money for the building and furnishing of a memorial room at the Legion House in memory of the 12 Winchester boys who were killed in the service.

There will be interesting attractions for all ages and a very interesting program of entertainment has been provided with the hopes that as many people will attend the carnival as possible.

MEETING OF MOTHER'S ASSOCIATION

At the Winchester Mother's Association on Wednesday, Sept. 19, Mr. Clinton Farnham, principal of the High School, spoke about the new schedule. There are now five periods of 60 minutes each, 40 minutes for recitation and assignment, 20 minutes for supervised study. To avoid overcrowding in the lunch room, the students are divided into two groups with different hours for lunch.

Mr. Raymond Pinkham, principal of the Prince and Walden High School, spoke of the lack of ambition on the part of three bright college boys, taking a summer course of study. They failed to attain a passing mark while the older man, a football coach who dreaded the day when he might be "laid on the shelf" was ambitious and plodded along, attaining a good rank on examination day. Mr. Pinkham urged the mothers to be loyal in supporting the teachers.

Mrs. Hoffman, teaching first and second grades, told with interest how she permits the small children to choose parts of the day's program. They write and act little plays. The school housekeepers try to keep the room neat and orderly. She urged parents to instill a love of the beautiful and respect for the food.

Tea was served and a social hour was enjoyed by all present.

LETTER FROM INDIA

Miss Carolyn D. Smiley Writes of Interesting Events

Through the courtesy of Miss Carolyn D. Smiley, formerly of Winchester, we print this week an interesting letter from Ahmednagar, India.

Ahmednagar, India
Aug. 16, 1923

Dear Friends:

Today I seem to be engaged in matrimonial affairs. One of our missionaries has just been here to see if I had any suitable wife for a young man she is interested in but I had to send her away with no hope. Any minute now I expect a suitor to whom I am going to show a girl and hope he will like her and she him. His brother came the other day on this suitor's behalf, told me all he knew about his brother and gave me names of people who knew the man in question. I had to do a little investigating and now am ready for the final interview. But as he is not a Hindu, would he be a Christian? He is a preacher for the Salvation Army, has a small house, and receives the large salary of eight dollars ($8) a month. He is very anxious to marry someone who can cook for him and this girl can do that better than anything else. She is not bright in the least. She wants a husband so let's give them our blessing. When he comes they will not talk to each other, oh no! He will turn round and look at her and she side glances at him. Then she will hurry back to the dormitory to tell the gossip to her pals. That is courtship as you find it here in the Ahmednagar girls' school.

Miss Bruce has gone home to America on furlough so I am trying to fill place as principal of this school. I often smile at the numerous things one person is supposed to do here. When Mrs. ... went home, she handed over her three Hindu day schools to me. They are in different parts of the city so I ride round and round visiting them. My policy is to never let them know when I may appear. The accounts of this school, which Miss Bruce has bestowed upon me, are so small job, let me assure you. Suppose you had to run a big institution which involved about 2000 rupees every month and sometimes there was not even one anna in the bank. We can overdraw a certain amount from the mission treasury and pay it back when the government grant comes in but was he unto you if some big unexpected bill you have to meet.

Monday was a very exciting day. The minister in charge of education in the Bombay Presidency came to Ahmednagar. You would know he had studied in England the minute you looked at him—his mustache! Each end was curled so beautifully. We asked him to come to a special committee meeting at Dr. Hume's bungalow.

Some of our fine Christian young men, college graduates, are very anxious to start an intermediate college here for the Christian boys in this district. Living here is much cheaper than Poona and Bombay. These few college men are willing to teach at low salaries so that more of the boys can have a chance at a college education. The Minister of Education was not over enthusiastic but said that something like an intermediate college would have to be started here. The whole system of education will have to be changed before these intermediate colleges come into vogue. Also, government will have to boost of a larger budget than it has at present. At any rate, it is splendid to see some of our Christian young men eager to serve in this way.

This same day, we were invited to the opening ceremony of the new Hindu hospital for women and children here in Ahmednagar. The spirit of social service is growing fast among all classes of people, especially the Parses and Hindus. Several years ago, a rich man, Hindu, died leaving his large house and some money for a hospital. At last, it is ready for work. We were shown all through the house which fairly shone in all its paint and varnish. The rooms, which were formerly dark and gloomy, are filled with sunshine. A young Hindu doctor, Indian, is in charge and was so happy to show people everything. Her face lighted up tremendously when our mission doctor offered her help when needed.

The photographer was there on course and insisted upon standing up in a row for a picture. You could not blame him for wanting one with so many celebrities present—the handsome Minister of Education, the Collector of Ahmednagar, the head of the municipality, the wife of the giver of the hospital, and others. The picture was taken on the platform where we had a splendid chance to view the occasion. The theatre is divided into two main sections, one side for the men, the other for the women, and both sections rise at steep angles toward the heavens. But what are hundreds of steps when something is going on? An Indian crowd is most fascinating to watch. Every color of head-dress is present on the men's side while the women's section simply abounds in color, the saris are so varied and brilliant. This wealth of color goes so well with the keen, eager, brown eyes gazing intently at the platform. The head of the municipality opened the occasion with a short word of greeting in English. This was interpreted in Marathi. Then the lengthy speeches began, all on the same subject, the new women's hospital. The people were extremely interested and didn't mind sitting for hours and hours. I was much thrilled to hear two Hindu ladies talk and what they said was short and to the point. When the gathering began, some of us left, and were thankful to breathe fresh air once more. This month is full of holidays. The festival is going on. This is to commemorate the ending of the code Krishna and Radha. The latter was the mistress of Krishna. Both have them as long as the festival lasts. They are placed in a chair suspended from the ceiling, and swung by the hoist and his guests at pleasure. In the morning, the images are worshipped and offerings of fruits, sweets and cloth presented. Outside the house, crowds assemble and make a horrid noise with weird instruments of music, connecting the affair with all kinds of indecency. The children enjoy the festival because they can swing to their hearts content. Evidently swinging was a favorite pastime of Krishna's.

Today and tomorrow the Hindus are celebrating the festival, Nag Panchami (dragon's fifth). Snake worship prevails widely and we are not surprised that in a country infested with such venomous snakes, some protection from them should be sought. I will describe this in detail in my next letter because I am going to see the whole performance today and tomorrow.

School seems to be going on well. The inspectors for the Marathi side have come and gone. Their criticisms will appear next week. They told us they all thought the school was well run so I will know the grant will come as usual. The inspectors here are very friendly. The chief inspector was my first Marathi teacher when I came to India seven years ago so it is unusually friendly.

There are so many things to write about but I will leave them for next time. My thoughts go westward many times a day. I am so glad I have you there. We need the thoughts and prayers of our friends.

Most cordially yours,
Carolyn D. Smiley

TRANSJORDANIA: NEWEST INDEPENDENT ARAB STATE

Whether the newest Arab state to have its independence recognized by its Western title Transjordan or by its Eastern name, Kerak, it seems hopelessly out of touch with things American, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society, in regard to land immediately east of the River Jordan over which Emir Abdullah rules.

Perhaps it will bring the newly independent but very old country closer, continues the bulletin, to realize that its capital, now Amman, was once Philadelphia—the great-grand-uncle-grandfather of the half dozen or more Philadelphias, great and

Ancestor of Modern Philadelphia But it was only a mere matter of 20 odd centuries ago that the city took the name Philadelphia from its new lord, Ptolemy Philadelphus. It had existed as Rabbath Amman, chief city of the Ammonites, almost from the days of Lot, from whom the Ammonites are said to have sprung. It was after a victorious battle with these same people of Amman that Jephthah, according to the Biblical story, returned to the fatal meeting with his daughter.

When Transjordan is described as stretching from the Jordan and the Dead Sea toward the interior of Arabia one is likely to call up the picture of a hopeless desert. But much of the region is steppe land, a high plain supporting some flocks and even capable of tillage. Nomadism has long held the region in its grip, however, and it is as a sort of "chief of nomads" that Abdullah Ibn Hussein finds it necessary to rule. He holds his "court" not in a palace but in a group of tents which he moves with the seasons.

Was Center of Greek and Roman Culture

This land now given over largely to nomads is capable of development along staple lines as is shown by its past importance. After Alexander's Eastern conquests the cities to the east of the Jordan became Hellenized and the seats of prosperity and culture. In the second century before Christ Ptolemy Philadelphus built in the city which was given his name an extensive acropolis which in the Amman of today is only a mass of fallen columns and ruined walls.

Rome's sway over Philadelphia is shown by the ruins of a huge amphitheatre which seated 7000 spectators. In the sleepy Eastern town of today goats browse among the foundations of temples and public buildings, Arabian coffee shops lean against proud walls, and the Eastern species of the village louncher sits on over-ruined marble pillars. Emir Abdullah is showing some interest in the ancient structures of his capital, however, and is having the fairly well-preserved amphitheatre cleared of debris.

Amman is not inaccessible. Five hours by automobile over reasonably good roads through the sizzling valley of the Jordan suffice for the trip from Jerusalem to the capital. The Jordan forms the boundary line and across it is an iron bridge. Amman is only about 30 miles from the river, and as the crow flies is hardly more than 60 miles from Jerusalem. The Hedjaz railway, connecting Damascus and Medina, runs through the town.

Meaning Clear.

Richard had been ill, and although better now, was still in bed and required constant nursing. He called to his mother, but she happened to be busy and could not come, whereupon the lad began to sob as if his heart would break, wailing over and over again, "Nobody loves me but myself; nobody loves me but myself."

Deadly Germs Oddly Spread. Germs carried on the feet of birds and by currents of air are said to spread outbreaks of "foot-and-mouth" disease among cattle.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

Scientists say that gas is the only substance ever discovered or invented that will burn. What they mean by this is that solids and liquids called "fuels" must first be converted into gases before they will burn.

This is an important fact to remember about gas service. You don't have to do any of the so-called "converting" yourself. That is done for you at the gas plant. Gas is delivered to you as the essence of coal and oil, with all the dirt, soot and muss left behind at the plant.

Because gas is clean, concentrated heat, it does away with disagreeable smoke, grime, soot and ashes; saves upholstery, furniture and clothes; and helps us all to enjoy the good health that goes with a pure, wholesome atmosphere.
